Senior Class History

LIKE other freshmen in other high schools all over the country, we entered the spacious halls of East Orange High School with eager eyes and high hopes. It was difficult, at first, to get into the swing of things, but we soon became active members of the student body.

In sports, especially in swimming, hockey, and basketball, we provided keen competition in intramural games.

We felt completely satisfied when some of us topped off the year by taking part in the musical comedy, Pat Stands Pat.

As sophomores, we dutifully performed the historic task of initiating the harassed freshmen, who were, we felt, very far beneath us. We repeated our activity in sports, and were again fairly noticeable for ability and interest.

For class officers, we chose Crandall Wheelock, president; Robert Schroder, vice-president; and Rose Franco, secretary. At last we felt ourselves a unit in the school.

During that year, the dramatics department of the school initiated afternoon matinees of one-act plays. Sophomores performed creditably in The Wedding, Three Pills in a Bottle, and The Travellers, and they also added their little bit to the annual play, The Cassilis Engagement.

Then, at last, we were upper classmen. We pitied freshmen and deplored their treatment by the "sophs". Quite a few of us became C. P.'s. For officers, that year we elected Crandall Wheelock, president; Robert Schroder, vice-president; and Ruth Olson, secretary. Through our junior class council, we took a greater part in student government.

As juniors, many of us became active on the News staff. Again we participated in dramatics. Some juniors were members of the casts of the annual play, Adam and Eva, and of the musical, Chimes of Normandy. In sports, we made ourselves prominent on varsity and intramural teams. When we looked back in June we felt we had done nobly in our first year as upper classmen.

With dignity we entered our fourth and final year. Now we were really pre-eminent in our scholastic world. We resolved to make our senior year memorable, not only for ourselves, but also for the school, if possible.

Many of the students interested in student government attended the New Jersey Student Council conference at Trenton. Certain ideas received from this conference were put into practice; among others, the organization of a correspondence committee; "advertisement" of the doings of class councils, by means of the News and announcements by the home room representatives in their respective rooms; and an active social committee. All these improvements were made permanent by the class of 1935 for future classes of East Orange High School.

In our senior year, our class officers were Robert Schroder, president; Robert Johns, vice-president; and Lewis Harris, secretary. The entire student body elected as General Organization officers, three seniors: Crandall Wheelock, president; Charles Kydd, vice-president; and Joan Kopf, secretary. These representatives worked hard and proved to be able officers in upholding the standards of the school.

The social committee performed very well, sponsoring a number of committee dances and two grand and successful proms.

Seniors formed the backbone of our varsity football and basketball teams, both of which were quite successful. Seniors appeared in some of the matinees and composed the greater part of the annual play Big-Hearted Herbert.

We were truly sorry to lose Doris Pierce; we shall always like to feel that she graduated with us.

Years from now, we shall open the covers of our Syllabus. We shall gaze fondly upon pictures of old friends and classmates, and feel in our hearts the sharp stirrings of pride in this, our class of 1935.

MARIE MERIAM.

Class Will

WE, the Class of 1935, being of as sound mind and memory as is possible after the four years of grueling work to which we have just been subjected, and in view of our certain and imminent demise, do hereby make, ordain, publish, and declare this to be our last Will and Testament.

First:

To the Class of '36, our immediate successors, we leave the difficult task of following in our footsteps; the job of continuing the struggle for those few things we have worked for, such as music in the lunchroom and dancing in the gym; the privilege of acting like freshmen and being termed sophisticated; and a futile attempt at producing a Syllabus equal to this one.

Second:

To the Class of '37, we bequeath the sustaining dignity of having members on the Bench, and a limited number of pretty, red and blue pins, to be presented to the more worthy among them next fall.

Third:

To the Class of '38, we leave the overweening conceit and self-confidence which they would have anyhow, and the pleasure of having at least one class they can beat in intramural sports.

Fourth:

To the incoming infants who will be known as the Class of '39, we bequeath our sincere sympathy and commiseration for the lot that is to be theirs; the knowledge that all sophomores do not speak the truth; several hundred pairs of stockings, to be carefully but firmly placed on the legs of several hundred good little freshmen girls who wear knee socks; and finally and most especially, the addition of six inches to the height of every good little freshman boy.

Fifth:

To the school in general, we leave the hope of sufficient increase in school spirit, allowances, or something, to permit an independent News, bigger and better school dances, and the production of an annual operetta.

To the faculty, we donate a vote of thanks for the patience with which they have borne with us, and a prompt restoration of their cuts.

To Coaches Wasson and Poehler, we leave the possibility of eleven perfect and invulnerable specimens, and spectators of a better calibre.

To all school associations, such as the A. A., G. O., etc., we bequeath the prospect of greater prosperity in the years to come.

To our corridors, we should like to leave a little more space, if our executors know wherefrom that might be obtained.

To Mr. Davis, we do not leave the usual gross of bright, new C. P. pins as he ought to have plenty by this time, but instead a gross of bright new, efficient, and conscientious wearers.

Sixth:

As executors of this Will, we appoint Ralph E. Files and L. Jay Caldwell.

We do hereby subscribe our name and affix our seal to this, our last Will and Testament on the 24th day of June, one thousand nine hundred and thirty-five.

(signed) THE CLASS OF 1935.

Signed and published in the presence of us, who now set our names as witnesses of the above Will.

Class Prophecy

LITTLE did I think that last spring, when my old friend, Robert Benson, now president of American Advertising Company, sent me a telegram, that it would open such wonderful adventures for me. Starving in a garret having become slightly monotonous, I welcomed his proposition, which meant a whole summer's vacation photographing the average American citizen in his native haunts for a series of advertising campaigns. In addition to the actual photographing, my assignment was to write enticing limericks to accompany them.

I purchased a car from Howard Sweeney's Agency, and with only the bare necessities, started out on the 9th of June. First of all, I visited the movie studios on Long Island to study their technique, and had a little chat with Ruth Ann Williamson between scenes. For the two days of observation I was entertained by Ann Sage, one of Long Island's most popular hostesses.

Washington was the second stop. As I drove up before the Capitol, I saw a small figure come tumbling down the steps as though forcibly ejected, clutching in both hands a lengthy paper, obviously a petition. It was a funny sight, and when the figure straightened up, I recognized my old friend, "Pete" Pierson. With quivering lips, she indicated the list in her hand and quavered, "I was just trying to get them to put the word 'Stooge' in the dictionary. They just don't understand."

