Senior Class History

FTER four years of hard work, the Class of 1932 may claim its reward—a high school diploma. That scroll of paper represents not only scholastic achievement but all-round development and growth. Since the beginning of our high school career, we have made every effort to live up to those high resolutions and aspirations that we made as ambitious Freshmen. These fine intentions would have been much more difficult to carry out had we not been given such excellent opportunities for the development of our minds and bodies.

As Freshmen, the Class of '32 entered with great enthusiasm into many of the school activities. The Freshman Council was organized and immediately proved itself capable of doing its share of the work connected with student government.

In the Freshman Debating Club, several very successful and worthwhile debates were held for those interested in public speaking.

Many of our class supported the various athletic activities, some receiving recognition in swimming and hockey, and others making the football and basketball squads.

Those interested in music joined the Freshman Glee Club and Orchestra.

In the fall of '29, we returned to our places not as timid and bewildered Freshmen, but as confident, capable Sophomores. We continued to maintain the reputation established the previous year for our interest in all school activities. Our representatives were in many of the important school organizations, both academic and athletic.

In our Junior Year, we took an active part in all the divisions of student government. A number of our members were selected to supervise study halls, to serve on the Corridor Patrol, and to act on the Student Court and Student Council.

In the last year of our high school course, we, as Seniors, have tried to set an example worthy of our past record.

The Buskin and Brush Dramatic Club, under the able direction of Mr. Goodrich, presented Philip Barry's The Youngest for the annual school play. The leading roles were played by Seniors who had become interested in dramatics during their four years in high school.

Another outstanding social event of the year was the musical comedy of college life written by Mr. Jones and Mr. McGinley.

One of the major athletic victories of the year was the winning of the state high school swimming championship for the third consecutive time. The Seniors may well be proud of their classmates who had such a large part in winning this honor.

The football, basketball, baseball, and soccer teams have also been successful. The Class of 1932 has contributed many members to each of these teams.

In 1931, our orchestra again won the state championship and received a silver cup signifying the third successive victory. The band won second place in the state contest. In both of these musical organizations, the members of our class have had their part.

The Senior members of the News Board employed new, unique ideas in the plan of our bi-weekly. The volume included special issues, all of which proved very popular among the students.

In the fall of 1931, under the leadership of the officers of the Girls' Athletic Association, a new system of points was started. A girl was given points for outside activities; when the required number had been won, she first received her numeral, then a small E. O. monogram, and finally the large E. O. monogram. The Senior girls were victorious both in the inter-class basketball games and in the tennis tournament.

Instead of the customary Mother and Daughter Banquet, the Seniors gave a tea for their mothers. The informality of a tea made for greater sociability and closer acquaintance.

A member of our class won the sectional New York Times Oratorical Contest in '32.

Our scholastic achievements have been shown from year to year by the large number of monograms won.

After a short four years, our high school course is completed. School work, club work, and executive training have made us better citizens of our community. We, the Class of 1932, earnestly hope that we have contributed in some small way to our Alma Mater for her investment in us. We look back over the past four years grateful for the leadership and inspiration of the faculty as well as for the fine friendships among our fellow students. We pledge ourselves, as we go forward, to maintain the high standards and the traditional honor of our school.

Junior Class History

T was in September, 1929, that we entered the East Orange High School as Freshmen. We were new to the school and new to each other, but with the aid of the Faculty, we formed clubs and teams, and thus became better acquainted with everything.

In November, Mr. Knight called a meeting of the former eighth grade class officers, and they, as our representatives, elected Leland Stanford President of the Freshman Class.

Under the supervision of Mr. Blom, we formed the Freshman Debating Club. About thirty of us came together once every other week and listened to debates on the various problems of the day. We held several socials during the course of the year, and in a very short time, we all knew each other well.

Mrs. Archer formed the Freshman Glee Club, and we found so many good voices among us that we were able to present an excellent concert in chapel.

Some of our boys went out for athletics, and one of them made the varsity soccer and baseball teams, and the second basketball team. The rest received good practice and training that enabled them to do better the next year.

The girls too were active in sports. They had their hockey, basketball, and baseball teams, and although they won very few games, they had a good deal of fun together and made many new friends.

Under the direction of Mr. Herfurth, a lower class orchestra was formed, and those students who played musical instruments were invited to participate. The members of this orchestra played for the lower class chapel, and those who played exceptionally well were permitted to play with the regular high school orchestra.

And so the year passed until June came, and we were almost Sophomores. On the school election day, we elected the following members to lead the class during the Sophomore year: Edwin Owens, President; Carl Amon, Vice President; and Betsy Brodie, Secretary. It was also in June that monograms were awarded those of us who had done exceptionally fine scholastic work during the year.

In September, 1930, we came together as Sophomores. This time we were not strangers, and we spent most of the first few days of school greeting our old friends.

We did all the things in our Sophomore year that we had done as Freshmen; but there were a few additions, and more of us participated. Five or six of us who were especially adept at writing were asked to be on the News Board. Those who were interested in art and who had artistic abilities were now eligible to join the Art Club.

More boys went out for the major sports, and it was noticed that their playing was decidedly better. A Sophomore was prominent on the baseball team, and a Sophomore was elected Assistant Football Manager for the coming year.

The girls too showed improvement in their sports. The Sophomore hockey team won the inter-class hockey championship; at the end of the year, five girls received their numerals.

Again in June we elected officers for the coming year. They were as follows: President, Vincent Devine; Vice President, Foster Favorite; Secretary, Betsy Brodie; and Representative-at-Large, Kathryn Doyle. And so another year had passed.

When we returned in September, 1931, we were Juniors. We were older now and had many new responsibilities. About the biggest of these was that of student government. About fifty of us were elected to the Junior Council and the Corridor Patrol. The girls on the Junior Council met with the girls of the Senior Council twice a month to discuss the problems of study hall supervision.

Two Juniors were appointed to the Student Court, and about six were elected to the Student Council. Three were appointed to the Social Committee and helped to make the annual Prom a big success.

This has been the most satisfactory year in sports for the Juniors so far, because so many more of them have been put on the teams. We helped to beat Barringer this year, and, as usual, the swimming team won the state championship, aided by Junior members.

The Glee Club and the orchestra have done some very fine work this year, and Mr. Jones has discovered several Junior soloists. The members of the Art Club, many of whom are Juniors, have cooperated with the dramatists and have painted some very excellent posters to advertise the annual Senior play, which undoubtedly had much to do with the unusually large attendance.

More Juniors were added to the News Board, and this year the High School News won third place in the national contest. We are very proud of our part in helping to win this honor. Twenty-five Juniors who had shown proficiency in mathematics received invitations to the Mathematics Club.

All in all, it seems that this year just passed has been by far the most successful and the happiest of our high school career.

STUDENT COUNCIL

REAR ROW-Mr. Knight, Adviser, Edwin Linen, Robert Mervine, Robert Wright, Eugene Reichert, Douglas Hall, Frank Ferrari, Mr. Caldwell.

Student Council

THE fifteenth Student Council, the body that presides over the student government of the school, has just added the record of another successful year to the annals of East Orange High School.

The Smoking Law, always a vital question among the students and Corridor Patrol, was again the subject of close scrutiny; and, after much investigation and many hot debates, the constitution was modified for the second time. The amendment proposed by Douglas Hall, Eugene Reichert, and Robert Wright, now reads as follows: "All smoking by students of East Orange High School shall be prohibited only on the school property itself and on territory immediately opposite the school property on Walnut and Winans Streets."

