FOREWORD

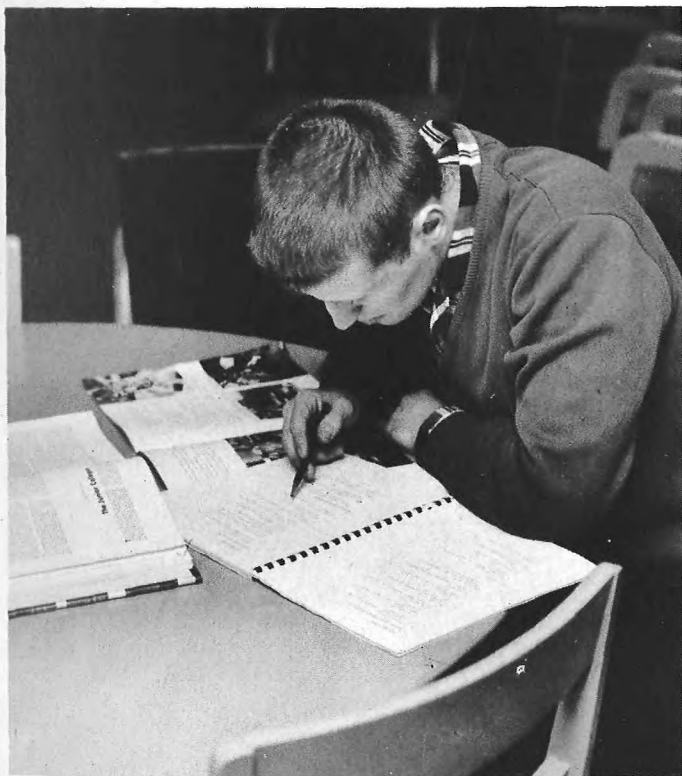

The school year of 1960-1961 has seen the dream of faculty and student body alike realized in the opening of the long-awaited addition to East Orange High School. Surpassing our fondest expectations, the ultra-modern building exemplifies the finest concepts of architectural design creating an almost ideal atmosphere conducive to the demanding challenge of education. We must, however, be mindful of the services rendered by our comparatively old building whose value will never be outmoded.

Consequently, the 1961 Syllabus staff has chosen for its theme, "Today Added to Yesterday Equals Tomorrow." We feel the theme significantly represents the fusion of the new and the old. Then life itself is a curious blending of the past and present providing us with a basis for the future. In the light of the changes that have occurred at East Orange High School during the past three years, our students are profiting from the past, learning in the present, and preparing for the future.

In Memoriam

ROBERT B. REDMAN
1908-1960

East Orange High School
Teacher-Coach 1952-1956 Principal 1956-1960

It is with the deepest sorrow and regret that we acknowledge the passing of Robert B. Redman, principal of East Orange High School for the four years preceding his death. Through those years during which we had the pleasure and privilege of being with him at East Orange High School, we came to know him and respect him. He was always enthusiastic about his work and did everything in his power to help us; for his deep concern for the students of the school we shall always be most grateful.

May we then express on these pages our heartfelt appreciation for Mr. Redman's long work for and with his students, and may we also express our regret that he was taken from us at such a high point in his career, just as he was about to become superintendent. It was an honor for us to have known him, and there will now be a place in our lives hard to fill.

Perhaps our feelings may best be expressed in the words of the plaque given by the student body for the Robert B. Redman Gymnasium:

"His inspiring leadership, sincerity, and devotion to duty stimulated growth in our school, earned him the eternal gratitude and respect of the students and associates with whom he worked, and left the enduring mark of his character on the school community."

Tribute to . . .

MRS. GEORGE ROSS STARR
Students of East Orange High School

East Orange has lost a faithful, dedicated, and hard-working member of the Board of Education in the person of Mrs. George Ross Starr. It will be very hard to replace Mrs. Starr, whose contributions of heart and mind have helped to secure the best in education for every boy and girl in East Orange. Over the years, Mrs. Starr has come to stand for and represent the highest ideals and traditions of the East Orange school system. By her perseverance and heart-warming sincerity, she has helped establish many of the unusual features of education that we enjoy today.

