THE MAN AND THE EDUCATOR
THE CLASS OF 1929 DEDICATES

This SYLLABUS

To the man we pay our tribute of respect; and to the educator we bow in recognition of the influence he has cast over our present and our future by his kindly personality, unselfish service, and good fellowship.

FOREWORD

THE primary aim of a publication such as this is to recall in after years our friends, our good times, our accomplishments, and our teachers to us. As we leave this school we also leave behind us the best part of our youth. We are on the threshold of a wider experience; we are leaving behind us our carefree, happy days. This book is given us to recall cherished memories and associations of that period. If it does that, it has accomplished its purpose.

ALMA MATER

O home of all our high school days,
When we have left these walls,
Thy name will ne'er in mem'ry's haze,
Be lost beyond recall.
Come students, friends, and classmates all,
Come join us in the song,
And make the echoes of this hall
Ring out with praises strong.

The passing years shall bring thee fame,
The world thy praise shall know,
More noble still shall be thy name
As far and wide we go;
The Red and Blue so dear, so true
Will never, never fail
But be led on the ages through
To glory—Hail! all hail!

CHORUS

Alma Mater glorious,
Dear Old Red and Blue
Hearty voices uniting
Pledge devotion true.
Louder still and louder
Swell the song and cry,
Hail our Alma Mater,
Old East Orange High.

THE SENIOR CLASS HISTORY

AS we, the members of this year's graduating class, leave our beloved Alma Mater, we enter into a new life of opportunity and possibility. A new sphere of opportunity we may say; for, from now on, more and more new roads to success will present themselves to us; whereby, through determination and concentration, we may attain the pinnacles of achievement. A new world of possibility we may say; for, truly, the choice of our course from this point on rests more largely in our own hands. Because of these things we readily perceive why our several careers must needs be dubious. The names of some of us may appear in honorable vestige; some of us may be world-renowned in days to come. Who knows? We might go on forever, supposing about our future history. Let us now retrace our steps taken during the past four years, that we may obtain a retrospective resumé of our development and record the occasions of this progress of ours for our own encouragement and others' criticism.

We have emerged from a brief process of evolution, during which we have been transformed from short-sighted grammar-school kiddies into less short-sighted (we hope) older boys and girls. In September, 1925, we brought our "gold" and "brass" to dear old E. O., and we are proud to say that our "gold" has been successfully refined, and our "brass" has been dipped so well in the best possible solutions that it can no longer be recognized as such.

Now we admit that when we were wee Freshmen, our role in school life was clown. Our every unsuccessful venture was attended by malicious laughter behind our backs and loving sympathy to our faces (sometimes). Our every unintentional sin was occasioned by the dutiful brotherly and sisterly advice of our "superiors" whose word we trusted implicitly.

After a few inevitable hard knocks, however, it dawned upon us that wearing socks was not a necessity, and we realized that trying to win the faculty's approval was not a little removed from manslaughter, but sensible procedure. We should like to serve notice that, aside from our occasional exemplifications of idiosyncrasy, we were a class well worth remembrance. Our participation in student affairs was diverse. Our presence was important in track, baseball, football, and basketball.

The best speaker in the Freshman-Sophomore debate, which, by the way, we won, was a member of our team. That year, due to the prowess we displayed in debating, a Freshman Debating Club was organized, and it was awarded a place on the Student Council. At that time we as Freshmen, had more members in the Student Council than ever there were before.

We improved the system of student government in study halls, a movement started by the Sophomores the previous year; and our system of judging offenders proved to be even more efficient than that of the Sophomores.

In 1926-1927, though branded by those who believed Noah Webster was to be commended on his definition of us, we proved to the world that we weren't so inferior after all. We maintained our talent in various phases of high school endeavor. We rendered our assistance to the Drama Study Club in the prize health play, and one Sophomore played a leading part in the operetta. We filled our places well in the Glee Clubs; and in sports—football, basketball, soccer, baseball, and swimming we turned out in rank and file, colors flying! A Sophomore broke two state records for the hurdles, and another one of our number scored many points for the swimming team. The Sophomore girls distinguished themselves in basketball and field hockey.

A Sophomore was elected Chief Justice of the Student Court, and our Sophomore Council was unparalleled as an organization of dignified efficiency.

In our junior year, those of us who were eligible; that is, the members of the Student Council or officers of important organizations, were appointed to fill places on the C. P. to preserve order in the corridors and to conduct the lunch lines. We handled our responsibilities with the versatility and assiduity of veterans.

We excelled in athletics and starred in the clubs and organizations of the school. A few of us won recognition as orators and debaters.

We were also active in our participation in contests. We were not wanting in our patronage of the social functions of the school; for the committee dances were well attended by members of our class.

It thus became our role to look down with an air of superiority upon our younger school buddies.

In this, our senior year, we are what good normal Seniors are according to the general rule: namely, dignified, proud, and important.

We delight to announce that the student government that was started only five years ago is no longer in the experimental stage. Our aim this year has been to improve this government as much as is possible with the cooperation of all the students. We feel that we have been fairly successful, for our student discipline is a close runner-up to perfection. Visitors commend us constantly for the neatness and order kept in our study halls.

Our cabinet system, started only this year by us, promises to develop our sense of responsibility and to increase the already remarkable efficiency of our government.

For those whose deportment in study hall is pernicious to our discipline's well-being there is a very fine Student Court which is efficient in every sense of the word.

The Mother and Daughter Dinner, the Senior girls' outstanding event of the year, has been a success, and has helped to keep school spirit at its height.

As for athletics, this year's class is renowned; for East Orange won the Bar-ringer-East Orange game! For this achievement alone, our class can not soon be forgotten! Not only in this gala event did we do our part, but in every branch of athletics our classmen show their prowess—in football, basketball, track, baseball, swimming, soccer, tennis, and cheerleading.

The various clubs of the school are receiving our hearty support. The Christmas play was very enjoyable and demonstrated how hard the participants had worked for the project's success.

Seniors on the Chapel Patrol are now wearing white buttons; so that, if offenders do not see the Senior, they will see the button and refrain from causing disorder in assembly. This student discipline of assembly is another of our steps toward the perfection of student government.

We have summarized, in a reminiscent vein, our outstanding achievements during the past four years, our brief sojourn at our Alma Mater. Of these achievements it is difficult to state which one looms largest in perspective, but we may safely and truly say that we have been a class of all around prominence.

NORMA THOMPSON.

JUNIOR CLASS

JUNIORS are often considered the most fortunate class in any school. To them belongs the intoxicating knowledge of heights attained—the ascent from the depths of the lower classes with its attendant struggles. To them for the first time comes the feeling of real importance and dignity. The members of the class of '30 are aware of their fortunate position; any one of them will tell you that he belongs to the class most favored of the gods because of the very fact of his being a junior.

There is no doubt that the class of 1930 has made an enviable reputation for itself in all things scholastic. Turning first to athletics, we find that the nuclei of both the football and the soccer teams were juniors. Juniors also formed important parts of the track and swimming teams. With the abundance of junior material which is on hand at present, the coming school year should be a successful one in sports. The class of 1928 in its last will and testament left us a legacy. To us fell the task of helping win the Barringer game. There is no need to elaborate. We did! The girls this year maintained and raised the high standard in sports which they had set as freshmen and kept as sophomores. Our girls have earned the reputation of being the most athletic and sportsmanlike class in the school. Their teamwork has been mentioned time and again in inter-class games. As a result, this year the girls who captained the basketball and hockey teams were juniors.

There is a fallacy current which attempts to prove that physical prowess and mental strength avoid each other, that they will not be found embodied in the same group of people. Ever since its freshman year this class has received a great number of scholarship monograms, and everything seems to point to its winning more this year than ever before.

The success of The News is due to the excellent writing of its contributors. When we inspect its personnel, we find that there are more junior reporters than there are of any other class. It would be wrong to say that this shows that a large part of its success is due to the junior class, but we might repeat what has been said before, that The News would be sadly handicapped without the reporters from the junior class.

There are many junior debaters who have successfully upheld their views on the platform. This has been so since the time when they as freshmen, first were taught the art of speaking. No dearth of speakers should be feared for next year with so many able and willing juniors ready to step into the breach.

From debating to dramatics is a natural step. We find that, naturally enough, in the first two years there were comparatively few of the present juniors entered in this activity. Several of the sophomores took part in the senior play of the class of 1928. This year the actors of the junior class are more abundant and have appeared many times before the school.

Members of the class of 1930 took a large part in the social activities of the school. As part of their newly-acquired importance, the juniors found themselves for the first time on dance committees and the like. All the dances were well patronized by the juniors, who deem it as much their duty as that of the seniors to attend these functions.

There is no doubt as to where the greatest thrill comes for the junior. When he can display his C. P. pin and order the frightened freshmen about, he is in his glory. This year the new upper-classmen rose to this responsibility as they had to others. We are sure no one can be found who will disagree when we say that this season the manifold duties of certain of the juniors as members of the Corridor Patrol have been efficiently carried out. In other branches of student government, such as the executive duties of the study hall chairmen, no person, we once more state, can find fault with their supervision, which has been carried on impartially. The junior class has also been well represented in the Student Council and Student Court. The success of student government in the hands of the juniors and seniors speaks for itself. Decidedly the juniors are not lacking in governing ability.

Do you remember, juniors, that day when we were herded into the auditorium for the first time? Do you still bear in mind what our principal said to us; that we should always conduct ourselves as gentlemen; that we should take on our shoulders the responsibilities which others had borne until then; that we should respect the school's institutions; and finally that we should obey its laws? You have followed these fundamentals, and you may pass on to your senior year with a record of which you may be justly proud.

The seniors are leaving us now. They leave to us their dignity, responsibilities, problems, and cares. They may rest assured that we, the juniors, the next senior class, will pick up their work where they laid it down and carry it forward with us in our progress to the point where we, too, shall be forced to relinquish it.

SOPHOMORE CLASS

WHEN the Class of 1931 entered East Orange High School, it was awed by the bigness of it. Its open-mouthed surprise continued, too, when it at once found that there was so much work to be done. The upper classmen sent many a poor Freshie on a wild goose chase, hunting for elevators, fourth floors, and other such things which never existed in the building. Imagine their surprise then, when the supposedly "green" Freshies quickly learned to outwit them. It is said that success goes to the head, and this was proved when these "mere kids", gaining confidence in their success, started to excel upper classmen.

During the summer of '28, the Class of '31 did not lose its brilliance, but just rested and came back brighter than ever. It went to work with a will, and found a way, soon proving itself capable of maintaining its good reputation. Many sophomores received honor slips for exceptionally good work. It was a familiar scene to see many girls in 214A translating Caesar during second lunch. Is it any wonder that students progressed rapidly when Latin was put before lunch? Of course there were some failures, but the percentage was small. At last the Sophomores were coming into their own. No more were they afraid to match wits with any upper classman.

While discussing studies, we must not leave out music. Good candidates for glee club and orchestra, two far famed activities, came from the Class of 1931.

In the course of time this class had their names registered in the different clubs. There were many who gave their afternoons to club work and did it because they enjoyed it, not just because they wanted the Sophomores to have their representatives in every activity. For the Christmas play there were many eager Sophomore actors and actresses.

Honesty! A small word, but a large meaning! This was and still is one of the many ideals of the Class of 1931. The Sophomore council has engaged in honest dealings at all times; the assistant chairmen in study hall have made truth their policy.

