DEDICATION

● We, the members of the Class of 1954, feel honored to dedicate this yearbook to Mrs. Gertrude B. Jennings, who retired at the close of the first semester. Born in Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania, Mrs. Jennings attended the East Stroudsburg Teachers' College, Drexel Institute in Philadelphia, and received her degree at Teachers' College, Columbia University.

A teacher of home economics and modern living, Mrs. Jennings has watched the department grow from "cooking and sewing" to its present status. The department now offers a course for boys in addition to the various courses for girls, including one in modern living.

Energetic Mrs. Jennings organized the first Junior Red Cross in the high school in 1941 and headed the group for nine years. During the war period, the Junior Red Cross, under the close supervision of Mrs. Jennings, did everything from loading Red Cross trucks to painting at Camp Kilmer.

We students shall remember Mrs. Jennings for her pleasant friendliness and for the help that she gave us toward the most important end of education—the creation of stable and happy homes.

FOREWORD

● Our yearbook is actually a collection of the memories of our high-school days preserved through the magic of immortal pictures and prose. With this in mind, we chose a scrapbook as the theme for the 1954 Syllabus; and we proudly present this record of the many "scraps" of our young lives, which for each of us becomes the concrete symbol of our four years in East Orange High School.

In Memoriam
CHARLES E. RICH
OCTOBER 15, 1953

• The students of East Orange High School pay grateful tribute to the memory of Charles E. Rich, a custodian here since August, 1943, and the head since 1945. Through the years we shall recall his constant efforts for our physical well-being, no matter how careless and thoughtless we had been with our gum and paper scraps. And especially we shall remember his kindly smile and friendly greeting, even when he must have been suffering. We give him now our sincere thanks for his part in our education: the lessons of forbearance and friendliness.

Class Prophecy

Well, well! If it isn't my old friend, ANN GEFFINGER. It certainly is good to see you again after so many years. You haven't changed a bit. And I hardly recognized you, CLAUDIA NOBILE. I understand you've made quite a name for yourself in government work. Do come in. You know, I've compiled a scrapbook of the accomplishments of some of our class of '54. I'm sure you would like to see it.

Here's a recent clipping from the YERG, CARTER, NEWTON, HUGGINS, and BRAUN Home Institute which recently announced the development of a highly revolutionary type of phonograph designed by their foremost research engineer, FRED FLETCHER. It is being nationally advertised through the FROELICH Agency, Inc.

Another news item is that the CHASE, MACFARLAND, AND LASALLE Soccer Syndicate will soon introduce a series of telecasts over the FEDER-FELSENHELD-BAER network.

Movie comedian ROBERT WIMS was interviewed last week by DAVE GFROERER for the Newark Evening News. Let's look at the story. "The illustrious star was given his first big break by the ROSCOE HUNTER Theatrical Agency, through which he was placed under contract to the NORRIS, GOLD, and KELLER Studio. Bob's meteoric rise to fame has been climaxed by his latest picture, 'The Ace,' written by ROSE MARIE CAMPESI, directed by GUS HENNAUT, and co-starring DOLORES GORDON and pianist ROBERT ARMENTO. Attending last week's Broadway premier of 'The Ace' were such renowned celebrities as composer TOM SHEPARD and singers BETTY LOU MACFADDEN and REGINA HERBERT."

And here's a review of that best seller, "The System," by JOHN CLINTON and ERIC DENARDO. It is published by SOFIELD, FOX, and Co.

This beaming gentleman is JOHN WELLS, the oil magnate, when he returned from Iran last year. And here's a shot of explorer and inventor SPENCER SIVIL conquering the Himalayas.

Promising candidate for senator, according to this article, is Democrat ED QUINN. This week he shared the headlines with Nobel Prize winner, JO ANNE MORRIS.

The sports pages are filled with stories on O'NEIL SCHOFIELD, who copped most of the track events in the recent Olympics. JUNIE WALKER, JACK GLENNON, and DON MUNFORD have organized a professional football team. Not to be outdone, BOB DAVIS and WILBER COLE, under the supervision of their lawyer, JOE GARAFFA, have bought the Globetrotters.