This year the Student Council also had to fill by appointment the offices of president and vice president of the Junior Class, both of which were unfortunately left vacant during the year.

Council delegates again attended the Student Council Convention at New Jersey College and brought back many new ideas gleaned from representatives of other schools. These annual conventions are always very interesting affairs and sometimes prove most helpful to those concerned in student government.

The Council has been working all year to emphasize the necessity of absolute cooperation and fair play in student government. In this they have received excellent aid from the Senior and Junior Councils, and they gratefully acknowledge this support.

STUDENT COURT

REAR ROW-Laird Tuohig, Halsey Warner, Carl Amon, Steven Barton, James Gorringe, Edward Simpson, Alfred Dixon, Mr. Lewis Knight, Adviser.

Student Court

THE Girls' Court operated with the usual success in the school year 1931-1932. Out of all the cases tried, only one appeal was made; and the decision of the lower court was upheld in the Supreme Court. This student body has always maintained dignity and obtained respect; and, although at times there were cases which took up much time because of the failure of the defendant to secure witnesses, all decisions were just.

The Boys' Court experienced an unusually interesting season. A few of the cases involved the conviction of school officers; no partiality was shown in any of the judgments, and the careful discretion of the judges in these particular trials is truly an excellent example of the just manner in which the court is conducted. The faculty advisers expressed their admiration for the conduct of the students in these trials.

Mathematics Club

THE Mathematics Club, under Mr. Palmer's guidance, enjoyed another successful year despite the interference of several holidays. The purpose of this organization is to satisfy the interest of those Seniors liking higher mathematics; with this in view, the club was organized several years ago by Mr. Mallory. For the last four years, Mr. Palmer has been the adviser.

The officers for 1931-1932 were Eugene F. Reichert, President; Dorothy Pearson, Vice President; and Margaret Russell, Secretary. On the program committee were John P. Humphrey, Chairman; Eleanora Blood; and Henry A. Eysenbach. Some of the speakers and their topics were Duane Barney, "The Pythagorean Theorem"; Henry A. Eysenbach, "Application of the Pythagorean Theorem"; orean Theorem to Navigation"; Mr. Hart (of the Mathematics Department) on "Some Astronomical Theorems"; Mr. Palmer, "Non Euclidean Geometry"; Margaret Russell, "Magic Squares"; Daniel Ruderman, "Scales of Notation"; "The Derivation of Pi" by Belmont Evans; and "The Fourth Dimension" by Dorothy Pearson. Short talks were given by John Humphrey, Eugene Reichert, Duane Barney, Elizabeth Hill, Dorothy Pearson, and Eleanora Blood.

Toward the close of the season, those Juniors whose ratings for three years in mathematics were considered high enough were invited to join the club; about fifteen responded, thus providing a nucleus for the year following.

Debating

T the beginning of the year, the Boys' Upper Class Debating Club and the Girls' Upper Class Debating Club started to run independently as usual. The small enrollment in each club, however, twenty-three boys and ten girls, and the overwhelming sentiment of the members brought about a unification of the two. The arrangement worked much more satisfactorily than the former one.

Since the majority of the members were boys, it was decided to retain the officers elected by the Boys' Debating Club in June, 1931. They were as follows: President, Frank Raymond; Vice President, Irving Berkowitz; and Secretary, Francis Weeks. The resignation of Irving Berkowitz from the club necessitated a new Vice President. Mary Lou Hance was unanimously elected.

In the mid-year election, the following members took office: President, Meyer Goldberg; Vice President, Ernest Eagles; and Secretary, Francis Weeks. A program committee consisting of the officers of the club was appointed to serve for the rest of the year.

As a member of the Northern New Jersey Interscholastic Debating Association, the club was represented in three interscholastic debates. These were held with Irvington, Westfield, and Belleville.

The East Orange affirmative team, debating at home, defeated the Irvington negative team. The East Orange negative team, debating at Irvington, however, was defeated. The topic was Resolved: The States should adopt a form of unemployment insurance similar to that of Great Britain. The winning East Orange affirmative team consisted of Mary Lou Hance, captain, Dorothy Chanin, and Alfred Reilly, alternate. The negative team was composed of William Wilson, captain, John Jones, and Francis Weeks, alternate.

The results of the debate with Westfield were precisely the same. The question was Resolved: The United States should enter the World Court. The victors for East Orange, who debated at home, were Meyer Goldberg, captain, Gertrude Petersen, and Wilbur Renshaw, alternate. The defeated negative team, which debated at Westfield, consisted of Francis Weeks, captain, Elizabeth Armitage, and Maria Anderson, alternate.

The club ended a successful season with the usual Ken Mair-Delta Epsilon debate and social.

Buskin and Brush

B USKIN and Brush, the honorary dramatic club, was established in the spring of 1930 by a group of students who had done outstanding work in the acting and staging of plays. Its purpose is to promote skill in play production and to encourage intelligent interest in the theatre among the students of the East Orange High School.

Membership in Buskin and Brush is limited to students whose achievements in acting, staging, theatrical business, publicity, or research are considered a worthy contribution to dramatics at the school. For participation in any or all of these activities, the candidate is awarded activity points until the required total is reached that constitutes eligibility to membership.

Since its inception, Buskin and Brush has pub'icly presented thirteen one-act plays and three full-length dramas. It has assisted with the business management and staging of an all-school vaudeville, operettas, and an appearance of the Ben Greet players. Plays given in 1931-1932 under its auspices were Station YYYY by Booth Tarkington, The Teeth of the Gift Horse by Margaret Cameron, The Neighbors by Zona Gale, and The Youngest by Philip Barry. The casts of these productions appear e'sewhere in this book.

Meetings are held weekly. Programs on these occasions have consisted of talks and demonstrations concerning the theatre past and present. The following list of topics, all of which were treated during the year, suggests the range of program material: stage lighting, unusual stage tricks, the Passion Play, Maude Adams, Otis Skinner, Philip Barry, The Animal Kingdom, the Barrymores, Mourning Becomes Electra, drama by radio. The one-act play, The Game of Chess, was presented during a meeting.

Office s are elected each semester. Those for 1931-1932 follow: Presidents—Henry Eysenbach, Robert Richmond; Vice Presidents—Robert Richmond, Edmond Geisler; Secretaries—Wendell Eysenbach, Ruth Stevens.

The emblem of the organization is the buskin, symbol of the art of acting, crossed by the brush, the symbol of stagecraft. The former was selected because it was used by the actors of ancient Greece; and the latter, because it is used by the scene painter. These are mounted on the circle of friendship, which bears two raised B's.

Drama Study Club

THE program of the Drama Study Club during the year 1931-1932 was devoted to the study of modern drama, one-act plays written by members of the club, and the productions of the current theatrical season.

Although the year was given over to the study of modern plays, the source of drama was not neglected. Several programs featured the Greek drama both in its true form, and in modern satire on the original. Among the modern works given by the club were The Aulis Difficulty, a travesty, and Helena's Husband, a burlesque,—both based on the Trojan War. To emphasize further the original Greek drama and modern plays written in the Greek manner, reports on the revival of Electra, by Sophocles,—in which Mrs. Patrick Campbell, the well-known English actress, and Blanche Yurka played the leading roles,—and on Eugene O'Neil's Mourning Becomes Electra, a modern theme in classic technique, were made by two members who saw the stage productions in New York.