Mrs. Starr's association with the Board of Education started when she was appointed a member on March 7, 1938. From here, she rose to the position of vice-president on December 20, 1948. When Mr. Duke left the Board in 1953, Mrs. Starr was elected to the presidency and capably assumed his responsibilities. She also was appointed to the Board of School Estimate in 1954 after sixteen years as a Board member.

More important than Mrs. Starr's position is her genuine interest in the well-being of the pupil and the teacher. Her tireless service for the education and welfare of East Orange pupils has earned her the respect of all the citizens of this community as well as of those throughout the state. Mrs. Starr possesses a "forethought" about education that has always provided opportunities for those around her.

In recognition of her "distinguished service in the education and welfare of boys and girls," she was presented the Essex County Award. Perhaps one of the closing sentences of that testimonial best expresses the feeling about Mrs. Starr:

"You have worked with courage and foresight for all those things which are for the good of girls and boys, and which allow teachers to do more effective work with you."

Mrs. Starr speaks in tribute at the dedication of the Robert B. Redman gymnasium.

DEDICATION

Mr. Harold S. Palmer, who has ably served East Orange High School for thirty-six years, attained his secondary diploma from Thornton Academy and received his A.M. from Boston University. Prior to his teaching in East Orange, Mr. Palmer taught in Groveland, Massachusetts, and Raymond, New Hampshire; while in East Orange, he has taught mathematics, served as Associate Principal and Director of Organization in 1937, and since 1947 has been Associate Principal and Director of Guidance.

Every student who has been graduated from East Orange High in the last thirty-six years has at one time or another had the pleasure of meeting Mr. Palmer with his friendly Boston accent. A man who has devoted the major part of his life to education, Mr. Palmer will be greatly missed. He has helped students with specific school problems and has always been willing to do everything he could for East Orange pupils. Although Mr. Palmer has accomplished many worthwhile things at East Orange, none will be more appreciated than the work he has put into our Guidance Department to develop it into an organization of which we, as students, are all proud. We have come to respect Mr. Palmer for his devotion to the school and his wonderful work on our behalf.

As Mr. Palmer anticipates retirement, we at East Orange wish him the greatest success in any and all pursuits. May we also say, Mr. Palmer, that you will always be welcome at East Orange, and we hope that you will do us the honor of visiting us. We extend to you our deepest thanks for a task well done.

Mr. Palmer chats with senior girls about their plans for the future, whether for business or for college.

DEDICATION

The class of 1961 bids a fond adieu to a wonderful teacher, a wonderful friend. In June Mrs. Elizabeth Mazzola will retire from the faculty of East Orange High School after serving it well for twenty years.

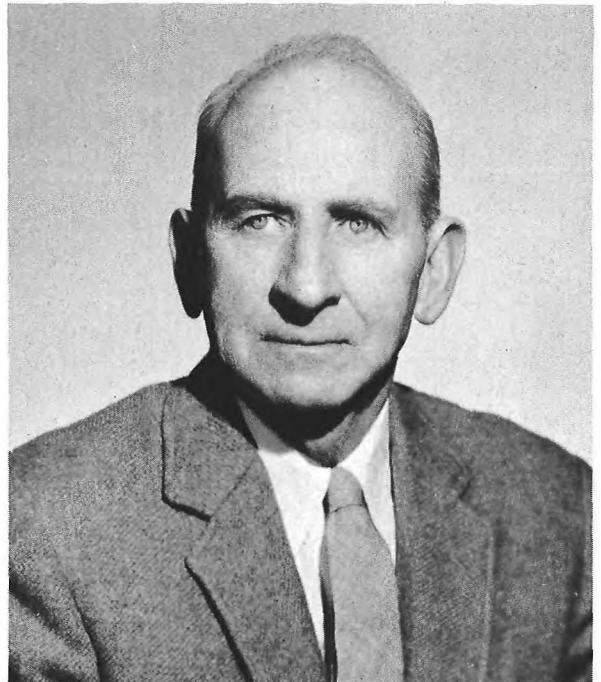

A graduate of Smith College, Northhampton, Massachusetts, with an M.A. from Columbia, Mrs. Mazzola came to us in 1940. Her services to the school have been immeasurable; her duties, fourfold. During the course of her years with us she has taught English, German, Spanish, and Latin, and also, while the German Club was in existence, she was its able adviser.