Dependability! Study hall chairmen could depend on any Sophomore to take attendance correctly; and teachers were glad to trust Sophs to do errands.

To judge the Class of '31 by these things was to think it rather a prim organization, obeying each major or minor law. But, no, the Sophomores were no angels. They had their share of summonses to court, detention, and failures. What class, however, doesn't?

Besides winning honor slips in studies, the Class of '31 also contributed its share to sports. Football was, and still is, the favorite game, and the Sophs, not to be outdone, sent their candidates for this year's great team.

Others, too light for football, tried to satisfy themselves by making the basketball, soccer, swimming, and track teams. The majority of the 1931 boys were too light, or not skillful enough for these positions. This did not deter them from aiding E. O. H. S. teams by encouragement on the side lines.

No one can say that the Sophs did not exercise their lungs at games. It was more probable, that they were so hoarse and exhausted on the following day that the teachers refrained from calling on them.

The boys were not the only ones interested in sports. The Sophomore girls formed basketball, hockey, and swimming teams. Although they were not quite so successful, they upheld the school's good reputation for good sportsmanship and were spurred on to make a harder fight the next time.

Sophomores are usually graded as conceited. There is a very good reason for the Class of '31 to be so. It entered high school fresh and untrained. It has gained for itself a high position in the minds of the faculty and fellow students. There are still new lands to conquer. Just watch the Sophomores in their rise to fame!

FRESHMAN CLASS

UPON entering East Orange High in the fall of '28, the former all-glorious eighth graders found to their utter dismay that they were now at the bottom of the pile—they were only Freshmen, and it would be four long years of struggling before they would again be on top and reign supreme.

To the various activities they responded with cheerful willingness and promptitude. Soon after the opening of school, election for the Freshman Council took place, and those chosen took their places to do their part in the machine of student government.

Hearty support was given the different athletic activities, several boys making the football and basketball squads, while several boys and girls displayed superiority on the swimming and hockey teams.

In the Freshman Debating Club a number of fine debates were held, both of interest and of benefit to its many members.

The Freshman Glee Club and Orchestra were unusually fine as shown at the concert given by them for the Freshman Open Night.

If this Freshman Class continues throughout the remainder of its four years as enthusiastically as it has started, the class of '32 will, without doubt, be judged one of the most active ever.

THE Student Council this year has not only administered its regular duties, but has also accomplished outstanding work in other lines.

Probably the biggest accomplishment has been its work on the handbook for East Orange High School students. This book, on which work was started two years ago, has been brought into such shape that it will be ready to be mimeographed by the end of this school year. The importance of this work is not to the present senior class, but rather to the school at large and the classes to come.

Another commendable piece of work has been the preparation of scholastic graphs for each home room. These graphs show each home room where it stands in comparison with the scholastic standing of the whole school. This work is something which other councils to come will have to carry on, but at least this year's council was the first to conceive and to execute the idea.

The Student Council also sent a delegation to the Hackensack Convention on Student Government from which many valuable suggestions were brought back to the whole student organization.

Then, too, the Council has investigated the awarding of monograms for non-athletic accomplishments. This matter has not been settled, but a start has been made toward a solution of the problem.

An interesting fact to note in regard to this year's council is its close contact with the class councils. In previous years there was no connection between the student and class council. This year, however, following a practice started last year, the president of the Student Council has reported to each class council the events of the Student Council meeting. This cooperation has not only kept the student and class councils in closer contact but also has brought about closer relationship between the Student Council and the student body.

The Council this year, realizing that the school's present constitution is old and is in need of many modernizing steps, has appointed a committee for the investigation of this important matter. This committee is not only authorized to modernize the present constitution, but also to investigate the advisability of reorganizing the Student Council. Although our Student Council has always functioned efficiently the present trend is toward organizing a council in a more representative basis. The final question to be decided by the present Student Council is whether our present plan of organization is the best. This question is a very important one which the council must decide to the best of its ability. In order to do this the council must put aside all prejudice and consider this problem as one which will affect the whole organization of Student Government in East Orange High School.

A final change to note is the appointment of Mr. Knight as faculty representative on the Student Council. This is Mr. Knight's first year with the council, but as we all know, there is no one better fitted for this position, as he is a most enthusiastic supporter of student participation in government.

Thus, we see that the council has been both active and efficient in its work throughout the year.

THE STUDENT COURT

THE Student Court, that august judicial body of East Orange High School, has completed its fourth successful year. This year, however, because of the previous experience of both the judges and the student body, the court has attained even greater success than ever before.

In the first year of its existence the court was composed of twelve judges, six boys and six girls. These judges met after school to try the cases of boys and girls brought in by the Corridor Patrol. The study hall offenders were tried by their respective class courts.

At the beginning of the second year, the class courts were eliminated, and six more judges were added to the Student Court, making a total of eighteen judges. At this time it seemed that greater efficiency might be effected by dividing the Student Court into two parts, a Boys' Court and a Girls' Court. These courts tried and disposed of all cases rising in study hall and on the school grounds.

Last year the court aimed for greater efficiency. Considering the past experience, it is not surprising to find that this hope was fulfilled. In addition to the organization of an efficient system, the Court established many precedents to aid in deciding future cases.

This year the Boys' and Girls' Courts became two distinct units, each headed by a chief justice. The number of decisions rendered by the Boys' Court far exceeded that of the Girls'. Both courts, however, succeeded in maintaining the proper dignity and in obtaining the respect of the student body. By so doing, it is hoped that the Student Court of '28-'29 has helped to place our government on a par with the best.

THE Boys' Debating Club has had this year, one of the most successful years since its organization in 1898. The large amount of oratorical talent developed in the club shows that its aim, to develop public speakers, has been most successfully carried out. Enthusiastic interest in the work is shown by the large enrollment, the largest the club has ever had.

Exceptionally interesting programs have been held at every meeting. The intra-club debates have been well prepared and well delivered. A mock trial was one of the features of the year's program. Extemporaneous speaking has been especially emphasized. A portion of every meeting has been given over to the presentation of impromptu speeches with the result that every member has become an adept in this valuable kind of public speaking. These unprepared speeches have been given before the intra-club debates and in the form of criticism after the debates. The social side of the club has not been neglected. The combined clubs held a very successful social.

In the first interscholastic debate of the year Robert Aitken, as a member of the affirmative team which opposed Montclair High School, spoke at East Orange on the question: Resolved, that motion pictures are detrimental to the community. The negative team, which debated at South Side High School, was composed of Donald Lincoln, Lester Kabacoff and Robert Shapiro, alternate. Donald Lincoln was voted the best speaker.

The only interscholastic decision debate of the year was on the question: Resolved, that the census of 1890 should be retained as the basis of our immigration law. Robert Hopkins and Agnes Eicks of the Girls' Debating Club with Seymour Goldberg, alternate, upheld the affirmative in the East Orange auditorium, and were awarded the decision against Irvington High School. William Weier of the negative team was voted first speaker at Hillside High School.

Donald Graham, Edward Stone, and William Christopher were in the last interscholastic debate of the year. The negative team opposed Irvington High School, and the affirmative team spoke against Summit High School at East Orange.

The club has cooperated on numerous occasions in community enterprises. William Weier spoke for the Red Cross at an Exchange Club luncheon in the Hotel East Orange. William Christopher was chosen to represent East Orange High School at the Chamber of Commerce night, March 19, at the East Orange High School. He spoke on the subject, Opportunities for Intellectual and Spiritual Life in the Oranges and Maplewood. The school also aided in the Welfare Federation Drive. A number of speakers prepared four minute talks.

In regard to the annual debate between the honorary members of the Boys' and Girls' Debating Clubs in the Delta Epsilon-Ken Mair debate, it may be said that the Boys' Club is confidently expecting its honorary members to win the seventh straight victory for Delta Epsilon. This year's new members of Delta Epsilon are as follows: Robert Aitken, Robert Hopkins, Lester Kabacoff, and William Weier.

The club has also helped the school by sponsoring the sale of East Orange High School monogram writing paper and assisting in providing chairmen for the chapel sessions.

The club sincerely appreciates the efforts of its adviser, Mr. John T. Greenan, and feels that the success of the club is due in a large measure to his work with it.

The officers for the first half year were: William Christopher, president; Holloway Robinson, vice-president, and Maurice Bernstein, secretary.

MR. GREENAN

THE Girls' Debating Club can review the activities of the past year with a feeling of satisfaction. In the first place, the membership of the club completely outnumbered that of any other year and proved to be one of the most enthusiastic groups. Some thanks for this large membership is due to the History Club, organized this year, which combined with the Debating Clubs. As the subjects which are discussed in debating pertain to history, community civics, and Problems of American Democracy, this union was decided upon.

The debates and speaking contests of the weekly meetings would certainly have impressed any one. Imagine the little sophomores learnedly expounding the merits of the Monroe Doctrine, and the accomplished juniors debating on the city manager plan of government. The skillful seniors, however, prove to be the most formidable opponents. At each debate, one half of a point towards Ken Mair was awarded to the best speaker and one fourth of a point to the second best. In almost every debate of the year, the judges were forced to exercise the utmost discrimination. When two points are won, the club members are eligible for Ken Mair, the honorary debating society, and receive their small gold owls.

More ambitious members have succeeded in gaining four points which entitles them to a guard for their pin. This year a new style of guard, consisting of class numerals, was adopted by the club.

Several Portias have appeared during the past year on interscholastic debating teams. In the first New Jersey Debate, held in December, the Girls' Debating Club was represented on the affirmative team by Edith Ogur and Frances Appell, alternate, who debated with Robert Aitken against Montclair. The question debated was: Resolved, that movies are detrimental to community life. Agnes Eicks was chosen to debate with Robert Hopkins against Irvington in a decision debate on the subject, Resolved, that the census of 1890 should be retained as the basis for immigration quotas. The decision of this debate, which was held in chapel on February 6, was unanimously in favor of the East Orange team. The negative side of this same question was debated at Hillside by a team comprised of Dorothy Kapelsohn and William Weier with Catherine Lamb as alternate. In the third interscholastic debate, Christine McSteen with Dorothy Johnson and Ruth Nelson as alternates were selected from the Girls' Club to debate in a triangular contest with Summit and Irvington on the question, Resolved, that capital punishment should not be abolished in New Jersey. Let it be noted that in this last debate ten girls tried out and only four boys. It is evident, then, from these accounts that the Girls' Debating Club has been well represented in interscholastic debates.

Besides these debates, the annual contest sponsored by the New Jersey College for Women was another important event. Agnes Eicks was selected as the best speaker from the Girls' Debating Club to represent her high school in this contest. "In Defense of Poetry" was the subject of her speech. This year the East Orange High School did not participate in the New York Times Oratorical Contest, so that those who had intended to enter it concentrated on other debating activities.

The records of the Girls' Debating Club point proudly to the fact that three of its members have been admitted to the National Forensic League. Dorothy Kapelsohn, Agnes Eicks, and Edith Ogur through their skill in interscholastic debating are now members of this national organization.

The achievements of the Girls' Debating Club do not end at this, however, for this year they have firmly decided to win the Ken Mair-Delta Epsilon debate, which is to be held in the latter part of the year. This is one of the most exciting debates. From each club the best speakers are chosen to form the rival teams. In spite of the fact that most of the previous debates have been won by Delta Epsilon, the girls are convinced that this year they will emerge victorious from this battle. It has been whispered that the only reason for these victories was that the brilliancy of the boys quite terrified their opponents. But the determination to be as eloquent as possible in face of this intimidation may win this debate for the girls.