As part of the members' contribution to the Bicentennial celebration, excellent one-act plays, written by Charmian Leigh, and by Elihu Robinson—in collaboration with Betty Poole—were presented to the club for enjoyment and criticism. In addition to these plays, four others, written by Elihu Robinson, which were studies in dialogue and characterization—rather than in plot—were read during the year.

Among the outstanding talks that the club had the pleasure of hearing were an illustrated lecture, Costumes Through the Ages, by Mrs. Alvin Aster, a former pupil of this school; a talk on India, by Mrs. Ernest Tuck, who lived there for five years; and The Passion Play at Oberammergau by the faculty adviser, Miss Miles, who attended the 1930 production.

Other unusual programs included Betty Hill's dramatization of her report on Cornelia Otis Skinner's Wives of Henry the Eighth, and a Christmas pantomine, The Doctor of Lonesome Folk. This Christmas, instead of giving candy and toys, as in former years, the club gave books to shut-ins.

An amendment to the constitution admitted a limited number of Sophomores who had demonstrated their interest in drama and their ability to be of value to the club.

ENGINEERING CLUB

REAR ROW-William Stephens, Vincent Kling, Ray Adamus, Julius Schliemann, Secretary, Bernard Wallerstein, Robert Wyman.

MIDDLE ROW-Joseph Wright, Robert Olsen, Mr. Marshall, Adviser, Joseph Huselton, Raymond Olimski, Arnold Booth, Charles Specht, Tice, Murray Dietrich, Patton Thompson, William Wilson, Charles Jennings.

Engineering Club

ORE and more students are becoming interested in science as a hobby. In order for them to exchange ideas among themselves and express their opinions, the Engineering Club was organized five years ago by Mr. Marshall. Meetings are held on the first and third Wednesdays of every month. All of the apparatus of the physical and chemical laboratories is at the disposal of the club. Since so many factories were closed, the club took but few trips in 1931-1932. This was very much regretted, because a great deal is learned on these visits.

The first meeting was held September 30, 1931, at which time the officers were elected. At the next meeting, Walter Wildnauer offered a talk on synthetic rubber; and Frank Crawford talked about the hot air engine, showing its operation by a working model. On October 7, the club took its annual trip to the General Electric Lighting Institute. A delegation of the Engineering Club visited the bier of Thomas A. Edison on Monday, October 19.

The second trip was to Public Service's Super-Power Plant.

A large group found this trip very impressive; the guides explained everything clearly.

Robert Olsen gave a talk on by-product coke ovens previous to a trip to the Kopper's Coke Company. Other talks were given on various topics. Belmont Evans described in detail the construction of the Akron; John Sauter explained the Public Service Super Power Plant; and Frank Crawford described the unusual features of the great Wanamaker organ in Philadelphia.

On November 10, Mr. Leslie N. Leet of the Aeolian Organ Company talked in the auditorium on the construction of pipe organs.

Mr. Marshall gave an interesting astronomical talk, using a machine that showed the position of the planets in the solar system. Some experiments on hydrogen were afterwards attempted.

At the next meeting, Mr. Marshall described the engineer's transit and suggested that the club do some field work with the instrument, and perform the calculations in future meetings. The fundamentals of the strength of materials were also taken up.

The club enjoyed an outdoor social at the end of the season.

RAILROAD CLUB

REAR ROW-William Kollmyer, Arnold Booth, Arthur Tice.

MIDDLE ROW-Loring Zeliff, LeClaire N. Filiatreault, Adviser, William Orr, Secretary, Malcolm Macauly, Murray Dietrich, Joseph Kerwin, Francis Springfield.

Railroad Club

THE Railroad Club of the East Orange High School is, perhaps, the only high school organization of its kind in the country. It is a group of boys who have a definite interest in some phase of railroading.

The organization is unique in the fact that it grew out of a common need. The Department of Business Education has various exhibits used in illustration of its work on transportation, and—as many pupils returned after school for a fuller discussion and an exchange of ideas that the limitations of the class period would not permit—a club was the natural result.

The activities of the club have also included field trips and talks by technical men. Notable features have been a talk by Mr. John P. Draney, prominent labor leader and, until this year, senior engineer of the Lackawanna R. R.; a trip to the Erie terminal, where a representative of the Electromotive Company showed the club the mechanism of the gas-electric cars manufactured by them and in use on various systems; and a visit to the electrical equipment inspection building of the Lackawanna, where the boys spent a profitable afternoon under the instruction of two foreman electricians.

Joint meetings have been held with the Engineering Club, which has kindly cooperated with this newer member of the school organizations.

Secretarial Club

THE first meeting of the Secretarial Club was held in 114 on Wednesday, November 18; at this time the officers for the school year 1931-1932 were elected.

The club activities for the year were interesting and educational. On December 9, there was a business meeting to make plans for the Christmas party, which was held on December 16; on January 20, Mr. Gomez demonstrated the ediphone and told of its advantages; a typewriting contest was held on March 16; on April 2, a business meeting was called in order to make plans for the theatre party which was held on April 20; the club visited the New York Stock Exchange on May 18; and on June 15 came the farewell party.

The committees for the year were as follows: Program—Evelyn Ellsworth, chairman, Grace Roach, Ruth Hall; Entertainment—Doris McLaughlin, chairman, Ann Desmond, M. Nonnenmacker, Margaret Brog, Ethel Desmond.

A great part of the organization's success was due to the able assistance of Miss Ruth Stacey and Mrs. C. Hamlen.

ART CLUB

REAR Row-Steven Wyman, Rudolph Ostrow, Richard Files, John Mortellite, Paul Tuttle, John Nordt, Raymond Spilsbury, Benjamin West, Elmer Gagnon.

SECOND Row-Della M. Hackett, Adviser, Gertrude Mahlck, Marguerite Roll, Shirley Morehouse, Ruth Fink, Dorothy Linneman, Doris Bangert, Elizabeth Halgren, Cathryn White, Dorothea Larsen, Ruth Wurts.

Art Club

THE Art Club had a very interesting as well as active season. Instead of following the plan of the past, the club spent part of the time in art work out-of-doors. The enthusiasm with which this plan was received resulted in excellent work.

In the latter part of October, the club visited the Montclair Museum to see the work of artists of Northern Jersey. Miss Hackett, the faculty adviser, was well represented by an interesting study: The Old Glass Bowl.

In December, the club held a sale of Japanese prints. The profits were used to frame the well-known picture of George Washington by Gilbert Stuart. This picture was presented to the school for the opening of the Bicentennial, and is now in a prominent position in one of the corridors.

After the Christmas vacation, the members prepared for the May sale and exhibit. Work was done in oil, pastel, colored pencil, water color, ink, charcoal, and pencil. The child's head carved by Dorothea Larsen was exceptionally fine because of its delicate characterization.

Among the things stressed at the meetings were the originality of a subject and the effort that should be used in making it one's best. Each member had the privilege of doing the work in which he was most interested, and the results of the method were such that the adviser and the club members look upon the work with pride.

The members have learned much through these club meetings about the appreciation of art: appreciation not only of the finished picture, but also of the effort it represents. They have enriched their lives by becoming conscious of the beauty of the world around them.

To Miss Hackett and to every member of the club, the officers extend their heartiest thanks for their cooperation, and the part each played in making the year a success.

SPANISH CLUB

REAR Row-Bernard Wallerstein, Henry Eysenbach.