Congenial and open-hearted, of unassuming, untold dignity, Mrs. Mazzola is held in esteem and endearment. Through gentle guidance she was able to convey her knowledge and understanding with charm and clarity to all her students. Adored and revered by freshmen and seniors alike, she is a teacher whose willing concern will be sincerely missed.

We regret to announce Mrs. Mazzola's death, which occurred on February 16, 1961, after the dedication had gone to press.

This past December, Mr. Stanley M. Griffin retired from East Orange High School after a highly successful career. The students and faculty alike are sorry to see him leave. He came to East Orange in 1923 as a teacher in physical education and has been responsible for developing many phases of the athletic activity that the boys enjoy today. Among his numerous contributions in athletics Mr. Griffin started our successful soccer team and through the years has been its only coach. He also coached championship teams in basketball in the 1940's and served as head coach of our baseball teams prior to 1956.

We at East Orange are thankful for Mr. Griffin's long and devoted service to our school. To all those who knew him, he will forever remain as "Griff", a friendly and likeable man. We wish him the best of everything in his new life.

Board of Education

During the year, the students of East Orange High School have occupied the new annex that the Board of Education helped realize. By its constant search for new improvements in education, the Board has seen that our new addition is as up to date as possible. This type of foresight has earned the Board an enviable position through the country.

The job of maintaining the high scholastic rating of the school is also handled by the Board of Education. This difficult task is accomplished by the careful appointment of new teachers and approval of curriculum changes before sending them to the N. J. State Board of Education. The students will be able to look back on their "yesterdays" at E.O.H.S. with gratitude to the Board for making possible their profitable and worthwhile "tomorrows."

Mr. Smith consults Mr. Moody about a knotty Board problem.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

"The old must make way for the new" is an old adage. The new, however, loses some of its importance unless it has cheerfully and thoughtfully accepted the best of the old. This is especially true in education. In buildings, in curricula, and in teaching a blend of yesterday and today should be used in making a program designed for tomorrow.

History tells us the past, we know the present, the future is the great unknown. Education faculties and facilities must present the new generation a program that will help them through this future. Young people must, in turn, make full use of the opportunities presented them so as to meet the challenges and problems of this uncertain, but certainly interesting, period.

East Orange High School students will meet the challenge!

As the Class of 1961 prepares to stage its last performance at East Orange High School, many of you may feel that you are witnessing the falling action of a drama that began thirteen years ago and that the graduation scene itself will ring down the final curtain of a most engrossing play. Graduation is, however, merely the end of Act I—a step leading to the next act—a beginning of a new act—a commencement. Actually, the great drama is just getting started.

In the graduation scene you should surely recognize that each senior member of the cast today is playing a role that is the result of all his yesterdays and that each of us today is a product of his past experiences. Every thought, every word, every decision, and every action has contributed immeasurably to the development of the plot and led to the present scene.

And the next scenes then—if commencement is a beginning and not an end? They will contain the tomorrows whose nature has already been shaped, for "today added to yesterday equals tomorrow." So profit, therefore, from your yesterdays and your todays that your tomorrows will abound in success, prosperity, and satisfaction.

SENIORS

The Class of 1961

The Senior Class, upon its graduation this June, will assume the duties of the first of its tomorrows. If each member has built today a firm foundation on all of the yesterdays, he will face the future unafraid, knowing that willing hands and a stout heart mean happiness and success.

SENIOR CLASS OFFICERS

Lynn Stackhouse, secretary; Douglas Tullio, president; Tina DiAgostino, treasurer;
William Moore, vice-president.

Our Yesterdays

As a freshman, he was green,
A bit too short, a mite too lean.
He joined the teams, went out for clubs.
For the dance, he got new duds.
"Square your partner"—get set to bop.
Remember that?—the Howdy Hop.
How young he felt when he would hear,
"Can't wait—I graduate this year."