Just then Congress adjourned, and I caught a glimpse of Robert Schroder, Ralph Sylvester, and Robert Caris filing out to lunch, dignified and substantial looking, under tall black hats. I waved frantically, but they did not even notice me. I sighed—as of old. But, nothing daunted, I clutched my camera and sneaked into the House Lunch Room to snap the three Representatives dunking doughnuts. The exit was barred, so I backed into the office and, turning, came face to face with the head dietician, Jean Hamilton—of all people! She posed for me against a homey background of geraniums, and fed me tea and cakes in her private sitting-room.

The afternoon of the next day, as I chugged leisurely along Chesapeake Bay, above the spitting motor I heard a voice calling, "Ahoy, Landlubber!" and who was it but Doris Ward, hailing me from the deck of a trim little sailboat. I took pictures of her that simply dripped with salt water and learned that she made coastwise excursions during summer months. The rest of the crew were in the cabin; "Seasick," she explained. "Grace Nelson and Doris McEvoy, you remember?" Of course I did.

For the next two weeks I motored South, stopping in Virginia for a fried chicken dinner at the inn that Virginia Halpin and Isabelle Murray have made so famous; and in Georgia, to sample some of the Georgia Peaches that Russell Wright has devoted his life to. I snapped Lewis Harris asleep with an insect spray at his side, and Jacques Swartz pelting him with ripe fruit from the top of a ladder.

I saw no one on the way to Florida but Johnny Murch, grown a little gray at the temples but still as reticent as usual. I spied him beside a pool writing leisurely in a fat notebook balanced upon his knees. I peered over his shoulder at the title; it was short but sufficient—"Life," by Murch. I giggled and snapped his picture as he glanced up. It was deathly hot in Florida—the only cheering sight was Eddie Price, "The Human Icicle," frozen in a cake of ice. To see him cost us five cents, but was worth it. I slipped along the coast into Alabama, having promised to visit Lois Condon who, they tell us, makes a thrilling dive on horseback into a pool thrice daily. One experience in Alabama I shall never forget. It was morning, and I saw a figure stumbling toward me across a field, apparently searching for something. It was Kay Colt. "Haven't you heard?" she asked. "Stars fell on Alabama last night!"

In Colorado I was focusing my camera on the Grand Canyon when the spot I thought was dust on the lens proved to be an approaching donkey. On his back was Marie Meriam, dusty but unconquerable, reading, "See America First." She did not glance up, so I snapped her back as she jolted behind a boulder, still engrossed in the guide-book. In Denver, tiring of my khaki outfit, I found a lovely dress in a shop managed by Muriel Bedford. She told me that it was designed by Mary Jane Southard for Jean Carswell's newest picture, "Ladies Don't Fool." I had only just returned to the hotel when Robert Collinson and Robert Buettner phoned and invited me to dinner. For the past three years they had been prospecting for gold in "them thar hills" and returning, had seen my name on the register. We had dinner in the Hilarity Room where Al Schleicher and His Boys played dance music. Livingston Gearheart was at the piano and John Trubin did wondrous things with his violin. When Francis Erickson and Robert Gitzendanner recognized our party, they smiled so broadly they couldn't play their trumpets for five minutes. The Hilarity Room was decorated with comic strip figures signed modestly in the corners by Elmer Gagnon and Bob Schank. One selection the orchestra played was called "Cuttin' Paper Dolls." John Meeker wrote that for John Thompson to sing in Bob John's latest musical revue.

In Nevada, I bumped into Ruth Olson, driving a dump-truck. Behind her, as far as I could see, stretched a line of little trucks. "Oh," she explained, "I run a truck farm!" I passed out and on, when a cloud of dust brought us Jo-Anne Wright, to investigate. "She's the sheriff," whispered Ruth. We looked her over and were properly impressed. In her sheepskin chaps, sombrero, and cartridge belt, she was imposing. Recognizing me, she whistled up Joan Kopf who, similarly attired, escorted me through the town.

In Los Angeles I covered the 1949 Olympics. From the judges' stand I got lovely snaps of Crandall Wheelock's victory in the mile race and the other boys, Harry Stevenson and Earl Jones, in their events. Circling above the field was Sheridan Towle in his airplane, just back from his record-smashing flight to the South Pole where Jessie Craw and Ruth Boman are pole-sitting. Robert Sheckell is broadcasting hourly descriptions of the event in his best Alexander Woolcott manner, spending his leisure hours writing epigrams on the penguins' white shirtfronts. Ted Wynn, pardon, Ted White, tried to compete with Mr. Sheckell, but his light treatment of so serious a situation proved offensive to many of his listeners.

I stopped over in Hollywood to see Dot Clothier, who is working on a series of "shorts" for swimming instruction. As she ploughed up and down the pool, Janet Appleton, her manager, Kay Snell, and Milmah Mowry sipped iced tea in the shade of the patio. They told me that Myra Jean Doolittle and Anne Wolfson were in town also, providing organ and piano sound effects for an experiment in artistic movies that Ruth McCarthy and Jane Duffy were sponsoring. I did not have time to see them, as I was invited to spend the remaining two days of my stay at Paula Murphy's lovely mountain home, next door to Virginia LeMassena's log cabin.

Two weeks later I was saddling my pony in the corral of Jane Munro's Montana ranch, when the telegram came. It was short and very much to the point. "If you're still taking pictures, stop stop. Firm bankrupt stop Salary must be stopped." I stopped.

And so, today I am a weary, disillusioned old woman, writing reminiscences of the pleasantest summer of my life—with Mr. Average American Citizen.

Student Council

THE two outstanding projects which the 1934-1935 Student Council undertook and carried through were an eight-point plan for the improvement of school government and a revision of the constitution of the General Organization.

The eight-point plan was formulated by a committee of representatives who attended the Student Government Conference at Trenton. The plan provided for a meeting of all students participating in school government at which reports from the conference were given, an open meeting of all students interested fostering a school improvement project, a discussion in the home rooms concerning student government, the formation of a permanent improvement committee, the formation of a correspondence committee to keep in touch with Student activity in other schools, the preparation of an instructive handbook, regular auditorium periods, publicity in the High School News, and entertainment during lunch periods. This plan was carried out by a number of committees chosen from the Student Council.

The constitution of the General Organization was revised by a committee of four. The changes which were made were numerous. The more radical changes were a new method of electing officers which would offer better officer material, and the addition of students to the membership of the Student Council, so as to increase committee material and afford a more representative and democratic governing body.

Student Court

THE Boys' Court, under the leadership of Sheridan Towle, has completed another successful year. Working with the chief justice were senior judges Rodney Adams, Elmer Gagnon, George Plain, Edward Price, Arthur Starling, and Harry Stevenson, and two junior judges, William Mercer and Jack Quinn.