THIRD ROW-Mr. Antonio Garcia, Adviser, Frank Innis, Marvin Raskin, Fred Hanold, Robert Wilkinson, Max Lesser.

Second Row-Wendell Eysenbach, Hazel Dominick, Amelia Dresdner, Frieda Lesk, Ethel Kurzban, Gertrude Peterson, Edith Fiorentino, Faith McIntyre, John Matthews.

Spanish Club

THE Spanish Club in 1931-1932 had a very successful year. The membership, larger than usual, totaled twenty-six students. The officers were Charles McKeon, President; Catherine Doyle, Vice President; and Dorothy Bagoon, Secretary.

A very interesting idea that the club carried out was to have an imaginary tour through South America. Each member was given a turn to relate (in Spanish) interesting facts about a particular country in South America. This "trip" proved most enjoyable, as well as educational.

The club gave two very successful socials this year in the Model Apartment. At these socials, the members played Spanish games and answered the roll call with the Spanish names of what they liked most to eat. The object of these games was, of course, to give the club members ample opportunities for practicing the use of Spanish in ordinary conversation.

Many club meetings were spent in having vocabulary matches. The club was divided into two teams; and, at the end of the year, the team with the least points had to treat the victors. Often the members brought in Spanish movie magazines or Spanish catalogues, and the students translated parts of them into English.

Each member of the club had a correspondent in Spain, Central America, or South America. The foreign students wrote in English, and the Spanish Club members answered in Spanish.

FRENCH CLUB

REAR ROW—Alice Bailey, Margaret Pearce, Marjorie Gilmore.

French Club

for 1931-1932 Miss Nina Adams, who had recently visited France. The club officers were Margaret Honour, President; Eleanora Blood, Vice President; and Anna Wolfson, Secretary. The program committee was composed of Marjorie Gilmore, Chairman, Margaret Steiner, Margaret Pierce, and Rose Dirhem. The editors of Le Coq Gaulois, the club magazine, were Carolyn Henly, Isabelle Minard, and Frank Crawford.

A lecture on French Christmas customs given by Mrs. Alice Dickson, editor of Le Petit Journal; a visit to a French steamer; a tea in the Model Apartment; the dinner at the end of the year, under Miss Adams' auspices; and a talk, at the tea, by Mrs. Jeanne Fish, practice teacher with Miss Adams,—these were the high points in the club's 1931-1932 schedule.

Le Coq Gaulois was edited consistently in eight pages this year, with an illustration by Eileen Kerns. The magazine contained news articles related to France, book-reviews, a book list, songs, a serial story, interviews, original experiences, extracts from French correspondence, and other things of interest to French students. To Carolyn Henly, in particular, is due much of the success of the periodical.

CHESS CLUB
REAR Row—John Humphrey, Harold Burnside, George Meier.
MIDDLE Row—Monroe Walsky, Duane Barney, Belmont Evans, Bernard Wallerstein, Walter Schmidt.

N reviewing the records of the Chess Club, one finds that a vast improvement was made in 1931 and 1932. It not only built up a fine library, but also defeated decisively every high school of the vicinity. The team again won the Northern New Jersey League championship—with a match score of 9-0— against the schools of West Side, Nutley, and Barringer.

Some of the seasonal scores were as follows: E. O., 5—West Side, 0; E. O., 5—Nutley, 0; E. O., 5—Barringer, 0; E. O., 7—Leonia, 1. In all, fourteen team matches were played, every one of which was a victory for East Orange. This extends the winning streak, begun in the previous year, to thirty-one consecutive wins.

Other activities of the club during the year included correspondence games with Rensselaer College, simultaneous exhibits, and instruction given on a large wall board hung in Room 304. The games, two in number, between East Orange and Rensselaer College turned out very successfully. The "simuls" were given at the Y. M. C. A. by the high school students and were very successful.

The officers who led the club through the school year of 1931-1932 were Harold Snowden, President; Meyer Goldberg, Vice President; Harold Pump, Secretary-Treasurer, and Monroe Walsky, Assistant Treasurer.

Football

THE East Orange football team of 1931 had a good season, winning four games, tying one, and losing four. The team, however, played better than the scores indicate. During much of the season, Lady Luck seemed to favor the opponents of the Red and Blue.

The team opened the season at Ashland Stadium by defeating West Side, a powerful combination, 19-6. In the first quarter, Captain Richard Weisgerber of East Orange scored on a line plunge from the five-yard line. West Side, fighting valiantly, completed a forty-yard pass and a thirty-yard run, to score in the second period. East Orange scored all the other points, touchdowns being made in the third and fourth quarters by Carl Anderson and Willard Roberts.

In the second game, again at the local stadium, Kearny humbled the Red and Blue team, 13-7. When East Orange fumbled on the fifteen-yard mark in the second quarter, Kearny crossed the goal line for the first touchdown and scored the extra point. Wallace Nelson retaliated with a touchdown for East Orange in the third canto, when he threw a long pass to Anderson, who scored. Weisgerber converted, making the score 7-7. It seemed as if a tie in the final score were inevitable, but shortly before the end of the game, Kearny scored again, after a series of rushes and passes.

The West Orange Mountaineers, undefeated throughout the season, were held to a scoreless tie in the next game, at the home field also. The stars were Cross, who punted well enough to keep the team out of danger; Roberts; Weisgerber; and Francis McCormick.

The following week, in Union County, East Orange, though playing the better game, lost to Plainfield, 6-2. Through its fine playing, the Red and Blue team made thirteen first downs to a mere three by its opponents. Al Israelski managed to cross the East Orange goal line during the third period. In the fourth quarter the Red and Blue forced its adversaries to their three-yard line, where Plainfield allowed a safety, rather than risking the chance of having a kick blocked and a touchdown made by East Orange.

In the fifth encounter, at Ashland Stadium, the team conquered Montclair, 20-0. Wendell Urling scored a safety early in the first period, when he blocked a Montclair kick and tackled the player who recovered it. Anderson, in the second quarter, received a pass from Cross to make the first touchdown. In the third quarter, after consistent gains by himself and Roberts, Anderson again scored. The fourth period proved exciting, when Montclair brought the ball to the East Orange forty-yard line, after a forty-five yard run by Smith, and two passes. Montclair could go no farther, however, and kicked to Roberts, who made a long run, preceding a touchdown by Anderson.

In the next game, played at East Orange against Nutley, Coach Spear's men again lost to a team it outplayed. In the second period, an East Orange kick was blocked on the fifteen-yard line. Having recovered the blocked kick, Nutley scored a touchdown in two plays. Both teams threatened to score during the remainder of the game, but the score remained 6-0, favoring Nutley.

Orange was the next victim of East Orange at Ashland Stadium, receiving the shorter end of a 6-0 score. Steve Wyman, a substitute, crossed the goal line after a steady advance from the thirty-eight-yard line.

At Underhill Field, the next week, before a record crowd of ten thousand, Columbia gained a victory over East Orange by the narrow margin of one point, the score being 7-6. The first quarter was featured by the spectacular passes of both teams, neither, however, threatening the other's goal very seriously. The Red and Blue scored in the second quarter, when Captain Weisgerber, from a kick formation, ran thirty-five yards for a touchdown. The kick for the extra point, however, was blocked. In the third quarter, after an exchange of punts, East Orange had the ball on its own twenty-yard line. Taking advantage of a fumble, Columbia pushed the ball over the goal for a touchdown and scored the extra point. Several times during the last period, the East Orange team, fighting grimly, almost scored, but victory was left to the boys from South Orange and Maplewood.