Another important feature of the club is its social life. At Christmas a social was held with the members of the Boys' Debating Club which was, indeed, one of the most enjoyable events of the year. The teachers' lunchroom, where the party took place, was arrayed for the occasion with holly and other Christmas decorations. First, the members played bridge for which prizes were awarded, and then various other games which proved exceedingly amusing. When the refreshments were finished, dancing was the next diversion. The members of both clubs agreed that this was certainly the most enjoyable social that they had ever attended.

Altogether, the club feels that the past year has been one of the most successful. A great deal of credit is due to the excellent help and attention of the faculty adviser, Mr. John T. Greenan. In appreciation of the fact, the Girls' Debating Club extends to Mr. Greenan its sincerest thanks for the assistance and the time which he has so generously given to its members.

MR. PALMER

THE meetings of the Mathematics Club this year have centered around an eager group of students who, as juniors, evidenced their interest in mathematics and who now, as seniors, are the nucleus of the club. Through this organization, many have been given an opportunity of exploring those fascinating fields which are scarcely more than mentioned within the narrow limits of classroom mathematics. The primary aim of the club is not only to foster an interest in higher mathematics, but to give students a chance to do elementary research work along this line. For this reason, an effort has been made to have programs conducted by members of the club as well as by the faculty and outside speakers.

The loss of Mr. Mallory as faculty adviser has been more than compensated by the aid given by Mr. Palmer, who assisted Mr. Mallory in the work last year. The duties of the officers have been lightened by the enthusiasm shown by numerous other students. During the greater part of the year, the membership of the club consisted entirely of those seniors who were especially interested in mathematics. In March, however, invitations were issued to thirty juniors whose high school work had been of such a calibre as to indicate that the activities of the Mathematics club would appeal to them. These students have derived great pleasure and an interesting store of information from the meetings which they attended, and they are now equipped to continue the work next year.

The subjects presented during the year have ranged from the most practical, prosaic mathematics of everyday life to the most abstract but equally absorbing theories. Discussions have been given by outside speakers who have made an intensive study of their particular subject or by students who have a special interest in the topics they chose.

The discovery of fallacies gave the members a chance to put to use the knowledge they had gained from curriculum work, and several involved problems also occupied their attention. Short talks were given by students on such subjects as Russian peasant multiplication, the scales of notation, the perpetual calendar, magic squares, navigation, vector analysis, and the derivation of pi.

Graphs were discussed by two faculty members. Mr. Palmer gave the various kinds of graphs and showed the types of graphs which different types of equations will produce. In this talk he went considerably beyond the classroom work and solved problems which could be done in no other way. Mr. Dundon presented an entirely different phase of the subject—"Mathematical Curves as used to forecast growth on the basis of past development". By the use of various formulae, he showed the probable development of population; and interesting comparisons were made of the actual figures with the mathematical forecasts.

Perhaps one of the most popular meetings of the year was a joint meeting of the Mathematics and Engineering Clubs, at which a representative of the Monroe Calculating Company explained in elaborate detail the work done by the Monroe Calculating Machine. The interest of the students was aroused by these remarkable mechanical calculations and was further stimulated by a visit to the Monroe factory in Orange.

Harper Poulson delved deep into philosophical mathematics when he presented the subject of the ever-elusive fourth dimension. Although it is a topic so involved as to be far beyond the average comprehension, it was discussed clearly and fully in a most interesting talk.

The subject of non-Euclidean geometry, a geometry which has been built up by changing the parallel postulate of Euclid, was explained in some detail by Mr. Palmer.

It was the privilege of the club to have two well-known speakers; Professor Evan Thomas of the University of Vermont showed that all mathematics was merely a shortened form of counting. Professor John C. Stone of Montclair Teachers' College demonstrated the principle underlying the trick problems of mathematics which seem so mysterious to most people.

Lively discussions were held by the students themselves, and many diverse topics were touched upon. A hilarious picnic, held with the members of the Engineering Club, was the climax of a notably successful year.

THE Stamp Club has just concluded one of the most successful years of its short existence. The club has for its primary purpose the increasing of the student's knowledge and interest in the collection of stamps by familiarizing him with the habits of intelligent collecting.

The Stamp Club is one of the few clubs in the school that admit freshmen as members. This is one of the features of the club, and many freshmen take advantage of it. The meetings were held on the first and third Wednesdays of each month. At each meeting there were several talks given by the members. Each member of the club was expected to contribute his share to the program at least once and many of the older members, who have a broader knowledge of stamp collecting, gave more than one talk before the club. The speakers obtained information for their talks in the club's library which consists of a thousand or more magazines donated to the club last year by Mr. William L. Kinkaid of Ridgewood, New Jersey. The club also has a Standard Catalogue for the use of its members.

Another feature of the club was the auctions which were held at each meeting. Any student could place stamps up for auction. These stamps are sold by the auctioneer, a regular officer of the club, and a 10% tax is charged as a selling commission. This year the auctions were more lively than in previous years because of the selling of four complete collections of former members who were unable to continue collecting stamps. These collections, along with other duplicates turned in by other members, which were auctioned off constituted the most popular feature of this year's meetings. Most of the members of the club took advantage of this inexpensive manner of obtaining additional specimens for their collections.

This year the club had the honor of having two outside speakers. At the first meeting of the year, Mr. Sigmund Rothschild of New York spoke on a new way to collect stamps. His method was to classify stamps according to the subject which was illustrated on the stamp such as art, boats, etc. The other speaker was Mr. J. E. Skiff who has been a collector of stamps for over forty years. He showed the club a wonderful collection of British Colonial stamps and pointed out to the club many varieties that people throw away as worthless when he was a boy and which, today, are worth hundreds of dollars. Mr. Skiff's collection was really an unusual one and proved to be a great inspiration to the members of the club. In addition to these two outside speakers, G. Pryor Enke, Jr., the president of the club, showed his specialized United States collection. Richard Hardy and Thomas Wilson, two of the officers, also showed their collections.

Of course, the biggest event of the year was the social. This was held on March 6th in the teachers' lunch room. Games which tested the members' knowledge of stamps were played. The winners of the games received stamps as prizes. The best event of the afternoon was the serving of refreshments which consisted of substantial portions of ice cream, cake, and pie. Everyone had a good time and plenty to eat.

The club owes its successful operation to the faithful and tireless labors of the faculty adviser, Mr. Collins. Mr. Collins is a collector of stamps himself and therefore his interest in stamps is the same as that of the members of the club. It is through Mr. Collins' great efforts this club has become one of the largest and most active in the school. Of course, the officers of the club have to help, and the secretary and the collector auctioneer deserve praise for their splendid cooperation with the president.

THE Engineering Club was organized two years ago by a group of science students. The object of the club is to have demonstrations and discussions on many scientific subjects which would not be taken up in class. The requirements for membership in this club are that the student take either physics or chemistry and be generally interested in science. The club meets on the first and third Wednesdays in every month.

The topic of the first meeting of this year was caissons. Kenneth MacDougall gave an interesting talk which covered the subject completely. In the discussion which followed, many questions were asked. This led to an explanation by Mr. Marshall of the conditions under which the men worked and of the compression chamber. At this meeting a program committee of three was chosen with Seldon Steiger as chairman. It was decided to have two or three short talks at each meeting; a few of the more important topics, however, were given a full meeting. It was suggested that each member give at least one talk during the year, to which all members agreed. There was a great deal of work done by this committee in making arrangements for meetings and for the numerous trips taken by the club.

At the second club meeting Mr. Marshall gave a very interesting talk on the transit and its use. He had an instrument there and demonstrated the adjustments necessary before using. He used blackboard illustrations to show the method of finding true bearings and concluded with telling of several experiences of his own while surveying. During his talk Mr. Marshall described many of the problems in surveying for large buildings and bridges and the solution for each.

Other talks by members of the club covered a wide range of subjects. The Coolidge Multiple Dome dam was described, and each step in the construction was explained. The stars were the subject of several talks; the first on asteroids and their discovery, and another on meteorites and their composition. Another subject which received considerable attention was forestry; this was discussed from several interesting viewpoints, and the subject of reforestation was taken up.

One meeting was held in conjunction with the Mathematics Club at which time a representative from the Monroe Calculating Machine Company explained the construction and operation of a calculating machine. He demonstrated on a machine which he had, on which sections were cut away to show the operation.

Numerous interesting trips were taken to nearby plants in automobiles owned by members of the club. Thus it was possible to visit many new places which had not been visited before because of poor transportation facilities. The first trip was to the General Electric Lighting Institute in Harrison. Here the club was shown correct lighting effects and saw a moving picture of the manufacture of Mazda lamps. The next trip was to the Worthington Pump Company. The trip to the Oakanite Wire Company proved interesting because of the demonstration of the drawing of various sizes of wire. Another very interesting trip was to the Seaboard Coke Company. Several trips were also taken for those interested in aviation. The first of these was to the Fokker Assembling Plant in Passaic. Here the club saw several unfinished airplanes and the frame construction of a huge wing. The second of these trips was to the Wright Engine Company plant where the members saw how the famous Whirlwind and other aircraft engines are constructed. The final trip was to Newark Airport and was of great interest to all who went.

The Social, always popular with the members, was a great success. It was held on Friday, February 15. The club met and played checkers and chess and various card games for about an hour. Then after the members had consumed quantities of refreshments, they returned to the gymnasium and played indoor baseball.

Mr. Marshall deserves much credit for his work with the club. Its success is due largely to him. He gave of his time to the members to help them select topics and often gave them the references necessary for the preparation of their talks.

From this list of activities it can be readily seen that this year was a success; and since there are few requirements for membership, it is hoped that the club will grow to be one of the largest in East Orange High School.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS achieved a great deal this year because there were so many diligent and enthusiastic members taking part in the numerous activities of the club. The purposes of the club are many: to increase the member's knowledge of the French language, French life, and customs; to speak French entirely in the club so as to enable members to speak the language more fluently and accurately, and to take up the more enjoyable phases of French for which there is no time in the class room. The club, therefore, is not only enjoyable but also instructive and beneficial to the student.

This year the club has had for its faculty adviser Mr. Roberts, who helped to make the meetings very interesting and entertaining.

Last year the club conceived the idea of editing a small French newspaper. This was done very successfully and has been continued with equal success this year. The paper is edited and published entirely by the members of the club. It contains editorials, articles on events of interest, stories, and notes on social, musical, dramatic, athletic, cinematic, and club affairs. There are also amusing cartoons and French jokes. This little paper has been thoroughly enjoyed by every member of the club.

This year instead of having each modern language club give a separate chapel program, the whole modern language department gave a combined program which proved most interesting and entertaining both to the faculty and to the student body.

Throughout the past school year different members of the club have presented various French plays. These were amusing and were greatly enjoyed by the club.

In addition, the club has played a number of games, such as guessing games, memory games, and "les petits papiers" entirely in French.

Several times outside speakers have come and addressed the club. At one meeting Miss Adams told of part of an excursion which she took two years ago to a little French village. The village festival, the ceremonial costumes of the peasants, and their ceremonies were described in detail. Her talk was most interesting. Miss Dickson, who edits a French paper for French students, came to speak before the club, and her talk proved entertaining.