Scarcely a day went by that court was not held in 222. The most frequent rules broken were those of smoking on school property and being off the school grounds without permission. When any question arose, the adviser, Mr. Knight, was consulted.

The Girls' Court, meeting in the Board of Education room, has completed an active year with equal success. Not many summonses were given, but many girls received detention because of having received two warnings for breaking school and study hall rules.

The Girls' Court was directed by the chief justice, Jo-Anne Wright, with the able assistance of six senior judges: Helen Creasy, Page Grosenbaugh, Jean Hamilton, Joan Kopf, Ruth Olson, and Evelyn Rinehardt; and two junior judges: Margaret Hill and Jeanne McCormick. Mr. Hubbard advised when any difficulties presented themselves.

Both courts have appreciated the cooperation of the Councils and the Corridor Patrol this year. The judges have tried to be fair and impartial in their decisions.

Junior Class History

THE Class of 1936 entered East Orange High School with the resolution to be "different." Many were the tales that had reached our ears "way back thar" in grammar school about the fate of our forerunners, the Class of '35, as freshmen. Because of this, we walked in the first day—front door, of course—with the determination not to look like freshmen anyway. We put up a brave front, but it seemed that invariably our erstwhile friends, the sophomores, found us out.

It was slightly beyond our comprehension, at first, to think of all the freshmen together as a group to which we belonged. We needed a little time, however, to make friends. The business of becoming acquainted was greatly facilitated by some club or activity to interest each one of us, as well as by our actual school work.

Even those of us who were not particularly drama minded, our graduation play successes still fresh in our memories, attended the try-outs for the plays, and how very wonderful we felt when some of us, out of the great number who flocked to the auditorium, really were given parts. A few were actually in enough plays to obtain the coveted honor of a Buskin and Brush membership.

To most of us, the privilege of swimming was foremost in our new recreational advantages, but the gymnasium apparatus and being able to participate in our favorite sport after school through the A. A. were added joys.

The following year we suddenly found ourselves with a year of high school to look back upon; we were sophomores! "You can always tell a sophomore, but you can't tell him much," we read in the News; and if the truth be told, we were fine examples of that. We elected our class officers after much circulating of petitions and canvassing by the individual campaign managers. We selected Herbert Condit for our president, Lester Bittel as vice-president, and William O'Brien, secretary.

On becoming sophomores, we found many new privileges. We could now join clubs that had hitherto been closed to us. Our interest in school sports increased as many of our class "went out for" the different teams. Our classmates who were members of the Glee Club took part in the operetta, The Chimes of Normandy, a production which the rest of us enjoyed as spectators. In short, our sophomore term sped by on winged feet.

As each year passes, we belie our former statement and firm conviction that the preceding year has been the happiest. Perhaps we shall do exactly the same thing at the close of our senior year, but, still in all, with our present added privileges and responsibilities and liberties, we are enjoying our high school life to the utmost right now. This year we elected James Weyhenmeyer president of our class; Gula Moench, vice-president; and Helen Dill, secretary.

Many are now on the class council or have acquired C. P. pins. Those ambitious in the athletic field have really achieved some recognition. Dramatic presentations have been aided by our participation and support. On the whole, we might call our junior year our most interesting period in high school.

Yes, Class of '35, we do feel ourselves fast approaching the "snooty senior" stage and are very proud of it. The best of luck to you, and may we take your place at the top of E.O.H.S. and give to it a loyalty as great as that you have shown.

Glee Club

ALTHOUGH the voice department did not produce an opera this year, the various vocal ensembles were more active than usual. The East Orange High School male quartette appeared before the P. T. A. of Springfield, the Girl Reserves, the Orphans' Home, and on glee club concert programs.

The Spiritual Choir gave concerts in the Union Baptist Church on Oakwood Avenue and the Church of the Epiphany in Orange, besides appearing in concert with the glee club.

The A Capella Choir sang before the Women's Guild of Calvary Church and journeyed to New York City to sing a carol program in G. Schirmers' retail store on 43rd St. Later they gave a concert in Central Brick Church, one in Westfield High School, and another before the Margaret Yardley Club, as well as their own glee club concerts.

This year saw the combined glee clubs reach a membership of one hundred and forty. They gave their annual Yule-tide concert and a spring concert, and sang before the Lincoln and Columbian grade schools. Their annual Christmas Carol trip was made in buses and was highly successful.

The glee club sent one singer to the All-Eastern Chorus at Pittsburg, five singers to the All-State Chorus at Atlantic City, twenty-five singers to the All-County Chorus at Bloomfield, and were represented by a group at the first State Choral Festival at Trenton.

The social activities included a fall wiener roast and a spring steak roast, the annual initiation party and dance in the gymnasium with Mr. Filiatreault commanding the festivities, and picnic at Green Pond.

The officers of the glee club were John Thompson, president; Myra Doolittle, vice-president; Norman Hansen, business manager; Alice Farrell, secretary; Donald Farmer, librarian; Jane Hearsey, librarian.

Orchestra and Band

THE Band and Orchestra had a very successful season this year under the able guidance of C. Paul Herfurth, director of instrumental music in the East Orange Public Schools.

The annual fall and spring concerts were presented on the evenings of November 8, 1934, and May 9, 1935. These concerts were, as they have always been, outstanding successes, demonstrating the excellent musical talent of the school. The performances rendered both organizations self-supporting and the first concert also made possible the participation of sixteen members of the orchestra in the All-State Orchestra concert at Atlantic City on November 11, 1934.

East Orange High School sent the largest delegation of all the New Jersey schools to the All-State Orchestra and the delegates obtained a great number of the better positions. Out of some sixty competing first violinists, John Trubin of East Orange was chosen concert master. Other East Orange students who were members of this 275 piece orchestra were Roberta Hogan, solo trumpet; Robert Gitzendanner, second chair trumpet; Livingston Gearhart, solo oboe; Arthur Kubey, solo bassoon; Allison Schleicher, second chair clarinet; Page Grosenbaugh, second chair flute; Scott Schleicher, trombone; Irving Smith, saxophone; Wilbur Hirsch, saxophone; Marie Meriam, first violin; Josephine Guariglia, first violin; Betsy Bissell, 'cello; Ruth Ormiston, 'cello; Sherwood Bayne, 'cello; John Friery, drums.

East Orange also feels proud that its own Mr. Herfurth was one of the conductors. He directed the All-State Orchestra in two of the most outstanding numbers of the concert: the famous Mississippi Suite by Grofe, and the Adagio Patbetique. Many of the members of the Orchestra and Band are of the Class of 1935 and here wish to thank Mr. Herfurth for his excellent guidance of their musical talents.