Wiser as a sophomore, he knew his stuff,
Juniors and seniors were just a bluff.
Not quite so thin, a bit more tall,
That was the year he won them all.
How proud he felt to read the news—
E. O. State Champs—not one did we lose.
The sack was the style; the word was chemise.
How fast that year went—it was a breeze.

Juniors and seniors were just a bluff.

For the dance he got new duds.

Then a junior, wiser yet.
There was the prom he'd never forget.
That year was the noisiest, he'll admit:
The drilling, cement, another brick.
Down with the old, up with the new;
"When the heck will they be through?"

A senior almighty, yet who could stop
To think, "Here I am, at last, at the top."
When decisions were hardest, courses so tough,
He had to admit the going was rough.
Was this the year he chanced to observe
How utterly short and really absurd
The freshmen looked as they traipsed in and out,
Starting to learn what this life was about?
Sitting atop his world as a king,
He could smile at such a trivial thing.

Our Tomorrows

As a late arrival opens the door of East Orange's famous cafe "The Cave," his eyes become accustomed to the smog-like atmosphere and he smells the pungent espresso coffee perking in time with the beats of the bongos.

Jimmie Hooper's "Hippers" swing out with a modern version of "On, East Orange," while from across the dim room come the opening strains of "Stand Up and Cheer," transmitted by Billie Brooks and his combo.

With an experienced air, Al Monica, the Dick Clark of '81, announces that David Tute, the versatile entertainer of international renown, will present his ever-popular night club act.

Suddenly, whistles pierce the smoke as models Judy Curry, Brigitte Falck, and Randy Bishop enter, wearing the latest fashions of designer Sharon Jetter.

Seated in a conservative corner, Sheila Flower, Rosalind Bjornson, and Laura Fitzpatrick industriously collect information for their theses on the influence of the Cave upon its middle-aged patrons.

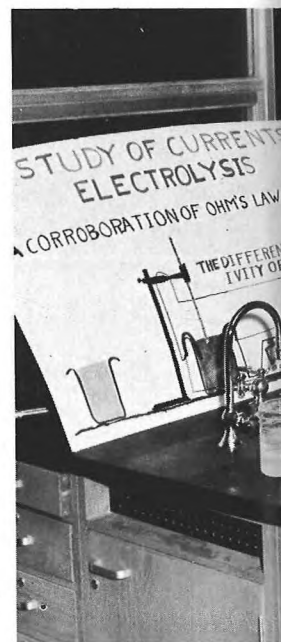

On the floor, Ike Kostal scrambles for the stamps that have fallen from his collection, which he proudly proclaims to be the biggest in East Orange. Nearby, Terry Martino, enthusiastically telling of her Hawaiian cruise, shares an exotic Japanese dish with Tom Geisler and playboy millionaire Alex Goodman.

Athletes add a touch of brawn to the gathering. Tom Frazier, football pro, and Ray Boornazian, Olympic decathlon champion, have flown in with their personal physician, Roosevelt Hobbs.

To the decrepit and dusty stage jumps a young singer, Walt Bigelow, who sings his latest best seller. Meanwhile, Ray Mead, a rising young minister, discusses his latest sermon on "those shocking new teenage fads" with the dedicated wild-life researcher, Kent Miller, and the well-known linguist, Helen Kasinow.

At another table, deep in a debate with journalist Ruth Bittner, diplomat Lawrence Cole sits with his two lawyers, Maria Stevenson and Dennis Smith, who impatiently await his attention.

As the tempo increases, two determined policemen, Robert Jones and Bob Oliver burst in and call, "What's going on in here? Hey, our old Class of '61! Can we join you?"