The club feels that it has enjoyed a prosperous and worth-while year and hopes that in future years just as much enjoyment will be derived from it by its members.

THE year 1928-29 was a successful one for the Spanish Club. "El Toro", the club newspaper came out regularly with news items, entertaining features, and comics. Work on this publication was entirely a club affair, and all enjoyed taking part in its production. The editor for this year, Mabel Apgar, contributed much toward the excellence of the paper.

The club this year encountered some difficulty in preparing programs for the meetings due to the youthfulness of some of the members, but as a whole the meetings were quite successful. The rule which allowed only the speaking of Spanish was enforced during the past year, and the practice of having short talks by members at the beginning of each meeting was inaugurated. A musical program was presented in chapel and was very well received. A trip was also taken to the Spanish Museum in New York, a popular place for those interested in Spain and the Spanish world.

The annual social was held in the teachers' lunch room. Games were played, speeches were given, and refreshments were consumed.

The tendency for the Spanish Club in the future will be to allow more freedom of action on the part of the members and less on that of the officers. This principle has been proven sound and will be adhered to strictly.

Much credit for the success of this year's club is due to the efforts of the faculty adviser, Mr. Garcia.

In providing a medium wherein those interested in Spanish may express themselves in a manner satisfactory and gratifying to all concerned, the Spanish Club is doing a noteworthy thing.

THIS year the aim of the Art Club has been to arouse an interest in civic beauty. The members have been especially interested in natural beauties of the Oranges, which have been marred by commercialism. Billboards, inartistic vegetable and fruit stands, and the lack of artistic apartment houses in this vicinity were topics of animated discussion.

On the twentieth of March an interesting debate was held, the question being, "Should We Have Fruit Stands Along Public Highways?" The affirmative was upheld by Alden Smith and Beatrice Miller, the negative by Dorothea Larson and Betty Roesch.

Leonard Kahn's speech on "How to Keep the Roadside Attractive", Boyd Maddock's plan for an artistic gas station, and Helen Gathany's paper on "The Ideal City" were enthusiastically commented upon and showed how much the club had gained from its study of the architecture of the Oranges.

Annual trips have been made to the Metropolitan, Newark, and Montclair Museums.

The outdoor sketching was enjoyable. The outstanding products of the trip were Marjorie Meyer's sketch of a corner of Orange Park and an architectural sketch by Alden Smith.

One of the outstanding features of the year was shadow pictures portraying the characters of the "Mother Goose Rhymes". Special emphasis was laid on the artistic poses and the costumes. The club is greatly indebted to Mr. Sawyer for photographing these silhouettes.

THE tenth season of the Drama Study Club has been just as successful as former ones. The Dagger and Masque Club has met with the Drama Study Club this year, and together they have accomplished a great many things.

Aside from the regular program devoted to the study of the drama and the dramatists in many countries, the club was extremely fortunate in having several very interesting speakers. Two alumni, Miss Joyce Channing, and Mr. Durand Taylor, gave very interesting talks, the former on her experiences with small theater organizations, and the latter on the Japanese theater and drama as it impressed him while he was in that country. He kindly brought with him a scrap book of his travels and several other articles of interest which he showed to the club. The faculty very graciously added to the pleasure and profit of the year. Miss Corse reviewed the French theater and drama, and Mr. Garcia narrated the rise and fall of Spanish drama from its beginning with the Church through the twentieth century. Art in the theater, particularly the American theater, was discussed by Miss Hackett who has traveled extensively and brought into her talk many interesting incidents of her trips.

Two very successful productions were given before the school, one at Thanksgiving and the other at Christmas. A Thanksgiving Humoresque was unique and a great surprise to all who expected to see the usual type of play. It has been said that The Christmas Child Comes In is the finest Christmas production ever given by our high school students. Regardless of whether or not this is true, it was received in a highly gratifying manner.

The interest in plays became so great that it was determined to see some professional acting. Accordingly, a theater party was formed to see The Yellow Jacket, a remarkable Chinese play presented by Mr. and Mrs. Coburn at their theater in New York. Mr. Files was kind enough to excuse those who went early, and there was time for a delightful luncheon in New York before the play began. Through the courtesy of Mr. E. H. Southern, the club was a guest at one of his delightful recitals in Town Hall, New York, at which he gave remarkable interpretive readings.

This year's Drama Study Club lived up to the charitable reputation established by its predecessors by generously giving toys and other appropriate gifts to the Orphan's Home at Christmas.

SECRETARIAL CLUB

THE Secretarial Club has been very active this year. Its meetings have been held with a great deal of success, and the accomplishments have been interesting as well as instructive.

The first meeting of this organization was held September 28, 1928 for the purpose of electing officers. A Program Committee consisting of Margaret Schumacher, chairman; Dorothy Overbeck, and Grace Goodnough was also elected besides the Entertainment Committee of Dorothy Dietrich, chairman; Hazel Dockerty, and Elizabeth Curry. The girls arranged for a social on Friday, October 26, in the teachers' lunch room. The faculty guests, Miss Irwin, Miss Ordway, Miss Stacey, Mr. Towle, and Mr. Filiatreault, as well as the students took part in the games that were played. Dancing accompanied the games; and after the refreshments and more entertainment had been contributed by the members, the meeting came to a close.

A special attraction was provided at the next meeting. Mr. Williamson of the Chamber of Commerce of the Oranges and Maplewood gave a talk to the girls. The subject was "Opportunity in Business in the Vicinity" which proved very interesting as well as beneficial.

DURING the past year the Freshman Debating Club has attempted to increase its usefulness to those freshmen who wish to develop the ability to debate and to speak before an audience. A feature of the regular meeting, besides the scheduled debates between members, has been the extemporaneous speeches in which all have taken an active part. Under the leadership of its president, Bert Carlson, the membership has increased to thirty-two as compared to eighteen last year. Arrangements have been made to give one-half point of credit to those attending all the meetings.

The annual social of the club was held in the teachers' lunch room in February. The members enjoyed themselves with games and dancing; refreshments were served by a committee of the girls from the club.

The regular debate between the sophomores under the guidance of Mr. Greenan and the freshmen under Mr. Blom's supervision was held in chapel on Thursday, April twenty-fifth. The subject for debate was: Resolved, that the United States should abandon the Monroe Doctrine. The sophomores took the affirmative side of the question and the freshmen the negative. The victorious freshman team was composed of Joseph Millimet, Captain; Louise Ogur, Mary Byrne, alternate.

THE GLEE CLUBS

COMPOSED, as they are, of a larger part of the student body than probably any other student organization, the Glee Clubs feel that in a unique way, they represent the finest ideals of East Orange High School. Only the highest type of school spirit, united cooperation, and personal diligence, could make possible the work of these clubs. It would be misrepresenting their true purposes if their accomplishments were to be measured only by the programs that they have presented. Reaching much farther than this, even into the great musical world of which many of their members will undoubtedly become a part, is the appreciation and love of good music that is instilled into the members. In no small way, the training received in the East Orange High School Glee Clubs has led to an increased recognition of the lasting value and true worth of the finer types of classical music.

No better example of this appreciation of musical classics can be found than that of the several concerts which have been given before the chapel audiences during the past year. Solo, duet, and quartette numbers, both from the finer works such as the Messiah and also from those of a lighter nature such as negro spirituals, were alike received with enthusiasm. These programs also revealed, through solo presentations, a number of exceptionally fine voices, especially among the sopranos and altos.

The voice classes, which were organized last year, were continued on an even larger scale this year. It is impossible to overestimate the true worth of these classes. Here, in these small groups, many students learned for the first time the correct use of their voices. Individual attention was emphasized and particular stress laid on the correction of mistakes which young singers, especially, are apt to make. The personal contact made possible by small classes also served, in a real way, to increase the spirit of cooperation between conductor and students. A new feature in the Boys' Glee Club was the Male Quartette. Personally coached by Mrs. Archer, this organization also gave evidence of her ability to impart to others distinctive interpretation of music. Both in concert and chapel programs, the quartette has sung such numbers as The Long Day Closes, The Clock Song, I Got Shoes, Go Down Moses, and The Little Red Drum.

At Christmas time, the Glee Clubs made their annual appearance in conjunction with the Christmas Play. On this occasion many traditional tunes were sung. In no small way, these songs helped to express the finer spirit of the season, and the whole-hearted manner in which the Glee Clubs caroled before the city officials at the City Hall following the school program displayed the enthusiastic spirit of the singers.

The first public appearance of the Glee Clubs this year was in a combined concert with the High School Orchestra on March first. Following an introductory march by the orchestra, the Glee Clubs sang a group of five numbers: The Mexican Serenade by Chadwick, How Glad with Smiles by Gluck, Gaul's Carol of the Russian Children, A Rondel by MacFarlane, and the famous spiritual Swing Along by Cook. Later the Girls' Glee Club sang three delightful melodies, first, the Chilean Folk song, River River; then Hark, Hark the Lark by Schubert; and finally the Spinning Chorus by Wagner. Besides two numbers by the Male Quartette, there was the well known Song of Victory rendered by the united Glee Clubs and providing an unusually fine tone combination. By its hearty applause, the large audience reflected the value of the work done. The Girls' Glee Club, especially, showed exceptional ability in its tonal quality and artistic interpretation.

The crowning point of all the year's work, however, was attained during National Music Week when the combined clubs appeared in their final concert of the year. The accomplishments of this evening alone were more than a worthy contribution to the development of musical appreciation in the community.

The great efficiency of the Glee Clubs emphatically shows one thing, the capability of the conductor, Mrs. Archer, and of the accompanist, Mrs. Gearhart. They have been tireless in their efforts to round out a Glee Club which is worthy of representing East Orange High School. The Glee Clubs and the student body as a whole have no ordinary feeling of gratitude toward Mrs. Archer and Mrs. Gearhart for their unbounded interest in developing in this school the love of good music.

ORCHESTRA

TO the lower-class orchestra of 1928-1929, a very heavy responsibility and a proud record is handed down by the Senior Orchestra. The Senior Orchestra was intrusted with a very worthy and proud record by the orchestra of the year before, and it kept this record clear, establishing many new and higher standards for the lower-class orchestra to uphold.

Of the full orchestra consisting of fifty-six pieces, twenty-three members were Seniors, while sixteen were Juniors. Very few of the orchestra are left to continue their membership next year, and so it will be necessary to rebuild an entirely new orchestra for 1929-1930.

The same difficulty has been encountered every year by Mr. Herfurth, director of instrumental music, because of the fact that he would no sooner succeed in building an orchestra of merit than it would be broken up by the graduation of a large number of players. Mr. Herfurth has met the occasion, however, and the orchestra of 1928-1929 proved no exception to the run of splendid orchestras that we have had every year.

Two bassoons were added to the orchestra in the early part of the school year, and a Sousadnone was purchased by the school as well.

The orchestra had many outstanding offers for engagements during the year, so many in fact, that all of them could not be filled. A few of the more important ones, however, that were met will be mentioned here.

From November 8th, to November 11th, 1928, a group of 135 musicians (of which 34 were from East Orange—the largest representation of any high school in the state) met in Atlantic City for the purpose of organizing the first All-State Orchestra. This orchestra represented the pick of musical talent from practically every high school in the state, and we may be justly proud that we were able to send such a large number. On Saturday evening, November 10th, the first concert of this orchestra was held in the Atlantic City High School Auditorium, for the State Teachers' Association.