On Thanksgiving Day, the East Orange men showed the spectators at Ashland Stadium a game rivaling many college battles, when they conquered a fighting Barringer eleven, 32-7.

When East Orange kicked off to Barringer, the latter fumbled and the former recovered the ball. Weisgerber gained about seven yards in three plays and then threw a perfect pass into the arms of Lloyd Foley, who crossed the goal line for a touchdown.

Throughout the remainder of this quarter, both teams failed to score.

Early in the second period, Anderson tallied, when he received a twenty-five yard pass from Weisgerber and ran about twenty-five yards more. The Red and Blue captain put a well-directed placement kick between the bars to bring the score to 13-0, favoring East Orange. After the kick-off, Barringer recovered a fumble. Then the Big Blue scored a touchdown after several plunges and passes. John Rodgers, Barringer captain, kicked for the extra point, making the score 13-7.

Barringer threatened to earn more points in the third canto, when Duffy, Rodgers, Eldridge, and Gialanella brought the ball to the East Orange two-yard line. At this time, the giant Gialanella tried to crack the Red and Blue line, but failed. The ball, given to East Orange on downs, was then kicked out of danger. Later, having received long passes twice, Anderson scored six more points. Next Weisgerber scored, after consistent gains by himself, Roberts, and Anderson.

The first team brought the ball to within ten yards of the goal line, when the entire second team was substituted. Sanders, again in the game, made the final touchdown on a line buck.

Soccer

FTER three weeks of strenuous practice, the East Orange soccer team of 1931 began a season that was one of the best in the school's history, since every team played was defeated at least once. It began its season with a victory over Pingry by the one-sided score of 11-0. Robert "Scotty" Young, captain, was the star of the game, with eight goals to his credit. As indicated by the high score, the game was devoid of thrills. The team won its second encounter, with Hackensack, 3-1. Though highly optimistic, after such a favorable beginning, the team was defeated by Montclair, 1-0. The only score was made from a long shot late in the first half. Reynolds was the outstanding player for the Red and Blue.

The succeeding game, that with St. Benedict, was perhaps the most exciting of the season, with one exception—the last game with Kearny. East Orange, fighting vigorously, had made two goals, one in each half, when, with ten minutes to play, St. Benedict scored three points and won 3-2. In the following encounter, though Verona was favored to win, the Red and Blue won by the score of 2-0, with Captain Young making both goals. After an uneventful first half in the next game, Kearny scored three goals in rapid succession, winning 3-1.

The game after this, played against East Side, Paterson, was won by East Orange, 3-1. Next East Orange avenged its previous defeat at the hands of Montclair by conquering that team 1-0. In the succeeding game, the Red and Blue overwhelmed Verona 5-2. Verona did not score until the closing minutes, when two penalty shots were made. The following game, the hardest of the season, was against St. Benedict, and here East Orange scored once in each half, while the clever play of Belrose, goaltender, stopped innumerable attempts of the opponents to score.

The last contest, with Kearny, which proved to be the best of the season even though it was played on a slippery, muddy field, was won by East Orange with a score of 3-0. This was the first time that Kearny had been defeated by the Red and Blue in eight years.

Basketball

THE East Orange basketball team of 1932 completed its season with a record of nine games won and seven lost. Led by Robert Wright, the Red and Blue team was composed of Owens, Rounds, Hall, Adie, Curchin, and Terhune.

Beginning its schedule successfully, the team defeated Kearny, 20-15. Mainly because of the spectacular playing of Rounds as guard, and of Adie, the all Red and Blue center who scored six points, the team held an early lead throughout the game. In the next game, a strong Columbia team overcame East Orange by the score of 24-18, although the game was hard-fought and well-played by the Red and Blue.

The following contest saw the team defeat Verona, 27-20. Again East Orange held an early lead during the whole game.

The encounter was very close until the final period, when Adie, Owens, and Wright scored. Scoring its twenty-fourth straight victory, Montclair conquered the Red and Blue, 31-16. The game proved very exciting when, in the second quarter, the teams were tied. In the third and fourth cantos, however, the Mountaineers poured a deluge of shots through the basket, allowing no intervention by East Orange.

In one of the most exciting games ever played on its court, the Plainfield team lost to the Red and Blue by the score of 21-20. In spite of the fact that the score favored Plainfield 14-7 at the end of the first half, East Orange forged gradually ahead to win in the final minutes of the fray. One of the best teams in the state, Glen Ridge, was overcome by the Red and Blue after a strenuous game by the score of 23-19. The team led by four points at the half and managed to keep its lead to the end of the game, although Glen Ridge rallied and threatened several times to overtake East Orange.

The Red and Blue squad was defeated by Morristown in a very fast game, the score being 25-19. The team held a slight lead until the final period, when its opponents made a last-minute rally, thus taking the game. Cooperating splendidly, the team overwhelmed the Alumni 47-30, when Wright and Owens were successful in many shots.

In the second game of the season against Columbia, East Orange—for the first time in a major sport since 1929—won by the score of 30-24. Wright scored twelve points in successful shots from about the floor, to take scoring honors for the game. Nutley proved too strong for the Red and Blue team when it won 34-28. Although Irvington had a slight lead at the half, the team defeated that school 31-28 by a spurt of fast playing in the final canto. Outscoring the Red and Blue in every quarter but the third, the Montclair squad again was successful, scoring 34-16.

Against West Orange, the team lost in a decisive game by the score of 33-29. In Nutley's last game of the season, the Red and Blue was successful in scoring 36-27, with Wright and Owens again the stars. In the final game, the Red and Blue shut out Verona, 33-23, to close brilliantly the basketball season.

STANLEY GRIFFIN coached his aquatic team of 1932 so skill-fully that it completed a very successful season, duplicating the feats of the great team of 1931. East Orange upheld the marvelous record of having never lost to a high school over a period of seven years. After closing an excellent season of dual meets, the team journeyed to Trenton, where for the third straight year it annexed the state high school title.

The first contest, in which Chalmers took two first places, was won at the expense of the Montclair Y. M. C. A. As Mer-vine and Simpson tied the 100-yard backstroke and Wynne took the dives, East Orange won six of the eight first places.

The next two teams to be met were Columbia and Barringer, the big athletic rivals of the Red and Blue. These were defeated by the decisive scores of 53-22 and 45-30, respectively. After Barringer came Plainfield, which had one of the best teams in the state. East Orange, however, managed to excel in the final event, the medley relay, to win the meet, 39-36.

After an easy victory over South Side of Newark, the team traveled to Lawrenceville, where it met defeat at the hands of the preparatory school champions. The only East Orange stars to win first places were Chalmers and Dixon, the former getting first places in two sprint events and the latter winning the breaststroke.

The remaining contests resulted in easy victories for East Orange, but a certain amount of respect is due Plainfield because of the fact that this team swam against the Red and Blue while two of its best swimmers were ill.

In the state meet at Trenton, East Orange won the championship without much trouble, scoring 28 points, the nearest rival being Plainfield with only 14 points. To start the meet, East Orange won the 200-yard free-style relay with a four-man team composed of Healy, Mervine, Condon, and Chalmers. Simpson took the 100-yard backstroke, while Chalmers won second and Healy fourth in the 200-yard free-style. Another Red and Blue victory came in the medley relay. The team composed of Simpson, Cleveland, and Mervine established a new pool record of 1:33 2/5 to complete another brilliant season.