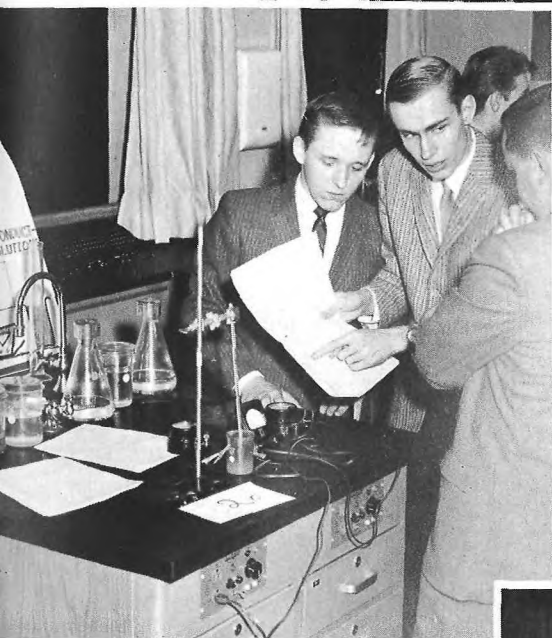

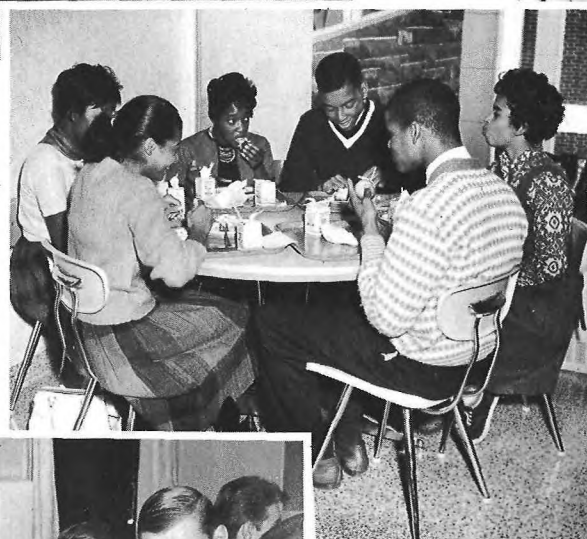

Are the musicians playing "On, East Orange"?

It must be a momentous message that is coming in.

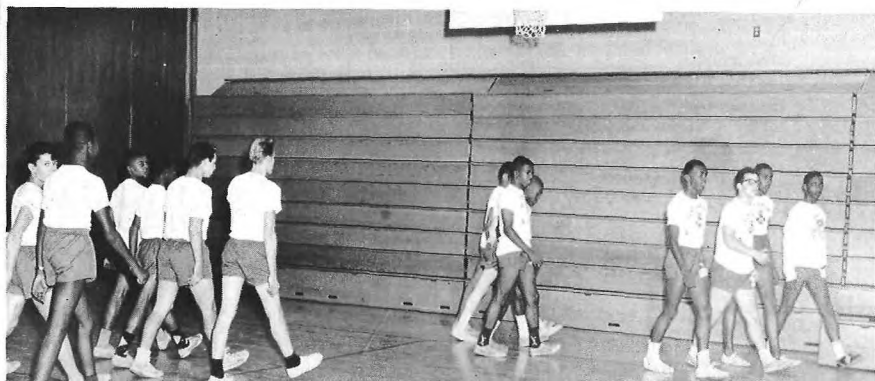

Some people really go to the cafe to eat.