The concert was thoroughly enjoyed and praised in many parts of the state, and each member of the orchestra received a small gold pin in recognition of his being a charter member of the All-State Orchestra movement.

On February 13th and 14th, the orchestra presented its concert in the regular chapel period. The numbers played were the same as those played at the Children's Concert on February 20 and 27th. The concert proved so popular with both chapel audiences that a similar concert was held on May 1st and 2nd.

The Children's Concerts proved exceptionally interesting this year, and each afternoon the orchestra played for a capacity house. It was necessary this past year, because of the large number of children who wished to hear the orchestra, to repeat each concert twice, so that all might attend. The selections played were previously studied by the children at their own school.

The Chamber of Commerce of the Oranges and Maplewood invited the orchestra, as it does every year, to play at its annual banquet at the Hotel Suburban on February 27th. Many distinguished men of the Oranges were present, and the orchestra was praised very highly for its splendid playing. The Chamber also requested Mr. Herfurth to compose a new march for them. The march was played for the first time in public at that date and was named "Confederation".

On March 1st, the orchestra gave a combined concert with the Boys' and Girls' Glee Clubs, in the auditorium. A large portion of the receipts was used to buy new instruments for the orchestra.

The annual concert of the orchestra was held on May 8th, in the auditorium, before a large invited audience. This concert proved one of the most appreciated of the many appearances of the orchestra during the entire year.

The state contest for orchestra and band will be held at New Brunswick again this year. The orchestra, after such a successful season, has every reason to believe that it will come out a winner. Last year, the orchestra came out a very close second, being edged out by the Atlantic City High School orchestra. The orchestra will go to New Brunswick prepared to put up a very stiff battle against the other orchestras from various parts of the state.

The East Orange High School Band needs very little advertising. It appeared at every football game of the year, with one exception, played in chapel, fulfilled many engagements, and is well known. It assisted at the laying of the cornerstone of the new city hall and post-office and played at many other public functions.

ALTHOUGH it cannot boast of an unblemished record, this year's team may well consider its season highly successful. A stiff schedule of eight games was played of which five were won, two lost, and one tied. The greatest achievement of the season came in defeating Barringer for the first time in seven years. This long-denied triumph came, however, only after one of the most bitterly fought games ever played at Ashland Field.

A wealth of material was left from last year's team, and a large squad responded to the first call for practice. Under the able direction of the coaching staff, this squad was whipped into shape for the first game with Hackensack. The visitors showed a flashy brand of aerial attack which was quickly smothered by the alert Red and Blue team only to break out again in a dangerous fashion near the close of the first half. The timekeeper's whistle saved the Red and Blue from being scored on. At no other time in the game did Hackensack threaten, and East Orange piled up a comfortable margin on runs by Anderson, Jones, and Abrams and a spectacular thirty-eight yard field goal by Jones. East Orange played straight football with very few forward passes and had the better of the argument all the game.

In its next appearance the team played one of the best games of the season against South Orange. The first half was scoreless although East Orange barely missed scoring a field goal from mid-field. Soon after the start of the second half, by a series of runs and a costly penalty to the visitors, East Orange placed the ball on the one-yard line from which point Scriggins crashed through for a score. Gil Jones added to this score with a spectacular field goal from the forty-two yard line, and Cap Johnson clinched the game with a forty yard broken field run through the South Orange team. The Red and Blue showed power in stopping Columbia's last minute attack. East Orange played a superior game throughout and displayed a strong line, a powerful backfield, and an excellent kicker.

The next opponent was Phillipsburg, conqueror of Barringer and undefeated contender for the state championship. East Orange took the offensive at the start of the game and never relinquished it thereafter for any length of time. Taking advantage of Phillipsburg fumbles and aided by clever running by Cronen, the Red and Blue ran up twenty-seven points to none for the visitors. Phillipsburg was completely outclassed and never threatened to score. East Orange carried the game into Phillipsburg territory and kept it there. Almost invariably Phillipsburg was forced to punt from deep within its own territory, and the Maroon team had to put up a stubborn defense to keep the score as low as it did.

East Orange's first game away was played against Dickinson at Jersey City. The game was hard-fought and East Orange's victory came through a recovered fumble. The first half was a punting duel with East Orange faring poorly because of the absence of Jones. Dordleman's recovery of a Dickinson fumble and the ensuing dash gave the Red and Blue a 7-0 lead at the half. Dickinson displayed a baffling forward passing attack which netted a touchdown. East Orange's attack seemed to be sluggish and to lack pep. Late in the final quarter, after Dickinson had made a dangerous advance, the Red and Blue offensive regained its snap, and Dordleman put the game on ice by scoring from the sixteen yard line after a sustained drive from the East Orange thirty-five yard line.

East Orange's string of victories was snapped by Plainfield in a bitterly fought game which drew a crowd of ten thousand spectators. East Orange had three chances to score, but Plainfield's line proved impenetrable. Much of the play during the first three periods was confined to the zone between the thirty-yard lines, every inch of which was stubbornly contested several times by both teams. Like the Red and Blue's other opponents, Plainfield uncorked a forward pass attack in the final period which almost proved successful. The game ended a scoreless tie, highly unsatisfactory to both sides hitherto undefeated, but with Plainfield pressing hard for a decisive score. This game, practically eliminated both Plainfield and East Orange from the race for the state championship.

The hard game with Plainfield appeared to tire the team, for it played a listless and mediocre game against the alert Kearny team. The Red and Blue scored first in the opening quarter and later in the last quarter, but the outcome was never in doubt after Kearny scored twenty points in the second quarter on smart playing and clever open field running. The East Orange team looked stale and played anything but a wide awake game. The scoring punch was lacking, and even the early lead, acquired on a recovered punt, was not enough to stave off Kearny's attack. Near the end, when the reserves were in the game and Kearny was satisfied with its lead, some of the much needed pep was shown and another touchdown scored.

Incensed by a defeat at the hands of Kearny, the Red and Blue team put up a great fight at Montclair the next week only to lose a heart-breaking game 9-7. Montclair scored first on a drive from the twenty yard line after a long run. East Orange came back strong with a forward passing attack which brought the ball to the Mountaineers' five yard line where, with a score imminent, the half ended. Taking advantage of a Montclair fumble, the Red and Blue pushed across a touchdown in the third quarter and added the extra point to take the lead 7-6. With both teams striving to make the decisive score, Montclair succeeded in getting in position for a drop kick. Ask booted a low kick which hit the crossbar and bounced over. East Orange set up a last minute passing attack, but the Montclair defense succeeded in preventing any further score.

The annual classic with Barringer was played at Ashland Stadium before a crowd of thirteen thousand spectators. The game itself had few spectacular plays but, nevertheless, furnished the spectators with an abundance of thrills. After several exchanges of punts East Orange gained possession of the ball on Barringer's thirty-five yard line. From here Gil Jones repeated his former performances and neatly placed the ball between the cross bars to place East Orange in the lead. In the second quarter Barringer opened its bag of tricks and made liberal use of its aerial attack in which it is always so skillfully versed. The onslaught was stopped by a mighty effort on the one foot line, and Jones kicked out of danger.

East Orange came back strong after the intermission and launched an offensive drive featuring Weisgerber and Scriggins that was stopped only three yards from a touchdown. These two plunging backs tore the Barringer line wide apart and marched fifty yards without a break. Weisgerber failed by inches to make a first down on the three yard line. So close was the decision that a patrolman's stick had to be used to measure. Barringer attempted to kick out of danger, but through some miscarriage the pass was dropped, and Schroeder tackled the receiver for a safety. Barringer, now on the short end of a 5-0 score opened up a desperate forward passing game which was checked successfully until the game ended.

It is hard, indeed, to pick out individual stars where so many played excellently. We must mention, however, the fine all-round playing of Captain Dordleman; the strong game put up at center by Captain-elect Frankel, who was one of the towers of strength on the line; the consistently good defensive play of Art Lange, giant linesman; the proficient kicking of Gil Jones to whose educated toe the team owes a great deal of its success; the powerful line bucking of Scriggins, Weisgerber, and Abrams, who knifed many yards through opposing lines; and the great defensive ability of the line as a whole. Too much credit cannot be given to the coaching staff for its tireless efforts in perfecting the team's play.

WHEN Coach Benatre issued the initial call for candidates for basketball this year, he was faced with the problem of finding capable men to fill the center and the two forward positions left vacant by graduation. Fred Morton, lanky center of last year's Junior Varsity, developed quickly to fill the position left vacant by "Pug" Montgomery. Captain Al Fehn and "Bus" Steinberg re-established themselves as a reliable pair of guards. The forward positions, however, were not so easily accounted for, and considerable experimenting was done in an effort to obtain a combination that would develop into consistent scorers. For the greater part of the season Brueno, Jackson, Astley, Egan, and Cummings were alternated in an effort to uncover a winning combination. Toward the close of the season Clark, a second team forward, was tried, and quickly proved his worth. With either Brueno or Jackson as his running mate, the team's offensive showed steady improvement.

Always a strong team on the defense, the inability to score steadily proved a heavy handicap and caused the loss of several games by close scores. The attack was pivoted about Fred Morton at center, full advantage being taken of his extreme height and reach.

In a preliminary game with the Demropers, a strong church team composed of alumni, the East Orange team was decisively beaten 33-19. Steinberg turned in a good all around performance.

In the first official game of the season, the Red and Blue was defeated by a fast West Orange team 17-9. This defeat was due to the inability of the forwards to score. Steinberg played well on the defense, and Morton played a good floor game.

In the second game of the season, however, East Orange hit its stride, beating a fast South Orange team by the score of 24-20. Columbia led 13-12 at half time, and the lead continued to change hands frequently until the closing minutes when the Red and Blue drew ahead with a flurry of field goals. Jackson played well on the offensive, while Steinberg and Fehn turned in a good defensive game.

Kearny, the next team to oppose East Orange, proved an easy victim. The Red and Blue offensive machine functioned well, while that of Kearny could not get started due to the air-tight defense which it was forced to face. The East Orange team started scoring early in the game and never ceased. The score at the half-way mark was 19-7, and at the final whistle had been increased to 34-10. Morton, Jackson, Astley, and Brueno all played well on the offensive.

East Orange played well against Montclair, but did not make the most of its opportunities to tally. The score was very close throughout the game, but Montclair finished strongly to win 18-15. Fehn played well for East Orange.

A powerful Plainfield quintet handed the Red and Blue courtmen another set back to the tune of 21-12. East Orange fought gamely, but was not able to keep the stiff pace set by the boys from the Queen City.

In the next game, the East Orange aggregation invaded West Orange firmly determined to avenge their previous defeat at the hands of the Mountaineers. Although they tried hard, they fell just short of their mark. Although the Red and Blue led at half time 10-9, the West Orange team gradually pulled ahead. With but a few minutes to go, however, Steinberg thrilled the followers of the Red and Blue with two brilliant field goals from mid-court and a free throw, making the score 20-21 with West Orange still in the lead. At this point the gun sounded, ending the last minute rally. Steinberg starred in this game, while Morton also turned in a stellar performance.