Baseball

THE East Orange baseball team of 1931 had a very successful season, indicated by its winning seven of the eleven games. Coach Griffin provided plenty of batting practice for the team and produced a hard-hitting nine.

To start the season, the team was victorious over Morristown by a score of 16-7. Robert "Lefty" Wright took the batting honors with four hits. He was followed closely by Israel and Bellrose, each of whom had three hits to his credit.

In the second game, a fast East Orange team defeated Kearny, 7-3. Wright was again the star, with three safe hits, and twenty strike-outs to his credit as pitcher.

In the next game, a powerful Nutley team vanquished the East Orange nine by a score of 17-6. The play of the Red and Blue team was marred by many errors. Greene and Anderson were the best players for East Orange.

The next encounter, that with Orange, was won by a strong East Orange team, the score being 7-4. Wright scored a home run, and Tiffany held Orange to four scattered hits.

Tiffany again starred at pitching, when East Orange handed Columbia its first defeat in eight games. The score was 6-4.

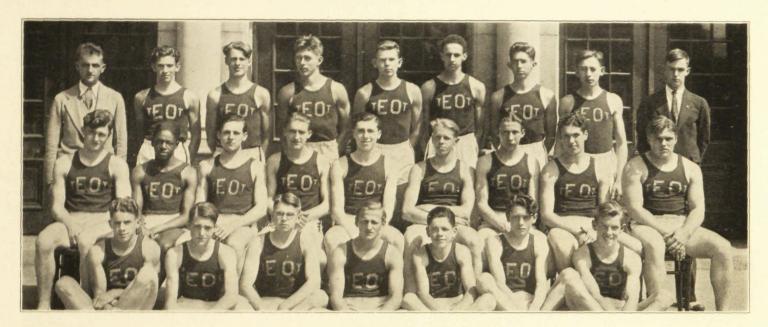

Barringer, the old foe, broke the team's winning streak in the following game. Weisgerber and Israel were the only East Orange batsmen to score hits on Mike Gialanella. Anderson, who pitched well most of the game, weakened at the crucial moments, to lose by 2-6.

A fifth victory was won when Kearny fell before East Orange, 6-3. "Lefty" Wright gave a sensational pitching performance by allowing only two hits.

When the team played Irvington, it was upset by the splendid pitching of Wilk. The score was 8-4 in Irvington's favor.

In a return game with Orange, the East Orange team won 13-9. This game proved to be a slugging contest, with East Orange the more powerful in that department.

East Orange won for the seventh time in the season when it defeated Carteret Academy by the score of 7-5. In the last game of the season, Columbia reversed its earlier defeat and won 6-3.

Track

THE East Orange track team was not very successful in the spring of 1931. It won two out of six meets, however, in spite of the inexperience of its members. Of the whole squad, only two—Bill Nichols and Brandes Elitch—were lettermen of the year before.

The opening meet, with Bloomfield, showed that the team had strength in all events but the sprints; the East Orange boys earned most of their points in the field events and distance races. Captain Elitch was high scorer, winning two first places for East Orange. The final score was East Orange, 50; Bloomfield, 67.

The following week saw the team win a close triangular meet with South Side and West Side. Elitch captured the quarter and half-mile runs. Earl Tiffany was victor in the high jump, while Ivar Akerblom won the pole vault event. The javelin throw, in which East Orange took second and fourth places, decided the meet in favor of the Red and Blue, the score being 53½-51½-47, for East Orange, South Side, and West Side, respectively.

East Orange managed to take fourth place in the Montclair invitation classic. Captain Elitch, who had become ill just after the previous contest, was unable to compete for the greater part of the season, thus greatly handicapping the team.

In the meet with Irvington, the team showed strength in winning by a score of $90\frac{1}{2}-26\frac{1}{2}$. It was in this contest that the team did excellent work.

Next, mainly because of its lack of sprinters, East Orange lost to Columbia by 62-50.

Following this, the East Orange team was defeated at Glen Ridge. A powerful Bloomfield squad collected 41 points. Glen Ridge was second with 39 points; Montclair Academy took third place with 33½; and East Orange trailed with 29½.

The most consistent winners during the season were Captain Elitch, Richard Weisgerber, Edward Taylor, Earl Tiffany, and Ivar Akerblom. Akerblom was elected to captain the 1932 track team, while Duane Barney was chosen to succeed Manager Carl Barchfield.

1931 TENNIS TEAM
Laird Tuohig, Acting Manager, Dale Wilson, Robert Bonfield, Elliot Fleming, Captain, Robert Neill, Raymond Miles.

Tennis

B Y winning nine out of eleven difficult matches, the tennis team of 1931 was highly successful. Captain Elliot Fleming, Dale Wilson, Ray Miles, Robert Bonfield, and Robert Neill formed the nucleus of the team.

Although the team started out poorly by losing to Pingry 3-2, in the next match it commenced a winning streak with Montclair as its first victim. This old rival was defeated by a score of 3-2. In spite of the fact that Elliot Fleming lost his match to Don Wallace, the Montclair ace, and that Fleming and Wilson were vanquished in the first doubles, Miles and Bonfield managed to win their doubles match; and Wilson and Miles were victorious over Johnson and Michel, respectively, in singles.

In the next match, East Orange met Atlantic City under strong winds off the ocean. The Red and Blue won again by the score of 3-2. The feature of this match was the defeat of "Shorty" Hutchinson by Captain Fleming in three hard-fought sets.

Then Glen Ridge was beaten, 4-1; Summit, 3-2; and Barringer, 5-0. Next, as usual, East Orange's discouraging foe, Columbia, turned the team back, 3-2. Fleming came through by defeating Austin, the diminutive Red and Black captain. In the next two singles matches, however, Miles and Bonfield were beaten by Hoppock and Wilson, respectively, in two grueling contests. Although this gave the Cougars a 2-1 advantage, the Red and Blue was still expected to take both doubles matches. Columbia thought differently, however, because Austin and Hoppock won a decisive triumph over Fleming and Wilson, and took the whole match.

In the following combat with Montclair, East Orange again won by the close score of 3-2. The match with West Side provided a thrill when Fleming conquered Harold Schein, national boys' champion, in three close sets. The Red and Blue won this match by a score of 4-1.

When Summit entertained the East Orange team at the Canoe Brook Country Club, the former school lost by the overwhelming score of 5-0. Atoning for its previous defeat, East Orange ended its season by defeating Columbia 3-2, in a return match. Showing consistent power and form almost all season, East Orange was awarded the North Jersey Championship.

THIS year's annual play, presented on the evening of March 17 under the direction of Laurence B. Goodrich, was THE YOUNGEST, a three-act comedy by the American dramatist Philip Barry. It is brimming with vitality and fun, yet beneath its surface of sparkling dialogue and clever situations lies an idea of real significance.

Richard is the youngest child of the ambitious and socially-important Winslow family. The play presents an ingenious variation of the Cinderella theme, in which the hero, a down-trodden son, is led into revolt against his oppressors by the unselfish manoeuverings of his sister's friend, the charming Nancy Blake. And revolt he does in splendid style, in the course of events falling in love with his fair liberator. It is a human and appealing drama of contemporary American life.