I know you'll be interested in this one: the East Orange Symphony, conducted by RAY WESTON and featuring trumpeter ALLEN LOMBARDI, French hornist MILDRED CONRAD, and trombonist NORMAN ENGEL, will give a benefit performance tonight. Should you like to go? Then we'll have to hurry. They start in a few minutes. I'm sorry I can't finish showing you my scrapbook. Some other time, perhaps?

Girls' Athletic Association

BOWLING in the Emerald Lanes, playing hockey in the school yard, enjoying modern dancing in the gym, and swimming at the Y.W.C.A. are only a few of the various activities in which one might find a member of the Girls' Athletic Association engaged at intervals throughout the year.

Starting off the year with the election of Nancy Lee Geyer to the office of president, the G.A.A., under the guidance of Miss Edna Scott, has carried on a most successful program. With Diane Weber assuming the next highest office, and Dagmar Wintzer and Carol Brauer taking on the responsibilities of secretary and hostess, respectively, the program was destined to succeed.

Among other things, every one had a hilarious time at the annual picnic and swimming party held at Olympic Park in the spring.

Any girl participating in an activity at least three times in one year is automatically a member of the group and has in store for her much fun and good companionship.

THE SCHOOL YEAR 1953-1954 was a memorable one for East Orange High School students, and much of the credit for this can be given to the Student Council. Under the able leadership of Richard Feder (President), Robert Armento (Vice-president), Nancy Lee Geyer (Secretary), and John Glennon (Treasurer), the Student Council proved itself to be an industrious and influential body.

Every one who went to the annual picnic had a most enjoyable time, and the games and fire-side singing were pleasant ways in which to get acquainted with fellow members.

The Rye Beach Boat Trip Committee, headed by Elaine Keller, very enthusiastically planned to try to bring back the trip which every one had enjoyed in the past, and this committee should be commended for its fine work. In order to have this trip restored, the committee sought to provide better supervision and organization. While this plan was being formulated, other branches of the Student Council were equally busy. The Rally Committee kept close track of our football team, and at crucial moments of the season its rallies aroused a greater sense of school spirit and helped the team to become one of the foremost elevens in the state.

The News and the Student Council took part in the annual Community Chest Drive and together collected almost $2,000 within one week.

Alan Sofield assumed leadership of the annual canned goods drive for the Orthopaedic Hospital, and Joan Carter, co-chairman of the Junior Red Cross Committee, headed the gift box drive. The canned goods campaign was successful; and in the latter drive there was a thirty-box increase over the number collected last year. For the first time in ten years, officers for all four classes were elected; the Election Committee, headed by Alex Froelich, established the new procedure and put it into working order.

Many new ideas were absorbed by our Council's representatives at the Student Council Convention at Rutgers. With the able assistance of Miss Leinonen and Mr. Hitchner, this year's Council made full use of these suggestions; and it hopes that next year's Council will provide much service to the school and have all the luck in the world.

GIRLS' STUDY HALL COUNCIL COMPLETES SUCCESSFUL YEAR

(From an editorial from The News)

"... Furthermore, the Study Hall Council this year has been one of the most efficient law-enforcing groups ever to serve under the able direction of Miss Ellen Leinonen."

In affiliation with the Girls' Court, President Jean Norris's administration has done much to expose the notorious talking and gum-chewing ring which has been abusing the privileges of a democratic study hall governed of the girls, by the girls, and for the girls.

Worthy of commendation in this campaign against misdemeanors are other retiring officers: Vice President Patti Braun and Secretary Joan Carter.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

THE SOCIAL COMMITTEE OF 1953-1954, under the helpful guidance of Miss Leinonen, was headed by Teresa Womack (Chairman), Leona Taylor (Decorations Chairman), and Lorraine Benesta (Secretary). Other members were Linda Yerg, Nancy Lee Geyer, Carol Fiore, Alex Froelich, Bill Bankson, Bill Honeker, George Stewart, Dave Stritmater, and Tom Leach.

The first big social event of the year was the New Student Frolic. A talent show in the auditorium, featuring some of the top talent in the school, cheers led by the cheerleaders, and refreshments in the gym highlighted the festive event. Many new acquaintances were made and all enjoyed themselves immensely.

With the walls of the girls' gymnasium appropriately decorated with corn stalks, pumpkins, and paper turkeys, the Harvest Hop will be remembered as one of the most enjoyable dances of the year. Fred Riecke and his Country Orchestra supplied the entertainment, which included square and round dancing and amusing games.