Big Hearted Herbert, a comedy in three acts, written by Sophie Kerr and Anna Steese Richardson, was chosen as the year's annual play. It was presented on the evening of March 15 under the direction of G. Jeanette Bjorneby. The play depicted quite humorously the tribulations of an average American family with an old-fashioned father.

THE SYLLABUS—1935

The Herbert of the title, born of poor parents, attributed his rise to comparative riches to the fact that he was a plain man. The play presented him as an abusive and disagreeable father, objecting to his daughter's marriage to a Harvard graduate, insisting upon talking about his family's simplicity and plainness, and refusing to remove an abominable crayon portrait of his day-laborer father from the mantel. His long suffering wife finally cures him by administering an overdose of his own plain "panacea."

The large and well-coached cast was excellent. Although all the actors gave fine performances, the work of William O'Neill, Ruth Ann Williamson, and Allen Wise should be noted as outstanding.

The scene of the play was the combination living and dining room of the Kalness home. The setting ably combined the plainness of the father with the more modern inclinations of his family. Unusually large and appreciative was the audience.

In addition to the annual production, a number of plays were presented to the student body during the year. The two outstanding ones of these were Thank You, Doctor and Bargains in Cathay.

The cast of Thank You, Doctor, a comedy by Gilbert Emery:

The News

THE school year of 1934-1935 saw many interesting changes in the management of the East Orange High School News.

At the very beginning of the year there was a single group of reporters headed by a single group of editors. This board met every Monday and planned the High School News page which appeared in the East Orange Record every Friday. The number of reporters was so great, however, that only about one-third of them had their articles printed. Mr. Theron Coffin, faculty adviser, introduced a new policy for the purpose of giving more reporters a chance to write. The reporters were divided into two boards, I and II, and a new set of editors was selected to lead the new board.

Robert Benson, news editor, was chosen to manage Board I; and Albert Skea, feature editor, was elected to head Board II. Charles Kydd, editor-in-chief, was appointed to have general charge of both boards. Chosen with Benson were Winifred Webster, Charles Will, and Ruth Boman; and with Skea, Evelyn Reinhardt, and Ethel Johnson.

This new policy was an immediate success, and because of the competitive spirit between each board, every issue of the News was the best possible.

The Syl.

THE Syllabus staff enjoyed its work this year and tried to produce a book that everyone would enjoy. The members of the staff appreciated the co-operation and assistance of Miss Bragg, English Adviser; Mr. Caldwell, Miss Hackett, and the Art Department.

Seated in front: Wright, Bissell, Kaufman.

Social Committee

THE season for the school dances started rather late in the year, with the first dance on January 30. But the series of dances following that date more than made up for the deficiency during the first semester. There were five committee dances in all, each one a greater success than the one before, with the music of the C. & L. Continentals or the newly-organized school dance orchestra always very satisfactory. One of the main objectives of these dances was especially well achieved this year; namely, to have the members of the freshman and sophomore classes join the upper-classmen to a larger extent in these school gatherings.

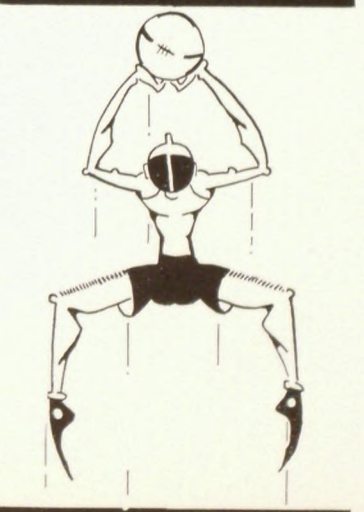

On Saturday, April 27, came the Junior-Senior Prom, and the success of this first evening dance was even greater than was expected. The celebrated Princetonians played with their usual powers of rhythmic captivation; and the girls, dressed in their most beautiful formal attire, lent an air of radiant charm to the scene well befitting an assemblage of East Orange young people. The lucky-dance prizes were unusually fine, donated by Mr. Files and presented by him to the lucky couple.

The second evening dance, and the big social event of the year for the Seniors, was the Grad Dance on Wednesday, May 29. A gay crowd of students, especially those of the two upper classes, attended, and there was certainly not one of them who appeared to be having anything but a perfectly enjoyable evening. The warmth of the spring night was offset by the cool punch which was served in ample quantities, and the colorful decorations in the gymnasium blended with the happy spirit of the dancers. This was indeed a fitting close for a very successful season of dances.

Football—1934

THE East Orange 1934 football team experienced a rather mediocre season. The whole season was marked by numerous injuries which kept many first-string players out of the line-up. The team won two games, tied one, and lost six. George Plain, '35, was elected captain, and the program started with a tilt with West Side.

The team from West Side traveled to Ashland Stadium to administer the first defeat. The day was damp and foggy, a bad one for football, and only a small crowd turned out. The score was West Side, 18; East Orange, 0.

On the next Saturday, East Orange went to Kearny and upset that strong team, 13-0, on a muddy field. Although victory was sweet, its good effects were dampened because of the loss of "Rex" Marfuggi, star linesman, who broke his leg in the contest. He was a definite loss to the line and the team felt it immediately.

The Kearny game raised the school's enthusiasm, and quite a number traveled to West Orange to back the team there. The students loyally supported the team, but the game went to the Mountaineers by the close score of 6-0. Johnny Clark, East Orange's best ground gainer, suffered injuries and was kept from playing again for three and a half weeks.

Two more defeats followed; Plainfield came here and triumphed over us 12-0, and then Montclair routed us by the score of 38 to 0 on their grounds. The latter game was all Montclair's from the opening whistle. The home team scored in the first minute of play before the Red and Blue had started. Substitutions failed to buck up the team, and Montclair scored at will.

The boys got a rest on the following Saturday. They didn't play until Election Day, the following Tuesday. This was a red letter day in the season. Because of a finely developed and totally unexpected passing attack, the Red and Blue triumphed over Nutley 7 to 6 at Ashland Stadium. A large crowd was on hand and it was a beautiful day for football. In the last quarter, with the score 6-0 against them, East Orange marched 60 yards, mostly through the air, to upset the strong visitors. Stevenson as passer and Evans and Captain Plain as receivers were the stars of the attack. This game marked the return of Johnny Clark to the team after a long absence. His presence did much to pep up the team and make it fight for victory.