The losing streak was finally broken when the Red and Blue five vanquished Irvington by the score of 18-16 in a thrilling extra period contest. Irvington led 11-6 at the half, but the East Orange team staged an uphill battle to even the count at 16-16 as the game ended. An extra period was played and Brueno obliged his followers by sinking a spectacular shot, the only score of the period.

Playing a very good game the East Orange quintet lost to a fast Dickinson team by the margin of one point, 18-17. Dickinson lead 11-9 at the end of the second period, and although East Orange hung on tenaciously, it could not quite overtake the Jersey City five. Jackson and Morton performed very creditably on the offensive, while Fehn and Steinberg did some good guarding.

In the next game, East Orange again defeated Irvington, the score being 18-14. The score was tied at the half, and Irvington led by one point as the fourth quarter began. The Red and Blue attack started a few moments later, and East Orange took the lead and stayed in front. Morton starred in this game. He played a good floor game and was high scorer with 10 points.

East Orange then scored another easy victory over Kearny. It was a rather loosely played game and was marred by excessive fouling. In this game, due to the removal of players because of personal fouls, Clark was put into the game. He played a very good game and in a short time earned a regular berth on the team.

The Red and Blue basket tossers made it three straight by handing Columbia a 31-26 set back. At the half time Columbia led by three points. Clark was put into the line up in the second half, and he scored eleven points to down the Columbian quintet and walk off with high scoring honors. Morton and Jackson also played well on the offensive.

Dickinson repeated its earlier victory over East Orange, this time, however, by a score of 23-11. Beginning at the start of the second quarter Dickinson pulled away from East Orange.

The Red and Blue was downed by Montclair in a fast game by the score of 29-23. Brueno and Clark played well.

The Orange quintet defeated East Orange in a very fast and well-played game. East Orange was on the short end of a 14-8 score at the half, but rallied in the third quarter and overtook Orange. The battle was waged on even terms in the last quarter until, with but a few seconds to play, Melvin, star colored player of the Orange team tossed in a field goal from a difficult angle with one hand. The score had been tied, but this shot broke the tie and won for Orange 25-23. Egan and Fehn played a good game for the Red and Blue.

The regular schedule ended with a record of six victories and eight defeats.

THE East Orange soccer team had a very successful season this year, its greatest disappointment being its inability to equal last year's outstanding record. The team was for the most part made up of veterans. Owens was the high point scorer and the outstanding star of the season.

At the call for candidates an unusual number turned out, showing a marked increase in student interest for the sport. Regular practice quickly put the veterans into their stride and rounded the new aspirants into form for the first game of the season, scheduled for October 8.

In the opener, Verona High School was defeated 2-1 after a hard contest. Joe Owens starred on the offense, while Captain Steinberg also played a good game.

Dickinson in a N. J. I. A. A. contest was no match for the Red and Blue, losing 6-1.

A powerful team from St. Benedict's Prep ended the winning streak of the team. The Gray Bees came out on top of a 2-0 count. The game, however, was close throughout, and East Orange put up a hard fight. Captain Steinberg, Owens, McGarry, Gussow, and Fehn all played well in the first three contests. Purcell, as goal tender, held opposing teams to low scores.

The third victory came as a result of Barringer's defeat in a closely fought battle, in which victory remained uncertain until, during the closing minutes, Steinberg booted the winning tally from forty yards' distance making the score 2-1. No score resulted in the first period, although the ball was constantly in Blue territory, but in the second half Baker made a goal closely followed by one by DeFabio of Barringer. It began to look like a tie game, but Steinberg came to the rescue with his unusually long kick.

East Orange soon added Montclair to its list of victims, winning from them by the score of 2-1. The losers were more completely outplayed than the score indicates. Except for Montclair's one successful drive in the last half, the ball was seldom in East Orange territory. Only Montclair's stubborn defense saved them from a severe defeat. The East Orange goals were scored by Owens and Baker.

In good standing for the N. J. I. A. A. title, East Orange was thrown from its high position in a return game with Dickinson which was lost 2-1. In the middle of the first half, Owens scored the only Red and Blue goal. The score remained in East Orange's favor until the final minutes of play when the defense suddenly cracked and the Hilltoppers scored twice, thus winning the contest. This was certainly an improved Dickinson team over the one which only two weeks before had suffered such overwhelming defeat.

East Orange revenged itself on St. Benedict's Prep, easily defeating them 3-0. The team on the whole showed remarkable improvement over its condition in the Dickinson game. The initial goal came from Gussow as the result of difficult side boot. Soon after this several powerful Gray Bee drives threatened to score and were only stopped at the goal posts by "Skinny" Chalmer's long arms. Another of Captain Steinberg's long kicks netted a point just before the first period closed. The most interesting event in the final half proved to be a goal, bounced from the head of Irving Baker.

The team now seemed to suffer somewhat of a slump and lost to Barringer 2-1. The game was rather slow and somewhat resembled the Dickinson defeat.

Montclair had the ill luck to be next on the schedule, and as it is generally known, no East Orange team ever plays so well as after defeat. The result was that the Mountaineers were buried under a 5-0 score. The game, played as a preliminary to the Montclair-East Orange football game, was well attended, largely by football fans, and the players responded well, as the score shows, to the enthusiasm of the rooters.

In the first game between East Orange and Kearny, the latter emerged victorious 4-0. Coach Griffin's players turned in a faultless game for the first half, allowing only one score to be made upon them. In the second half the invincible Kearny team scored three tallies. Owens came near scoring on several long runs, but all were repulsed at the goal.

The Red and Blue team ended its season in a 3-3 tie with the undefeated Kearny booters. Numerous drives proved scoreless until Kearny managed to score near the end of the half. In the second period East Orange came back strongly, Joe Owens scoring three times to tie the contest. Great credit is due the Red and Blue men for tying the State champions.

THE baseball team suffered a disastrous season last spring, winning only two games in a schedule of fourteen. The team was hampered in not being able to use Ashland Stadium for practice, and practice was interrupted many times during an unusually rainy spring season. Many times the team turned in a good game only to have the opponents turn in an exceptional one. Several fine players were developed for this year's team.

The team started the season poorly by losing by a one-sided score to Kearny. The next two games were victories, and the team gave indications of a very successful season, but immediately after these victories the winning streak was broken, and the team suffered eleven consecutive defeats.

Heavy hitting by Brueno and Douglass was conspicuous amid the defeats. Emerson turned in several fine pitching performances, and the other boxmen did well at times. The whole team played well intermittently but seemed to crack in every game. The fielding was noticeably poor.

This year's team will be picked from such veterans as Emerson, McGarry, Purcell, Fehn, Egan, Brueno, Douglass, and Cummings along with many from the second team and some promising recruits. With Emerson and McGarry as pitchers, Purcell and Jones to handle the catching, a flashy infield consisting of Rosenstein, Cummings, Astley, Cronen, and Egan, and Brueno, Douglas, and Fehn, all hitters, in the outfield, the team bids fair to be one of the best in recent years. Supplementing this tentative nine will be Owens, Anderson, Hodge, Gussow, Burd, Monte, and Jablonski from the second team. George Brueno, clouting outfielder, will act as captain.

THIS year's swimming team has surpassed all previous ones both in ability and in number of victories gained. The Red and Blue won eight consecutive dual meets, being defeated only once, and that defeat was suffered at the hands of Pingry, which was defeated earlier in the season by the score of 40 to 22. The East Orange mermen rolled up more than twice as many points as were scored against them. The outstanding star of the season was Captain Gordon Chalmers. Chalmers entered the national championships held at Philadelphia, and captured the 100-yard back stroke title. Then, in the individual swimming championships held at New Haven, he won the national title in the 100-yard backstroke event, covering this distance in 1:08  $\frac{2}{5}$ .

The Red and Blue successfully started its season with a 49-13 victory over Plainfield. It was an overwhelming victory for East Orange, Plainfield taking only one first place. Captain Chalmers started the season by taking a first place in the 200 yard free style and 40 yard backstroke. D. Smith also took two first places for East Orange.

The undefeated Blair Academy team was the next to go down before the East Orange swimmers. In this meet Captain Chalmers broke the 40 yard backstroke state record by cutting two-fifths of a second from the previous record. The 200 yard free style was won in very good time by Don Chalmers, brother to the captain. Smith took first place in the 40 yard and 100 yard free style events, and Walter Turkus captured second place in the 100 yard breast stroke. The final score was 36 to 26.

The team continued its winning by defeating Pingry, the strong Elizabeth team, by a score of 40 to 22. Although this was considered one of the hardest meets of the year, Coach Griffin's tankmen won every first place except in the breast stroke. Smith and Gordon Chalmers were again the individual stars. The relay was exciting throughout, and East Orange won by a margin of one foot. Shapiro, Red and Blue diver, took first place in his event. The team then easily captured its fourth straight dual meet by defeating South Side 51-11.

The fifth big victory of the East Orange team was at the expense of the New York Military Academy. East Orange won four out of seven first places. Captain Gordon Chalmers, as usual, starred for East Orange by capturing first place in the 200 yard free style and 50 yard backstroke events. Donald Chalmers, Turkus, and Smith were also largely responsible for the 38-24 score.

The tank team won an easy sixth victory by defeating Morristown 46-16. Coach Griffin's men took six first places and four seconds. Green in his initial meet took second place in the 200 yard free style event. Captain Chalmers and Anderson took first and second place respectively in the 100 yard free style. Turkus also starred by taking first place in the breast stroke.

The seventh straight victory was obtained by defeating Barringer. As usual Smith and Chalmers took first place in their respective events. In this meet East Orange entered both its first and second relay teams.

The second meet with Plainfield was a repetition of the first. The Red and Blue mermen took all first places. Chalmers and Smith captured the back stroke events. Anderson, 40 and 100 yard man, placed second in both events. Turkus took first in the breast stroke, and Shapiro first in the diving event. The relay team, composed of Smith, Anderson, D. Chalmers, and G. Chalmers, was again victorious.

East Orange, weakened by the absence of Gordon Chalmers, met its first defeat of the season at the hands of the Pingry tankmen. The 160 yard relay was the deciding event of the meet. Winning this race by less than a foot margin, Pingry gained eight points and victory. However, earlier in the season, with Chalmers swimming, East Orange easily downed Pingry.

Following this defeat, East Orange entered the state meet to determine the high school championship. The team finished second, Atlantic City, last year's champions, again winning first place. In this meet only one new record was established, and that by the Red and Blue relay team. The Chalmers brothers starred in this meet.

The prospects for next year's team are excellent. All the members of the team will return with the exception of Shapiro, Gopelt, Cook, and Schenck. There are some very excellent breast-strokers remaining, Cleveland, Lippincott and Turkus. Captain Chalmers the star throughout the season, will return next year. There seems little doubt but that next year's swimming team will also be of exceptional quality.

THE East Orange track team completed a successful season last spring. The team won its first outdoor meet, a triangular affair in which East Orange, South Side, and East Side participated, by virtue of a six point lead. Calvin Johnson was the outstanding star, winning three events, the 220 yard low hurdles, the 120 yard high hurdles, and the broad jump. Neuert also starred by winning the 100 yard dash, following Johnson in the broad jump, and running second in the 220 yard dash. The final point score was East Orange 106, South Side 100, East Side 23.