In honor of the Junior Class, the Social Committee sponsored, on the night of February 13, the Junior Prom, its theme, "Winter Festival" and the A. S. Kreiger Society Orchestra. There was a good turnout for this annual dance, and everyone marveled at the beautiful decorations in the gym. The Social Committee appreciated the help of those juniors who assisted in the decorating.

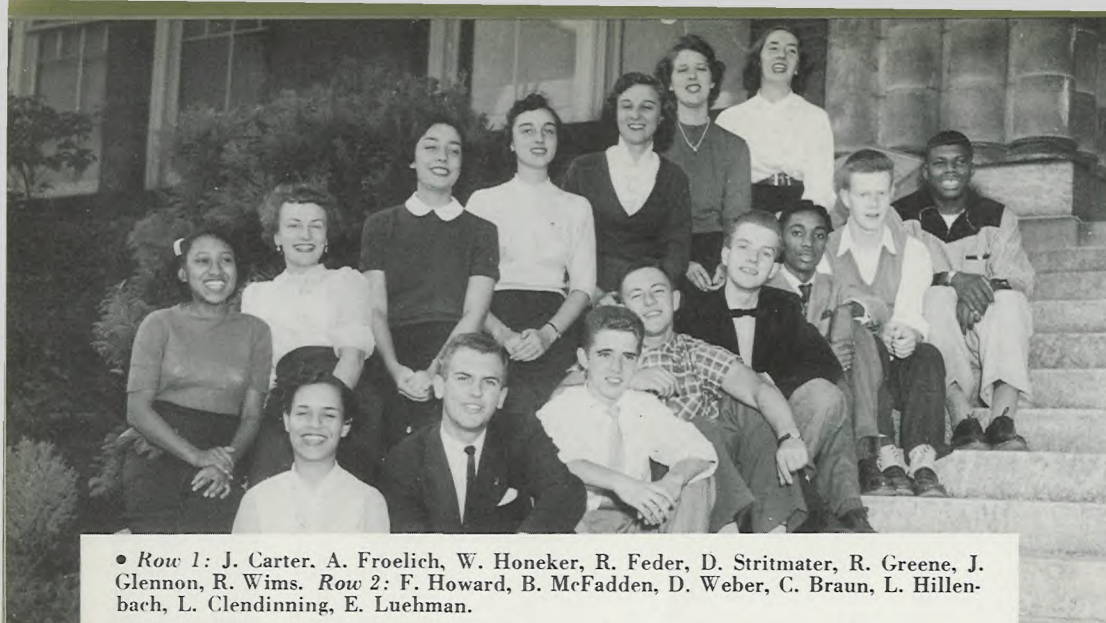

Highlight of the social calendar was the Grad Dance on June 12. The theme was "Hawaiian Paradise" and in a very picturesque and memorable setting seniors and many underclassmen and alumni danced to the strains of the Bud Laird Orchestra. A feeling of nostalgia hovered over the dancers as most of them attended their last E.O.H.S. dance. Long to be remembered was the traditional grand march in which the honored seniors participated. The conclusion of this event was the singing of the Alma Mater, with reverence and pride, "to the glory of old East Orange High."

East Orange High School News

Recipe for a good newspaper

Add to that an inspiring advisor like Mr. Morgan T. Loesch and a news-conscious staff like the 1953-54 reporters, cartoonists, typists, and photographers. Put their heads together on a typical copy day. Sift out the tasteless fragments of writing and carefully arrange the stories on a penciled "dummy sheet," gradually adding the headlines.

Combine their talents with an ample sprinkling of advertisements faithfully submitted by the business staff under the guidance of Mr. Arthur A. LePori. (Let this business staff be one with a storehouse of ideas like basing the price of The News on the number of subscriptions received.)

For special flavoring throw in a mimeographed "extra" edition in October to celebrate the victory over Montclair. Boil slowly for two semesters, stirring constantly, and you have the four-page bi-monthly called The News.

Yield: ten issues a year. Amount: sufficient servings for students and teachers of East Orange High School, not to mention the schools all over the country that receive exchange issues painstakingly addressed and mailed by the business staff.