Victory was short-lived, however, Orange came over on the following Saturday, bringing a certain "Bunky" Hill, who did much to blast our hopes of triumph. On the opening kick-off, Hill ran 95 yards for a touchdown. This typified his work all afternoon and with his team-mates' co-operation East Orange was placed on the small end of a 24-7 score.

Nov. 17 was the first of the two most important games. Columbia came to East Orange and surprised everyone by not being able to score against the team, leaving the game a scoreless tie. Both teams were several times in position to score, but neither was able to make the grade. East Orange was not disappointed by the result, though, as everyone had predicted Columbia would win.

Finally the annual Barringer game arrived. It was a fine Thanksgiving morning when the season ended. The lop-sided score of 26 to 7 left the Red and Blue with nothing much to be thankful for. This defeat was the bitterest of them all because of the traditional rivalry. Barringer played a smashing game, hitting the line on every play. The first touchdown was in the first quarter and came as a result of a pass, Kee to Rizzolo. The latter stepped over the goal and allowed the ball to settle in his arms. The kick was low, and Barringer had started things by scoring the first points. The East Orange team came back, fighting hard when it got the ball. Stevenson intercepted a Barringer pass and ran 10 yards to Barringer's 35-yard stripe. There the team executed a wonderful exhibition of passing. Stevenson faded back and tossed the ball 25 yards to Joe Evans, who was racing down the side-lines. Evans caught it over his shoulder while he was going at full speed and then ran the remaining 15 yards for the touchdown. It was a beautiful play and the accuracy of its timing brought yells of delight from the stands. The kick was good, putting East Orange ahead 7 to 6. After the kick-off Barringer began its machine-like pounding at the line. A drive of 63 yards, aided by a 25-yard end run, terminated in another Barringer touchdown. The try for point was good, and the half ended 13 to 7 in favor of Barringer. In the third period, the opponents buried all East Orange hopes by scoring twice more. These scores were achieved by ripping holes in our line, the method used before. This period saw the last of the scoring, and the game ended 26-7, despite desperate East Orange efforts in the last quarter.

This sums up a rather poor season, but we can all say, "Better luck in '35."

Basketball

THE East Orange High School Basketball Quintet experienced a banner year compared to previous seasons, winning six games and losing seven under the new tutelage of Coach Stanley Griffin and Paul F. Poehler as Assistant Coach. What is more, the team broke a long losing streak of seventeen games when they defeated Linden in their fourth game, 33-25. The regulars were Charles Kydd, Bob Keary, Bob Frieberger, Martin Cohen, Curtis Condit, Ted Fitch, and Gilbert Fehn. The Junior Varsity, coached by Mr. Poehler, came through in fine style, winning ten games and losing but three. Their first team consisted of Leonard DeHaven, Bob Pearsall, Bob Herder, Ernest Fellows, and Charles Gordon. The Red and Blue visited Nutley on Tuesday, January 15, to start off the season with a 17-4 defeat, in which game Bob Frieberger was high scorer with two points. The Jayvees lost by a slight margin to the Nutley Junior Varsity, 19-17. The following Friday Caldwell defeated the Walnut Streeters at Caldwell, 11-9. On Tuesday, January 22, East Orange journeyed to Verona to lose again, 30-25, and the Jayvees went on to win their second game of the season, 20-16. On January 29 East Orange broke their losing streak when they defeated Linden, 33-25, on the Red and Blue's home court.

The Junior Varsity made it unanimous when they triumphed over the Linden Jayvees, 22-11. On Friday, February 1, a highly favored Weequahic contingent fell victim on the Panther court, 21-19, but the Red and Blue Jayvees were defeated, 18-15. On Tuesday, February 5, Columbia came to East Orange to be defeated, 22-18, and the Jayvees beat Columbia Junior Varsity, 23-15. Friday, February 8, Millburn visited the Walnut Street court and was defeated, 31-27, to give the Red and Blue their fourth straight victory of the season, and the Panther Jayvees swamped the boys from Millburn, 16-2.

The Red and Blue was snowed under by the Orange quintet on February 11 on the Panther court with a score 35-19, but the Jayvees won, 14-8. East Orange visited Montclair and lost, 30-16, as did the Junior Varsity, 10-15, on Friday, February 15. East Orange was host to the West Orange five and were badly beaten 23-11, but the Jayvees won, 17-13. Montclair Academy lost to the Walnut Streeters, 28-26, and Irvington triumphed over the Red and Blue, 18-13. The Jayvees defeated the boys from Montclair Academy, 19-10, and eked out a 15-14 win over Irvington's Junior Varsity. It was a gala night for East Orange on March 1 when the Alumni came to Walnut Street. The Varsity defeated a collection of stars of former years, 36-25, and the Junior Varsity won another over the Alumni team, 28-19.

After the long losing streak was broken, the stands began to fill and soon they were packed game after game. The Jayvees won the Inter-Oranges championship with three wins and no losses in a mythical league. Much credit is due Mr. Griffin and Mr. Poehler, the able coaches of the squad.

Tennis—1934

THE East Orange netsters experienced a fairly successful season last year, winning eight of the ten matches played and winding up the season with a percentage of .800. Three matches, those with Caldwell, Belleville, and a return match against Bloomfield, did not get in the schedule because of bad weather. Slingerland, Beals, Cashen, and Dooley played consistently throughout. The first three were used interchangeably by Coach Henckel in the singles berths. Beals and Dooley paired to make one doubles team, while Slingerland and Cashen comprised the other.

Adverse weather conditions having cancelled the first match on the schedule, that against Caldwell, the Red and Blue opened their season on May 7 against Newark Academy, winning by a 5-0 count. Two days later, on May 9, Columbia fell victim, 4-1, in another home game. The next match was played against Montclair on the East Orange courts. The Red and Blue triumphed, 3-2. Bloomfield was blanked the following Monday, 5-0, at Bloomfield. The second cancelled match was slated to be played against Belleville at Belleville on May 16. Two days later, Passaic broke the Red and Blue's winning streak and defeated them in a hard fought battle, 3-2.

East Orange was the avenging host, as Plainfield came to town on May 21, defeating the visitors, 5-0. On Monday, May 28, Columbia fell a second time by another 4-1 score, this time at South Orange. Glen Ridge was defeated, 4-1, on May 31. West Side visited the courts of the East Orange Tennis Club on the first day of June and paid their respects by a four to one win, completing the season.

Track—1934

EAST ORANGE started what was to be a successful outdoor track season by beating Thomas Jefferson High School,  $87\frac{1}{2}$ - $29\frac{1}{2}$ , at Ashland Stadium on April 25. About twelve days later, on May 5, the team won its first major meet, the Newark Open. For this victory, it received a trophy of a runner, which now adorns the main office.