The role of Richard Winslow was played with sensitive understanding by Robert Richmond. His interpretation emphasized the wistful strength of the character. As Nancy, Margaret Tripp was altogether winning. There were sweetness and warmth and color in all she did. Henry Eysenbach gave a consistent portrait of Oliver, the stubborn and overbearing head of the Winslow household. Mark, as played by Marsh Robinson, was convincingly vain, selfish, and elegant of manner. Robert Preston brought dignity and professional poise to the lawyer, Alan Martin, while Muff was made daring and high-spirited by the playing of Lois Decker. Margaret McCormick's Augusta was appropriately sharp-tongued and contemptuous. Dorothée Peterson was a distinguished Mrs. Winslow. The trim Katie was played by Jacqueline Tansey.

The scene of the play was the living-room of the Winslows' house in a small city in New York State. Though simply devised, the setting had an air of aristocratic dignity suited to the family.

The play was witnessed by an unusually large and appreciative audience.

"PAT STANDS PAT"

(by Mr. H. Jones and Mr. E. McGinley)

A new musical comedy of college life written by Mr. Jones and Mr. McGinley was presented by an all-school cast, the entire company numbering about 150.

The fact that this type of production has never been attempted in the High School before is one of the reasons for its huge success. But other factors in the success of this comedy were the willing and untiring direction of the production by Mr.

Jones, Mr. McGinley's original and brilliant music, Mr. Herfurth's pleasing orchestrations, and the coaching of the choruses by Miss Helen Streit, E. O. '27. Following is a list of the principals in the cast:

Social Functions, 1931-1932

THE Social Committee, consisting of Ruth Conkling, Alice Schroder, Danelia McLeod, Alvina Dow, Dorothea Masterson, Carl Amon, Joseph Millimet, Stephen Barton, Edward Simpson, and Robert Mervine, completed a successful though not overactive year.

The Junior-Senior Promenade was the spectacular event of the season and requires the most attention. It took place in the Boys' Gymnasium on Friday evening, January twenty-second. The gymnasium was decorated in blue and red; balloons floated temptingly above. Riker and his Commanders produced the happy syncopation. Lois Ormiston and Everett Perine won the lucky-number dance, one of the features of the evening.

A Committee Dance took place in the Girls' Gymnasium on April twentieth, from three-thirty to five-thirty in the afternoon. Eldred Gagnon's Princetonians furnished the music for this event.

The Mother-Daughter tea, held on April twenty-sixth, was featured by a fashion show, a program by the Boys' Quartet, dancing choruses from Pat Stands Pat, and a talk by Mr. Files. Refreshments were served in the Girls' Gymnasium.

A Graduation Dance was given in the Boys' Gymnasium on May sixth; Rae Gerard's eight-piece orchestra furnished the music.

Orchestra and Band

THE excellence of the East Orange High School orchestra and band, under the able direction of Mr. Herfurth, is traditional in the High School. Every year the two groups have grown in instrumentation and have developed in general playing ability.

Both groups were organized on a plan embodying the popular election of officers, whose duty it was to see that all things functioned properly, to assist in the planning of concerts and trips, and in other ways to help Mr. Herfurth as much as possible. The officers for 1931-1932, from the Seniors and Juniors only, were elected as follows: President in charge of orchestra, Robert Elder; President in charge of band, Marcus Messing; Vice President in charge of orchestra, Sidney Brantley; Vice President in charge of band, James Martin; Secretary and Treasurer in charge of orchestra, Robert Smith; Secretary and Treasurer in charge of band, Irvin Smeraldo; Librarians, Robert Stemple and James Martin; and Student Leader, Marcus Messing.

The program for the school year 1931-1932 began bril'iantly with the band's weekly appearance at the high school football contests, which ended on Thanksgiving Day when the Band formed a "H E L L O", a "B H S" for Barringer, and an "E O" for the home school. Shortly after this, the Orchestra gave its first semi-annual concert, and a children's concert, which included selections from Sullivan's Operetta, the Mikado; Victor Herbert's American Fantasy, two movements; Mazurka and Czardas, from Delibes' Coppelia Ballet; Rimsky-Korsakow's Lithuanian Dance; and Godard's Adagio Pathetique. Mr. Thomas Britton gave two vocal solos: Ave Maria, by Kahn; and La donna emobile—Aria from Rigoletto, by Verdi.

In May of 1932, the orchestra, in conjunction with the band, gave the other semi-annual concert and children's concert, which included the Hungarian Fantasia, by Tobani; The March of the Lead Soldiers, by Gabriel Pierne; a Hungarian Fantasy by Liszt (piano solo played by Talbot Waterman); Harold Hansen's Nordic Symphony; The Blue Danube Waltz; Sir Edward Elgar's Pomp and Circumstance; and the Polivetzian Dances from Prince Igor—all by the orchestra. The band followed with the overture to Richard Wagner's Rienzi; the Song of the Marching Men, by Henry Hadley; Percy Grainger's Country Gardens; and the Sakuntola by Carl Goldmark.

It is significant to say that six members of the orchestra attended the All-Eastern High School Orchestra Camp, held at Belgrade Lakes, Maine, during the summer of 1931. Of these, two received honorary scholarships: Robert Fenwick and Marcus Messing.

The year marked the fifth annual state contest for orchestras and bands of all preparatory or high schools that cared to enter. Because the orchestra won the contests for the three previous years, thus keeping permanently the trophy emblematic of a state championship orchestra, only the band could compete. Since the band won the contests twice before, a third victory would give it also permanent possession of the statuette. Because of the lack of financial resources, the orchestra was prevented from entering the national orchestra contest in 1931, but at the suggestion of the New Jersey Music Supervision Association, it planned to enter the national contest at Washington, D. C., in May, 1932.

Class Prophecy

THE blare of a championship band! Lines of students filing in! The preliminaries of a chapel program, and then Mr. Files, leaning on a cane, hobbles forward and addresses the Class of Nineteen fifty-seven in the quavering voice of old age.

"We are today, through the medium of television, going to show to you just what the Class of twenty-five years ago, Nineteen thirty-two, have done since their graduation, as an example to you who are going into the world next month."

The first picture is thrown on the screen. A glass door appears, on which is inscribed in letters of gold the name of the inventor of the three-branched cigar holder, which enables the smoker to enjoy three cigars at once. Our gaze travels beyond the door into the room. We see the bald cranium of the president of the company, who is enjoying a moment of relaxation, his feet on the desk, and three cigars in his mouth. We have time to note that he is more portly than when we knew him, when he turns his head, realizes he is observed, puts his feet to the floor, and takes his cigars from his mouth long enough to smile at us before he pokes them in again. It is, of course, Joe Millimet—a success in life as he was during his high school days.

Mr. Files pushes a button, and we seem to be transported into a study, laden with books and papers; and among them is a man in great horn-rimmed spectacles. He looks up, and—shades of the Divers Page!—it is the well-known philologist, Professor Frank Crawford, hard at work on his Thesaurus of Polysyllabic Ideo-blones.

"Edward Simpson". Of course, when Mr. Files mentions that name, we of the Class of Nineteen thirty-two immediately think of the White House; and our expectations are verified, for there before the ancient portico stands the President's car, and at the wheel sits Mr. Simpson, in chauffeur's helmet and puttees. But he has not forgotten his executive training, for in his off hours he presides as High Chief Potentate of the Lodge of Exalted Narwhals.

New Japan next flickers before our vision, and we see a lady reporter of serious mien taking notes as she interviews a general, on whose face can be read the pride which he feels at having extended Japan's boundaries to Samarkand. The papers are full of this lady's spectacular reports of the doings of the Japanese army. The special correspondent of the New York Herald-Times is, as you have probably guessed, Margaret Honour.