In the fifth annual track and field meet of South Side High School held at the Newark School Stadium, the Red and Blue placed seventh. Montclair, with a well balanced team, captured the meet. Cap Johnson, East Orange's star, accounted for more than one-half of his team's points, and tied with Berman of Barringer and Trout of Neptune, as high scorer in the senior events. Johnson took first place in the 120 yard hurdles and was second in the 220 yard low hurdles. Schroeder placed in the running high jump, and Condit in the pole vault. Watt and Hardy also aided East Orange by obtaining 12  $\frac{1}{3}$  points.

A week later the Red and Blue was downed by South Orange in a dual meet, the final score being 57-51. In the field events East Orange scored heavily. Schroeder took a first place in the high jump, a second in the shot put, and a tie for first in the pole vault. Sands and Steinberg placed first and third respectively in the discus throw, and Weisgerber won the shot put. Condit added more points by being the third party to the triple tie for first place in the pole vault. Johnson, Hardy, and Clover also scored points for the Red and Blue.

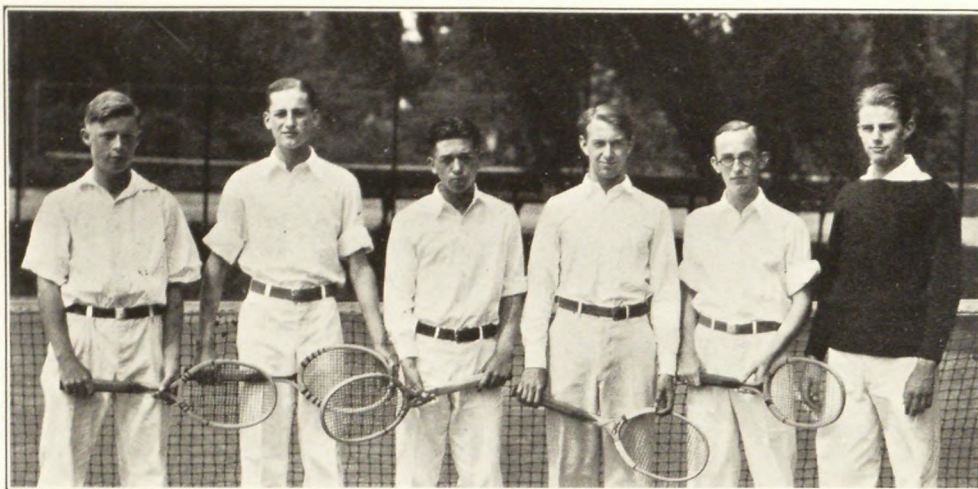

In a dual meet, a well balanced East Orange track team completely smothered the representatives of Glen Ridge by the impressive score of 85 to 32. Glen Ridge was outclassed in both the field and track events and proved no match for the Red and Blue trackmen, who took all three places in five of the thirteen events. Calvin Johnson was the individual star. He accounted for three first places and one second for a total of eighteen points, capturing both hurdle events, the broad jump, and closely following Marshall in the 220 yard dash. Hardy of East Orange won the 100 yard dash, while Marshall crossed the line first in the 220 yard dash. Clover, Sands, and Scriggins also played a major part in the Red and Blue victory.

In the N. J. I. A. A. track and field meet held at Montclair, East Orange gained third place. The powerful Montclair squad took the title. Barringer was a poor second with East Orange closely following the Big Blue. Dickinson, the other member of the league, brought up the rear. Cap Johnson again was the individual star by taking three first places. In two of his events, the 120 yard high hurdles and the 220 yard low hurdles, he set new records. Other East Orange tallies were gained by Hardy, second in the 100 yard dash; Marshall, fifth in the 220; Clover, fifth in the 440; and Condit, third in the high hurdles. In the field events Schroeder was the outstanding star for East Orange. The final score was Montclair 94, Barringer 45, East Orange 41 $\frac{1}{2}$ , and Dickinson 14 $\frac{1}{2}$ .

In the last meet of the season, the New Jersey State High School Championship, held at the Newark School Stadium, the Red and Blue won second place. The high scorer for East Orange was Calvin Johnson, whose victories in both the high and low hurdles won for him the runner-up position in point scoring. The other scorers for East Orange were Hardy, Schroeder, and Sands. Hardy took second in the 100 yard dash. Schroeder was tied for fourth place in the running high jump, the event in which Coon of Montclair made his record-breaking performance. Sands scored fourth in the discus. The first five class A teams and their point scores were: Montclair 29 $\frac{1}{2}$ , East Orange 15 $\frac{1}{2}$ , Barringer 15, Neptune 15, and Kearny 13.

The prospects for the current season are encouraging. With Johnson and Schroeder for the hurdles, Hardy and Haldeman for the dashes, Clover, Hellmers, and Reid for the longer distance, Schroeder, Scriggins, and Steinberg for field events, and hosts of aspirants for places, Coach Benatre will turn out one of his well balanced teams.

TENNIS

TENNIS

RICHARD BROWN

THE East Orange tennis team was exceedingly successful last season. Engaging in ten contests the Red and Blue emerged victorious in all except one. In the first contest with Montclair the Red and Blue lost, two matches to three; but later in the season, in a return match, East Orange was victorious over the Mountinsiders by a four to one count.

The outstanding players of the team were Captain Richard Brown, Donald Hawley, and Winslow Smith. Captain Brown won six matches for the Red and Blue, being defeated by only two men; twice by Bartlett of Montclair, and once by Campbell of Kearny. Hawley, playing number two man, made the most outstanding record by winning nine singles matches and not suffering a single defeat throughout the season. Winslow Smith, playing at number three position, also was undefeated, winning eight matches. The most successful doubles team was composed of Winslow Smith and Russell Smith. This combination won five contests and lost none.

The tennis prospects for this year appear very promising. The team has two outstanding players in the persons of Captain Winslow Smith and Donald Hawley. Hawley, a junior, defeated Smith in the finals of the high school fall tournament. Playing number two man on last year's team, Hawley won every singles match in which he played. Last summer he won the City Junior Singles Championship, and teamed with Brown to win the City Junior Doubles Championship. Later Hawley captured the Essex County Junior Singles Championship. Lester Kabacoff and David Agens, who composed the substitute doubles team last year, are among the most promising players for the third and fourth places on the team.

CHEER LEADERS

Horace Brunner, Arthur Coutant, Walter Turkus, Edward Burnham, Winslow Smith.

CHEERLEADERS

AT the football games, at "pep" rallies in auditorium, when basketball and baseball seasons roll around, in fact, anywhere a snappy cheer is welcome, we are led by our capable corps of cheerleaders in their white flannels and red and blue blazers.

The call for junior candidates for cheerleaders went out soon after the opening of school. In response, a squad of twenty eager, but rather clumsy, candidates appeared in the Boys' Gym. Under the guidance of Mr. Hosmer, the faculty adviser, and the senior cheerleaders the squad began to get some "form" and cheerleading ability. After considering the performances of the various candidates in chapel and at the Hackensack game, the committee picked Walter Turkus, Edward Stone, and Horace Brunner as junior cheerleaders.

Instead of having a permanent head cheerleader this year, a plan by which the three senior cheerleaders alternated in taking charge of the cheering at the football games, was used with marked success. Burnham handled the first game; Coutant, the second; Smith, the third; and so on in that order. For the Barringer game the cheerleaders elected Burnham head.

The cheering at this game seemed inspired—perhaps the rooters knew all the time the team was going to win. Between the halves the cheerleaders were seen dashing about in their pony cart much to the embarrassment of Barringer, who could boast of none.

To cap the climax of a season of fine cheering, East Orange once more walked away with the cup, presented annually by the Branford Theater of Newark, for which there is always keen rivalry with Barringer.

We realize that cheering is one of the factors which helped to build and solidify our school spirit and to encourage our teams, and we realize that to Mr. Hosmer we owe a great debt for the unselfish way in which he gave his time to the coaching of our cheerleaders.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

SOCIAL

AS a result of the efforts of one of the most active of school committees, the social committee, the numerous dances and other social functions held this year were declared to have been unqualified successes. The committee consisted of Dorothy Dietrich, chairman; Gladys Jones, Margaret Spohrer, Donald Lincoln, Jack Mason, and Aubrey Christopher. The committee has labored unceasingly to make a success of its plans and deserves a great deal of credit for the splendid results it obtained.

The first social event that the committee planned was a committee dance held in November. It was the first committee dance for two years to which stags had been invited. As it was so successful, the committee decided to give a second dance in February which proved even more successful. The conscientious committee members were seen in the halls before classes and at lunch time urging people to attend the dances.

On Friday night, February twenty-fourth, a dance was given by the Alumni Association. The dance was supported almost entirely by high school students. The class councils acted as the committee in charge of the dance, and the minor committees were chosen from this group.

The Junior-Senior Prom, held on Friday night, March fifteenth, was the most successful of all the dances. The committee in charge of this affair was the regular standing committee with the help of Herbert Irish, Edward Burnham, and Edward Bruen. Miss Cohen was the faculty adviser for the committee. The boys' gym was decorated for the occasion in blue and white streamers. With Freddie Porter as master of ceremonies, the feature of the evening, the lucky number dance, was won by Ethel Grosvenor and George Elwell. Dunbar Abell and his orchestra furnished the music for the dance and, in fact, for all of the committee's dances except the Alumni dance at which the Lehigh South Mountaineers played. Miss Cohen, Mrs. Hoagland, Miss Hallet, Miss Smith, Miss Hummer, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Bulger, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniels acted as chaperones at this dance.

Another leading function of the year was the fifth annual Mother and Daughter dinner. The dinner was a most enjoyable one, and every mother and daughter entered into the proper spirit of the affair. After the dinner, the guests were entertained by most interesting speeches. Mrs. Austin spoke as a representative of the mothers; Bettina Barrett represented the students and spoke on the Student Court; Mr. Heiss spoke for the Home and School Association, and Mr. Grosenbaugh for the faculty. Dean Harris was the speaker of the evening and chose an interesting subject, "The Equality of Men and Women of Today."

Senior girls, dressed in school colors, led in the songs and cheers of the school. The committee of students in charge consisted of Katherine Lucius, chairman; Bettina Barrett, Clara Hammell, and Irma Oswald. The dinner was planned by the household arts department and was served by girls from the junior class.

The committee will soon be making plans for the Grad Dance, the closing dance of the year, and the last opportunity for the seniors to dance in their Alma Mater. This dance, no doubt, will be just as successful as the others planned by the committee, as no senior will want to miss it.

There is no doubt that the seniors may look back on their social career with a great deal of pride and may connect with their other memories of school their recollections of their gay social activities.

DRAMATIC PRODUCTIONS OF THE SCHOOL YEAR

DURING the past year the school has been most enjoyably entertained by three plays in the chapel periods; the annual Thanksgiving and Christmas fixtures, and an independent production by a group of dramatically inclined students. Each of these plays was presented in upper and lower class chapel.

The Drama Study and Dagger and Masque Clubs presented A November Humoresque during Thanksgiving week. The play, under the capable direction of Miss Miles, was featured by a group of singers from the Glee Clubs. This delightful fantasie was well up to the excellent standard set by the previous productions of these clubs.

What proved to be the most ambitious and successful play from every angle ever presented by the Drama Study Club was given in both chapels on December 20 and 21 of last year. The choice of the play, The Christmas Child Comes In, a delightful bit of the true Christmas spirit, was a wise one. The large and well-coached cast was excellent, and the settings and costuming above par. Although the whole lot of the actors turned in fine performances, the work of David Bucharest, Frances Horton, and Marjorie Buckley was outstanding. George Payne proved a humorous but none too ardent lover in the juvenile role. The direction was flawless, and the setting, planned by Mrs. Leyland and executed by Norman Tymeson, was an ambitious undertaking.