May 9 was another victorious day, as Columbia was sent home with  $44\frac{3}{4}$  points to our  $63\frac{1}{4}$ . Al Peschel broke the state record in the javelin event with a heave of 173 feet, 4 inches, in this meet. Two days after the Columbia Meet, East Orange vanquished Irvington,  $93\frac{1}{2}$ - $23\frac{1}{2}$ . On May 17, the Red and Blue travelled to Glen Ridge to beat its host roundly. The Wednesday following, the team beat South Side and Weequahic by a large score in a triangular meet: East Orange, 98; South Side,  $29\frac{1}{2}$ ; Weequahic,  $15\frac{1}{2}$ . May 26 was the day of the Montclair Invitation Meet. Montclair won, but as that school was the host, it did not keep the trophy itself. That was presented to East Orange as winner of the second place. One week later, on June 2, Barringer beat the team in the State Meet at Montclair. The score was Barringer, 29; East Orange, 23.

Boys' Athletic Association

THE Boys' Athletic Association is composed of the captains and managers of all the major sports of the school. One boy, interested in sports, is elected to the A. A. for the school at large. He becomes the vice-president upon election and is president the following year. The A. A. votes upon the receiving of school monograms for various sports and presents the letters to the boys who earn them. This is the only duty of the A. A. The officers are Wallace Brokaw, president; Harry Sadler, vice-president; Louis Harris, secretary; Mr. Henckel, treasurer. Other members of the Boys' A. A. are George Plain, football captain; Louis Harris, football manager; Charles Kydd, basketball captain; Arthur Will, basketball manager; Sam Slingerland, tennis captain; Harry Stevenson, track captain; Paul Kahn, track manager.

Fencing

THE East Orange High School Fencing Team, The Panthers, in its first year of interscholastic competition, won all five of its matches. The team, last year merely a Fencing Club organized by Charles Mercer and Bill Flanagan, has grown from the small club to a powerful fencing machine, recording wins over such teams as South Side, West Side, Long Branch, Dickinson, and a return meet with South Side.

In the South Side meet, in which the Red and Blue triumphed 7-0, Corlies won two matches without having a point scored against him. Harrison also turned in two victories, with Baxter, Flanagan, and Joyce each scoring one win.

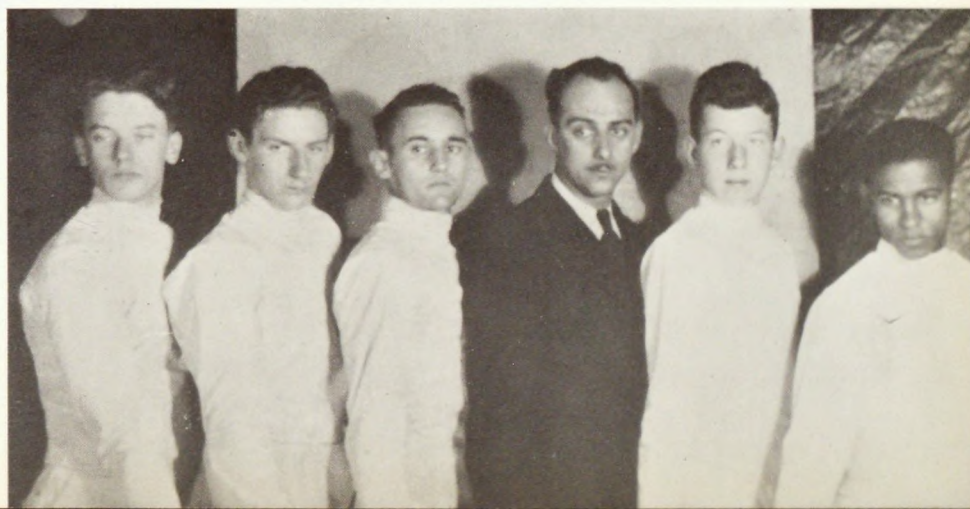

The Panthers defeated West Side, 8-1, in the Red and Blue's following meet. Corlies chalked up three victories, Harrison two, and Flanagan two, with Baxter winning one and losing one.

In the last two matches East Orange defeated Dickinson 6-3, and in their return meet with South Side they emerged victorious, 6-1.

Fencing is not yet a varsity sport at the East Orange High School and as yet not much interest has been aroused, but the boys have been hoping. The Panthers, however, have an excellent team in Corlies, Flanagan, Joyce, Harrison, and Baxter. Corlies is now the national interscholastic champion because of seven hours of fencing in the national interscholastic championship of Saturday, March 16. Corlies was but four days out of the hospital when he recorded his great triumph in the nationals. Because of an unfortunate accident he was unable to enter the State meet, which he probably would have won without much difficulty. The Panthers, however, had three native sons in the finals of the State meet, Flanagan, Baxter, and Joyce. To Bill Flanagan and Charles Mercer goes the honor of being the organizers of the Fencing Club, which rapidly developed into a powerful fencing team, bringing more honor to the school in athletic prowess. Much credit is due to the Red and Blue coach, Mr. Federici, who faithfully devoted much of his time to the coaching of the squad. He has been National Junior Champion, Drill Master of the American Olympic Team in 1932, and assistant coach of Barringer in 1933.

Girls' Athletic Association

THE Girls' Athletic Association is made up of those girls who for one quarter of a year have participated in an extra-curricula physical education activity. For this participation they receive points which are cumulative for the four years. The first award given for reaching a required number of points is the class numerals. A small E.O. is next, and the highest award is a large E.O. The Advisory Council or Board is made up of the officers of the G. A. A. and captains of all sports.

The Association met once every quarter for its regular business meeting. Other activities began with a welcoming party for all new students. Next a moving picture benefit was sponsored, which was very successful. In the spring, a combination of a basketball game and dance was given for all students. A swimming party at the St. George Pool proved to be one of the biggest events of the year. To conclude activities, the girls who had received their small E.O.'s held a week-end party at a nearby lake resort. This ended a busy and interesting year.

The Art Club

THIS year the Art Club had for its aim the development of a broader knowledge of the history of art; the arousing of an interest in beauty in commonplace things; and the furthering of an opportunity for a student to continue his art studies.

Miss Hackett gave the club interesting lectures on the History of Art, Chinese Art, Beauty in Commonplace Things, Modern Art, Antiques, Old China and Glass.

The Club made a field trip to the Montclair Museum to view the annual exhibition of paintings by North Jersey Artists. Miss Hackett had two pictures hung there, A Wintry Night and The Covered Bridge. The club also went to Bamberger's Department Store to sketch interesting hats and dresses. This trip gave the members ideas to incorporate into their costume design projects.