Mr. Files' falsetto voice interrupts to remind the Seniors that the reason these graduates are so successful is that they made the most of their opportunities both in school and thereafter.

Then the rush of the wind and the smell of the sea call back our attention. We peer through a porthole of the transatlantic dirigible, EO-32, of the New York to Paris line. Our eyes are gladdened by the sight of a high ball being passed forward over the longitudinal lines by Anderson, who still excels in the passing game; he is chief steward on the mighty liner.

The scene is blurred for an instant, as the operators adjust the televisor for the next picture. We see another modern office and in it a well-dressed man busy taking notes, as he pours over a huge volume. Eugene Reichert is compiling statistics on the development of the Siphonapterum (flea!). Gene is famous for his opinions on social dancing and is always a judge at the A. F. C.'s annual show. "A. F. C.", of course, stands for "American Fleahop Club". On his desk, we see a handsome glass case containing (naturally) a copy of the 1932 Syllabus.

Next we hear the cheering of multitudes; we see the seashore, and a man in a bathing suit emerges from the sea. He is panting, and evinces weariness almost to the point of collapse. The place is South Hampton, England, where "Bubby" Chalmers is completing the first non-stop transatlantic swim.

From the sea to Washington our transmitter takes us. Mary Elizabeth Tuck, the first woman justice of the Supreme Court, smiles and nods to her companion, Vivian Dautel, the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey. It is rumored that the gentlemen barristers vie with each other for the right to appear before these judges. On the whole, they have also continued as they began, eminently fair and judicially prominent, although for a brief period Miss Dautel was American Ambassador to Tibet.

Next we catch a short glimpse of "Pop" Warner (we knew him as Halsey Warner), who is still managing the home eleven with great éclat; he is the proud parent of eleven small boys, all red-headed. A theater box, and in it is sitting "Lefty" Wright, whose brilliant passing and pitching thrilled the multitudes. What is he doing now? He is sitting in his box, having his fling at New York night life, and paying for it with the millions he made in diamonds.

Brief glimpses of others who were more or less in the public eye in nineteen thirty-two now flicker before us.

Frances Wheelock, who showed so much promise editorially, has given up journalism as a profession in favor of matrimony, and now can usually be found at home, either washing behind a small boy's ears, or curling little Betsy's hair. On the side, she writes articles on "Infantile Fingernails and How to Extract the Soil."

To the strident blare of trumpets, Bob Elder appears, beating his drum in a Salvation Army Band, in company with other graduates of nineteen thirty-two who were musically inclined. The light on the screen changes, and Dorothea Masterson, as entrancing as ever, and, as always, a social highlight, is discovered running sociables at a Mission School for Indians in New Mexico. How charming she looks surrounded by the little Pueblo boys!

The time being somewhat limited, the television pictures end here, and Mr. Files continues the history orally.

"On my way out this morning, I picked up something which is relative to this program." He takes from his pocket a newspaper clipping, puts on his glasses, and reads, "It has been learned today that Mr. Robert Richmond, noted author and playwright, has decided to play the leading role in his latest drama, The Air Apparent. The story deals with frosty breath on a cold morning.' Farther down, the article goes on to say, 'Mr. Richmond graduated from college in 1936; previous to that he attended the East Orange High School." Mr. Files returns the paper to his pocket before he continues:

"Another prominent graduate of nineteen thirty-two, who has not been shown to you—for obvious reasons—, is Peggy Steiner. I am sure you have all seen Miss Steiner on your own television sets at home. Ever since she won the world's tennis championship and became president of the Women's International Athletic Association, you have heard her weekly talks on 'Upholding woman's superiority to man in all the manly sports'.

"To tell you something of the rest of the class, they have either succeeded or failed, just as they did during examination weeks long ago. I am proud to be able to tell you that the C. P.'s became so expert in directing traffic during their high school days that many of them, without the slightest difficulty, secured positions as ushers at Eysenbach's Television, Radio, Motion Picture, or What-you-will Theatre. Mr. Eysenbach is, you may realize, another graduate of '32.

"Fame has rewarded those who so enthusiastically practiced gymnasium in their youth. The most recent appearances of some of them have shown them as tree-sitters and marathon dancers, making their mark in the world. Their peculiar talents have not been wasted on an unappreciative public, judging from the crowd that gathers to see one of them munching an apple at the peak of a flagpole."

A voice from the floor pipes up.

"Mr. Files, what became of the actors?"

"The careers of those with Thespian talents are many and varied. Several have made for themselves names to be ranked with the greatest actors and actresses of all time. Others tried both the legitimate stage on Broadway and musical comedy; many more made Hollywood their hunting ground. I think I may safely say that the majority of them, having failed dramatically, are now drug-store clerks, or stenographers. There are, however, several brilliant lawyers, who made their beginnings here twenty-five years ago. One of them confessed to me that he learned to debate arguing with 'Si'; others, I am sure, gained their initial practice as delinquents at the student court, trying to argue themselves out of detention."

A bell rings; Mr. Files limps back; the first chords of the Star-Spangled Banner bring the students to their feet, and the Class of Nineteen fifty-seven marches out, confident that its record will be even more brilliant than that of Nineteen thirty-two (such an absurd notion!).

LILLIAN HILLYER MARSH.

Class Will

THE SENIOR CLASS of 1932 of the East Orange High School, being of sound mind and memory, and wishing to follow in the common rut of leaving my possessions and wide (?) knowledge to those who are to fill my renowned place, do on this twenty-fourth day of June, A. D. 1932, make and publish this, my last Will and Testament, as follows:

FIRST: To my eldest, the Class of 1933, I bequeath a healthy and good-sized depression to gloom over in P. A. D. classes.

SECOND: To my next eldest, the Class of 1934, I bequeath a new, large-sized water cooler for the lunch-room. This cooler will whistle when empty, thereby putting an end to the famous old sport of tip-the-water-cooler-to-see-if-there-is-a-drop-of-water-left.

THIRD: To the Class of 1935, I leave the joys of Sophomoric dignity, and one old-fashioned drinking fountain (at the top of the lunchroom stairs), upon which to set a new batch of innocent Freshmen.

FOURTH: Upon members of the noble faculty, I bestow the following:

To Mr. Greenan, I leave the sum of one hundred (100) knuks, which money he will give as a prize to whosoever shall win a round-the-halls-marathon walking contest, or an endurance contest for the members of the Royal Order of Wallholderuppers.

To Coach Spear, I bequeath a song or cheer in which his name is mentioned.

To Mr. Daniels, Dean of 221, I bequeath the Liberty Bell, or the Westminster Chimes, with which to replace the present desk bell, so familiar to E. O. students.

FIFTH To the East Orange High School swimming team, I bequeath many more state championships, and so many more silver trophies that future generations will drink out of loving cups down in the lunchroom.

SIXTH: To the East Orange High School football team, I bequeath, as did my worthy predecessors, so many football victories over Barringer that the contest with that school will eventually become the first game, instead of the last, on the high school football schedule.

SEVENTH: I do hereby formally appoint the honorable Sirs Ralph E. Files and L. Jay Caldwell executors of this, my last Will and Testament.

Signed, sealed, published, declared, etc., etc., by the Senior Class of 1932, testator, on this twenty-fourth day of June, One Thousand Nine Hundred Thirty-two, to be his last Will and Testament.

(Signed)

CLASS OF '32.