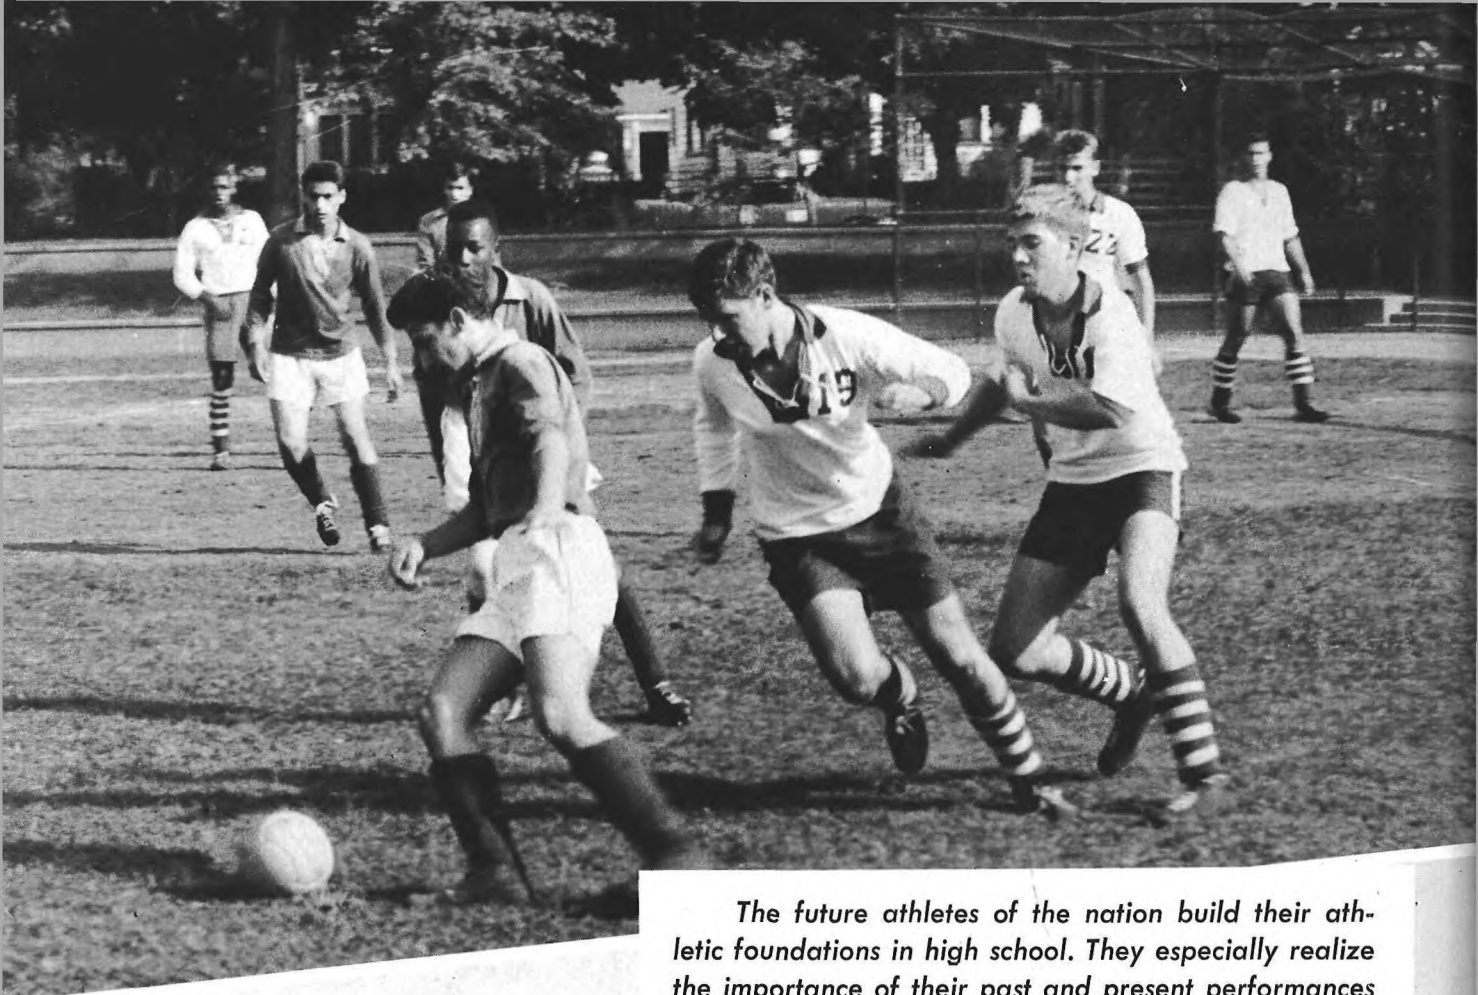

This is not the minister writing his sermon, but our ex-G.O. president explaining an abstruse problem.

How many stamps will Ike Kostal retrieve?