The club members held a social for Miss Hackett in the form of a surprise party in March.

A reunion for former art club members was held in the model apartment in honor of one of the charter members, Mrs. Ora Strange Kilborn, who is retiring from active teaching this year. Many brought samples of their own work which were placed in a book "Our Eighteenth Anniversary."

A block print book was made and printed by the members. Each member took several lines of a famous poem and illustrated it by a block print. This was the most successful project ever attempted by the club.

The annual Art Club sale was held near the close of school. The members exhibited water color studies, oil studies, and silhouettes made during the year.

Buskin and Brush

THE fifth anniversary of Buskin and Brush finds it, if not the oldest, certainly one of the most active clubs in the high school.

The program committee, headed by Robert Kendrick the first semester, and Maurice Le Calvez the second, arranged several unusual programs. One of these was a demonstration of theatrical makeup given by Miss Bjorneby's makeup class. Another was an exhibition of the stage crew's ability in handling scenery and lights. Several provisional members completed their membership by giving brief resumes of the lives of famous stage personalities such as Sarah Bernhardt, Elizabeth Bergner, George Arliss, and Edwin Booth.

Officers for the year were, the first semester: Ruth Ann Williamson, president; Robert Kendrick, vice-president; Robert Buettner, secretary; and for the second semester: Robert Kendrick, president; Maurice Le Calvez, vice-president; Robert Buettner, secretary.

The dramatic year was started with Thank you, Doctor, a one act play by Gilbert Emery. This was quickly followed by Bargains In Catbay by Rachel Field. The Pot Boilers by Alice Gerstenberg, a "Sophomore Special," was given in February. Big-Hearted Herbert by Sophie Kerr and Anna Steese Richardson, the annual full length play, given March 15th, was pronounced one of the biggest dramatic successes in the high school history.

The year has also seen the complete revision of the constitution and the addition of a Public Relations Committee.

Debating Club

THE East Orange High School Debating Clubs have succeeded well in upholding the standards set in previous years by former clubs. Under the capable guidance of the adviser, Mr. Greenan, the clubs enjoyed a very successful season marked with many interesting programs. Although strict parliamentary procedure was generally practiced, the monotony was relieved at intervals by cross-examination debates, extemporaneous speaking contests, and round table discussions. The boys' division had the privilege and pleasure of introducing the radio as a medium for interscholastic debate when it engaged Westfield High School over WNEW. The only member of the girls' club to attain the honor of competing in an interscholastic debate was Gloria Linde.

The officers of the boys' club for the first semester were Irving Kaufman, president; Albert Skea, vice-president; Robert Gitzendanner, secretary. These officers remained in office for the second semester with the exception of Albert Skea, who was replaced by Field Haviland.

In the girls' club Frances Chernofsky was president; and Doris McEvoy, secretary. During the second half they were succeeded by Rose Kozak, president; Gloria Linde, vice-president; and Mildred Olson, secretary.

Drama Study Club

THE officers of the Drama Study Club for this year were Maurice Baudin, president; Charlotte Cohen, vice-president; William Lamb, recording secretary; Anne Wolfson, corresponding secretary. The Drama Study Club has devoted much of its time this year to a study of the technique of the modern drama, with special emphasis upon the plays of Henrick Ibsen, the father of modern drama, Luigi Pirandello, the originator of an entirely new technique in playwriting, and Maxwell. They have been fortunate this year in having members who are accustomed to seeing the best plays on the New York stage, and who are, therefore, able to criticize intelligently.

Plays and skits, some by members of the club, have been acted and constructively criticized. Several members are doing serious work in playwriting, and their work has led to valuable discussions with regard to atmosphere, characterization, and plot-structure.

Several of the alumni of the school, former members of the Drama Study Club, who are now professionally engaged in dramatic work, have come back this year to speak to the club. Through their kindness, we have had interesting and instructive talks on make-up for the stage, the equipment of a modern theatre, and other practical subjects in connection with the presentation of plays.

The club has been very fortunate in having as faculty adviser through the sixteen years of its existence, Miss Elizabeth Miles, who by her understanding and superior knowledge of classic and modern drama, and her experience in the presentation of plays, has made the Drama Study Club one of the most worthwhile extra-curricular activities in the school.

Second row: Coughlan, Robinson, Tucker, Byrne, Buffum, Kurtz, Casey.

Third row: Mauriello, Martin, Harahan, Shenkel, Botos, Appleton, Doyle.

Fourth row: Bennett, Rose, Edmonston, Lamb, Manola, Quay.

French Club

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS, under the able direction of Mr. Roger Brigham, elected the following officers for the school year, 1934-1935: John Meeker, president; Jo-Anne Wright, vice-president; and Maurice LeCalvez, secretary.

This year was very successful and interesting. In January, the club visited a French theatre in New York to see Soir de Reveillion. In February, Miss Erlach, a practice-teacher in the school, spoke on "Student Life in a French Lycee." In March, a costume party was held at Mr. Brigham's house. Every one went dressed as a French peasant, and all enjoyed the evening very much. Maitre Patelin L'Avocat, a farce, was presented in April before all the senior French classes. In May, the club again visited New York, this time to go through a French Liner, and also to have dinner in a French restaurant. In June, to climax a wonderful year, the members held a picnic. At this time, officers for the following year were elected.

Mathematics Club

THE Mathematics Club is composed of students whose courses include some form of fourth-year mathematics. The club is under the guidance of Mr. Palmer, and meetings are held once every two weeks, at which time programs are presented in the form of lectures by either a club member, a member of the faculty, or a guest speaker.

The function of the Mathematics Club is not that of a supplement to the mathematics course already studied in school, but its purpose is to present to its members in a broader way both the theoretical and practical aspects of mathematics as the science is applied to modern industry and pure and applied sciences. The work of the club attempts to show that the underlying principles of all natural phenomena are essentially mathematical in character.

Mr. Hart of the mathematics department gave two lectures on the relationship between mathematics and astronomy. Ruth McCarthy, a club member, gave two lectures on the operation of the slide rule. Each member attempted to solve problems by the use of the slide rule and constructed a paper slide rule. Many other interesting programs were presented during the year in which such varied topics were treated as practical surveying, magic squares, and the fourth dimension.

The officers for the year were Robert Wright, president; Bruce Knapp, vice-president; Robert Arnold, secretary; and on the Program Committee, Catherine Byrne, Muriel Bedford, and Frances McGarry.