March brought the outstanding dramatic hit of the season, a revival of the ever-popular old melodrama, A Night at an Inn, by Lord Dunsany. This eerie mystery was entirely produced by undergraduates, even the difficult task of direction, which was ably undertaken by a junior, Sydney Stern, who also took the leading part.

Enough adjectives cannot be used in praise of Stern, who thrilled the school with the best performance ever recorded on the histrionic boards of the chapel platform. Besides giving a dramatic prologue as a Hindoo priest, he assumed the very difficult role of the hunchbacked Toff. Stern was not the only one whose work was noteworthy. Alfred Guest, Joseph Catlett, and George Mayberry all did excellent work in the other leading parts.

All the stage effects of the old thriller, including the stabbings, flashlight powders, and the idol with the ruby eye, were successfully reproduced by Norman Tymeson, the stage manager, and his assistants, Margaret Spohrer, Catherine Fogg, and Florence Robinson, who also "made up" the actors. The idol, who threw the lower class chapel into a continuous shudder, was ably portrayed by Francis Tent-shert.

The thanks of the student body should most certainly be tendered to Robert Shapiro for his handling of the lights at all three plays.

Notwithstanding that the annual Senior Class production failed to materialize, all in all it has been a good year for thespians.

CLASS PROPHECY

WHEN the honor of predicting the future of the graduating class of East Orange High School was bestowed upon the Committee on Prophecy, the members of the committee were at a loss as to how to go about the task. Prophecies were easily obtained in the days of ancient Greece when oracles abounded at every turn; but to realize the difficulty of foretelling the future in 1929, one has to consider that we are living in an age in which even football experts are unable to predict the outcome of important games more than thirty per cent. of the time, in which one has to resort to a blindfold test in choosing the best brand of cigarettes, and, finally, in which one has no little trouble in distinguishing the sexes with girls favoring the boyish bob and mannish figure. If these simple matters are baffling, imagine the perplexity of trying to discover the fates of almost four hundred students of East Orange High School. Such, however, is the duty of the class prophets.

A chance trip to Coney Island provided an unexpected solution to the problem. While walking down one of the side streets, we came upon a black sign upon which was written in gold letters:

Venus Von Velda
"The Girl with the Thousand Eyes"
Sees the future as you see the present.

To the average person this announcement may have meant little or nothing, but to the Committee on Prophecy it was like meeting old Hecate herself. Then and there we decided to give this little girl a big hand, providing, of course, she was a palmist. Although it was Saturday, the Velda establishment was closed. This fact was explained, however, when a native of the island, to wit, Coney Island, informed us that Venus was of the same mind as Henry Ford and strongly advocated the five day week.

Above all things a Committee on Prophecy must be persistent; so Monday morning found us demanding an audience with the Coney Island prophetess. After a short wait we were ushered into a small, dimly-lighted room, with entirely too many rugs for its size, and a funny smell which turned out to be incense. Sitting alone at a table was a young girl whose eyes were quite natural except for an excessive amount of "make-up". One of my companions remarked that she would actually resemble her famous namesake, Venus De Milo but for the fact that she had two arms.

As spokesman of the Committee, I asked timidly, "Are you—are you the girl with the thousand eyes?"

The young woman replied in low, dignified voice, "Men call me Venus Von Velda. What is your quest?"

"We were entrusted with the task of discovering the fate of the graduating class of East Orange High School and thought perhaps you might help us in finding out what the students will be doing twenty years hence," I answered.

At the mention of East Orange High School Venus shut her eyes and murmured incoherently, "East Orange—East Orange High School—I see it now—a large building filled with students and teachers—"

"Yes, yes, that's it," we answered eagerly, marvelling at the perfect description of our school.

"Before I can see into the future, I must read my magic cards."

At these words the prophetess produced a deck of cards with futuristic backs and slowly began to turn over each card, noticing its position, color, and number. Then in her slow, sonorous voice, to the amazement of all, Venus Von Velda poured forth the future of the class of '29.

"The spirit of Prophecy is enveloping my soul with mystic power. As I look into the land of the future, I discern among the peoples yet to be, the familiar shapes of your classmates. The class as a whole is prosperous and ably represents East Orange High School in many different fields.

"How many who graduated in '29 do I see in public office? Two students, noted for their ability to engage teachers in lengthy conversations and so postpone examinations are among the best filibusterers in the Senate. Here is a youth who was very fond of smart clothes and long vacations, now holding the position of mayor in a large eastern city. It is rumored that several Federal judges sentence desperate criminals to ten hours detention during their absent-minded moments. These judges acquired the habit of giving out sentences in hours while serving the student court. If my eyes do not deceive me, there is a former member of the C. P. directing a long line of automobiles and frequently writing tickets for over-anxious motorists. Yes, he has added an "O" between the "C" and "P".

"As one might expect, the business world is blessed with many East Orange students. Do you remember those persuasive beings who so successfully carried on the sales and campaigns in the home rooms? They are high-powered salesmen for various business concerns. Then, too, those good-looking boys who were so proud to have all the girls call out their names as they walked down the corridors are floor walkers in the large city department stores. Naturally attracted by figures, those youths who thought they were supporting their school by leaning against the walls and watching the feminine half of the 'big parade' pass by in the corridors are now employed as expert accountants. They add up hundreds of rows of figures daily without, however, the same interest as in school days.

"Looking into professional circles, I perceive a prosperous lawyer, who in high school days had not yet learned to lie or even say a word that could be untruly interpreted. But thus are the mighty brought to lower planes! The number of doctors, preachers, and others professionally engaged is comparatively small.

"In the film industry your class is duly represented. Those who took such great delight in annoying study-hall chairmen with their incessant chatter, stamping of feet, with many other disturbances, are now in their glory, for they are doing mob scenes for the 'talkies'. Oh, yes, and the girls who used to open their small vanity cases so often to 'make-up' did not spend their time in vain. They are popular screen stars now and carry around in a valise great quantities of cosmetics to be applied before each scene. The boys, too, noted for patent leather tonsorial effects and their way with women still enjoy both for they are acting hectic love scenes before the camera's eye almost every day.

"Journalism, too, claims a fair portion of 'Twenty-niners'. Here is a hard-working editor, striving to keep the politics of a small western town from corruption in accordance with the policy of his great paper. Engaged in writing facetious paragraphs for the more humorous magazines are those pupils who delighted their classmates with their witty remarks.

"Oh, but what is this? Now I see some employed in most unusual fields. She who in school claimed she could dance away the rest of her life is gaining nationwide attention as a professional marathon dancer. Many of the boys, too, have risen to far greater heights than any of the faculty might have expected, for aviation now claims many former East Orange students. Here is one of the chapel squad, dressed in a bright new uniform. Perhaps he is a graduate of West Point. No, he is merely an usher in a motion picture theater trying to quell the disturbance. Still another I see—"

So Venus Von Velda, the girl with the thousand eyes, revealed in her inimitable manner the future of the class of '29. Many more facts, humorous and tragic, surprising and expected, she disclosed. It was impossible, however, to include in a brief report of this kind all that the prophetess predicted as the name and exact occupation twenty years hence of each student was carefully recorded and filed. This information may readily be obtained by inquiring of any member of the Committee on Prophecy.

COMMITTEE ON PROPHECY,

HAROLD DOEHLER, Chairman.

CLASS WILL

I, THE CLASS OF 1929, being of sound mind and memory, and considering the uncertainty of this life, do make, publish, and declare this to be my last will and testament, hereby revoking all other and former wills by me at any time made.

First, after my lawful debts are paid, I give to the eldest of my offspring, the Senior Class of '30, firstly the good old school itself, secondly, numerous and sundry privileges, to wit: that of entertaining the chemistry teacher in his chamber of horrors and in particular of attending his early morning exercises; information of all known ways of dodging the C. P's.; the secret of getting a soda during lunch period without being on the corridor patrol. I expressly expect you to follow my precedent in defeating Barringer on Thanksgiving Day. It is my ardent desire that you emulate your father's and grandfather's six-time removed success in this, a matter of real importance.

Second, To my second eldest, the Juniors, I leave the possession of Marten's as a rendezvous; the execution of such pranks as would be unseemly for the Seniors but too intelligent for the lower classes. These pranks include: studying enough not only to get by but to keep the faculty in a jovial mood as well; congesting such key points in the corridor as the corner near 214A during lunch period, causing Mr. Bulger to call out the reserves; and perpetually affording amusement for the Seniors. To you, I also give the unsolicited task of keeping the radiators knocking in the winter time.

Third, To the Sophomores I bequest the tremendous task of properly caring for the "Freshies". They do not know where the elevator to the fourth floor is, nor do they know countless other things, i. e., which stairway is for them and which is for the upper classes, where the rest rooms are, how to sit on fountains, where the ginger-ale counter is in the lunch room. Do not blame them for their ignorance; the fault is not their own; but rather guide and keep them in their proper place. You will have a difficult task but make the most of it, remembering your first year.

Fourth, To the Freshmen I leave our noble flag pole and its daily care. In addition, I bequeath to you the usual occupations of Freshmen; the throwing of chalk, erasers, paper aeroplanes; the stamping of feet in study hall; the shooting of paper-clips, the tearing of paper into small pieces, and the duty of being attentive in all classes including gym, and in your senior year, a leap-year dance. Upon the execution of my will, you will receive all positions that would be far too lowly and humble for anyone but a Freshman. If you ever have any troubling questions, I entreat you to solicit help from the obliging Sophomores who are always ready to give aid to the Freshmen. If you become discouraged because of your treatment, remember that surely as does night follow day—and credits a modicum of study—you will be a Sophomore in time. If I have not already recommended the use of bicycles as a means of conveyance, I so do now.

Fifth, To the Faculty, I bequeath all Latin ponies, all admit slips, all mislaid unsatisfactory slips, and our talented chapel orators and entertainers. I also leave you the sheer enjoyment of watching those of us who have been thorns in your side in the unapproachable state of graduation. In particular, I spare you a hasty lunch and subsequent indigestion by presenting for your assistance a corridor patrol.

Sixth, To the Student Government I extend all unsolved problems, viz: the creation of adequate elevated parking spaces, some efficient study hall chairmen who will do their duty to the cause, some noble, some valiant judges to preside over cases concerning the artistic ability of students in study hall and the spendthrift habits of those who so rashly throw pennies.

I hereby appoint Ralph E. Files and L. J. Caldwell to be executors of this, my last will and testament.

In Witness Whereof, I have hereunto subscribed my name and affixed my seal this twenty-fourth day of June in the year one thousand nine hundred and twenty-nine.

(Sealed)

ROBERT KUGLER, Lawyer.

(Signed)

POOR ATLAS!

Who can look at a picture of this god of the ancients without pitying him?

There he stands, eternally stooped by the weight of the earth on his shoulders. No rest for Atlas! To whom could he turn for relief?

Not so with humans who have great responsibilities. When they seek to lighten their load they turn to life insurance and find that this protection, wisely chosen, lightens their burden by removing the GREAT hazard — worry.

Begin in youth to study the benefits of this great barrier against want.