 Third row: Stoddard, H. Packer, B. Packer, Babcock, Thurlow, Snow, Hetherington, Corso, Sayre, Leventhal, C. E. Marshall, Adviser.
 Second row: Coleman, Lannon, Nauman, Gillette, Wildey, Lampowitz, Bernholz, Forman.
 Seated: Gage, Stump, Lee, Benedict, Titus, Saylor.

Physics Club

UNDER the supervision of Mr. Marshall, its faculty adviser, the Physics Club has completed another successful year. At the first meeting the following officers were elected: Farrand Benedict, president; Robrt Lee, vice-president; Marie Titus, secretary. The meeting was then concluded with a talk by Mr. Marshall on surveying. Membership in the club was limited to students with a "B" average and no mark lower than a "C—".

During the year the club made many interesting and instructive trips. Probably the most enjoyable one was the trip to the Industrial Arts Museum in New York. Other expeditions were conducted to the Mountain Ice Company, Kopper's Coke Plant, United States Pacific Lines, and Westinghouse Electric Manufacturing Company.

At each meeting an interesting talk was given by one of the members. These included such varied subjects as volcanoes, earthquakes, The Grand Canyon, search lights, the principle of the electric motor, and astronomical topics. Also, interesting problems were discussed and solved. In addition, the club heard lectures by Mr. Marshall on volcanoes and earthquakes, phases of astronomy, and the automobile.

Radio Club

THE third year of the Radio Club's existence has proved even more eventful and enjoyable than the second. At the last meeting of last year's session the following officers were elected: President, Henry A. Will; vice-president, John P. Thompson; secretary, Philip S. Towle; trustee, Frank Canning. The club's public address system was used to provide luncheon music in the cafeteria, to present important speeches in the auditorium, to aid in the auditions for the broadcasts over WOR, and to announce the football games at the home stadium. The Club's Radio Phone transmitters were operated on 5 and 160 meters; the code transmitter, on 80 meters.

During the year, the club visited WOR, the local telephone exchange, and the Radio Tube division of RCA in Harrison. The boys also toured Radio City and WNEW.

The Radio Club's adviser, Mr. Donald M. Hutson, gave his valuable time, making it possible for the club to pass another successful year of its existence.

 Fourth row: Dobrin, Tammen, Bursch, Heller.

Railroad Club

THE Railroad Club acts as a medium through which its members can gain first-hand information about railway equipment and operation. Its many field trips afford opportunities to study these at close range and to meet or observe the personnel at its work. This year, supplementing the usual trips to various roundhouses and terminals, the Club visited the Pennsylvania Railroad Yards on the Meadows, the Lehigh Valley Railroad Yards in Newark, the car-carrying steamship Seatrain at its specially designed and constructed pier in Hoboken, and—as an extension of their interest in all that pertains to railroads—the Public Service electric power plant at Kearny, where they inspected the modern turbo-electric generators which supply the current to the suburban electric trains. The Club remained active during the summer by taking a trip to Scranton, Pa., where they inspected the Lackawanna Railroad Locomotive Shops.

Another method of studying railway operations is through invited speakers. Among those who addressed the Club this year were Mr. William M. Orr of the Passenger Department; Mr. M. H. Murphy, District Passenger Agent; and Mr. John P. Draney, veteran engineer, all of the Lackawanna Railroad. The year was one of the most successful in the Club's history. The officers for 1934-1935 were as follows: President, Laurence A. Bresee; vice-president, Francis Springfield; secretary, Harry Valentine; treasurer, Carey Headley.

Secretarial Club

THE officers during the year were Nina Anderson, president; Selma Millman, vice-president; Anita Heiland, secretary and treasurer.

The Secretarial Club has accomplished many things this year, all of which will be useful to the members after graduation. At the first meeting, which was open to all those who qualified for membership, the club was organized and officers were elected. For the purpose of getting acquainted, a party was held, which was enjoyed by all the members. The play on business etiquette was especially interesting.

At the next meeting, the club was honored by the presence of Miss Alice Webster, City Clerk of East Orange. Miss Webster gave a very interesting talk on the "Business Girl."

After the typewriting tournament, which was the high spot of the following meeting, the members saw a demonstration of a dictating machine and were allowed to operate it. Winifred Webster and Edwina Tucker took first and second prizes, respectively, in the tournament.

As the Secretarial Club was organized partly for social activities, a theater party was planned and enjoyed by the girls. An open forum of interest was held in March, and at another time, the club visited a Newark business house.

The club ended its activities for the year with a tea, having as guests recent alumnae who told of their experiences in business and in business schools.

Spanish Club

THE Spanish Club, under the direction of Mrs. Irene Emerson, completed another successful year crowded with many colorful activities.

In November, a trip was taken to the Museum of the Hispanic Society of New York City and was followed by attendance at a Spanish theatre presentation. On December 17, the first musical production of the school year was presented by club members to the assembled Spanish students. This presentation was very successful.

Through the consistent efforts of the club president, Richard Kammerer, an honorary society was formed, in March, known as "Los Sabios." The society was created to encourage high scholarship by the membership requirements of two honor slips in Spanish and the fulfillment of one and a half years of Spanish language study. The recommendation of a member of the Spanish faculty must also be presented. A point system was inaugurated, and the student obtaining the greatest number of points by June was rewarded. Participation in plays, research reading, special projects, and independent study were methods of earning points.

Spring activities included a talk by Senorita Amalia de Orteyza, daughter of the Spanish ambassador to Venezuela, celebration of Pan-American Day, and the election of officers for the coming year.

The Spanish Club has, throughout the year, succeeded in presenting the students of the Spanish classes with an organization through which they may express their interest in Spanish topics and perfect a speaking knowledge of the language.

SCHOOL AND COLLEGE PRINTERS

THE ART OF PRINTING

The invention of printing from movable types, made in Holland near the middle of the fifteenth century, was the most significant invention of civilized man. The priceless jewel of knowledge, which for centuries could be the possession of only a privileged few, was made available to all by the development of printing. During the last five centuries printing has progressed not only as the spreader and preserver of knowledge and culture, but also as the finest of the graphic arts.

We take pride in turning out artistic printing. Our plant represents the last word in modern equipment, skillful craftsmanship, and dependable service.

You regard your yearbook as the reflection of your school; we regard it as a sample of the art of printing.

Our specialty is distinctive printing that both you and we can be proud of.

Level the Hills

Being young has many compensations.

For example, Youth is cautioned to realize that the hills in life are long and steep and hard to climb.

And Youth, ever hopeful, strong and fired with determination can, by preparing wisely, reduce these obstacles until they are no more formidable than stepping stones.

BE READY — That's wisdom!