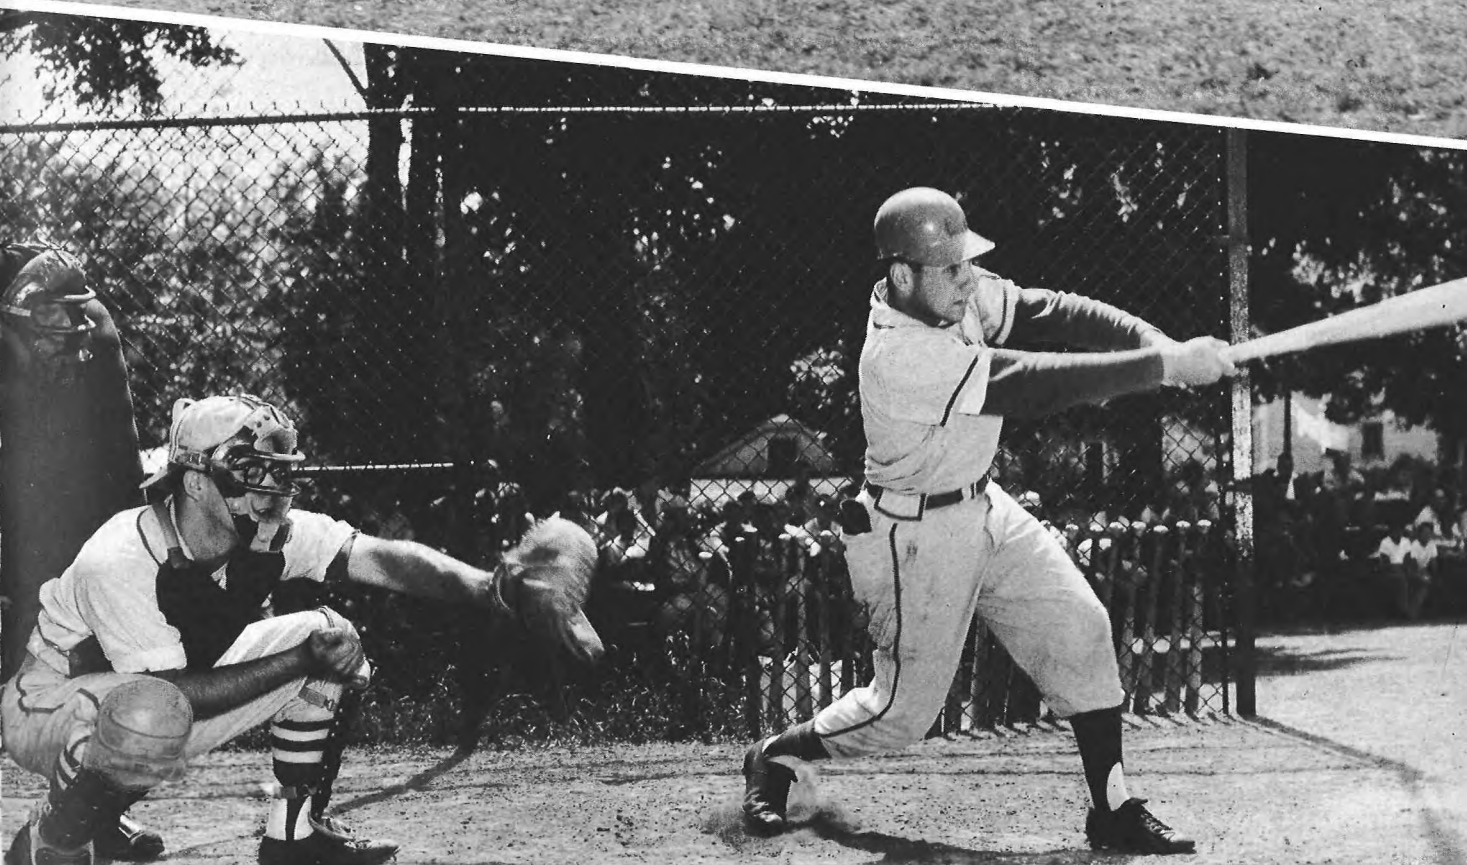

Athletes loom large in any E.O.H.S. affair.

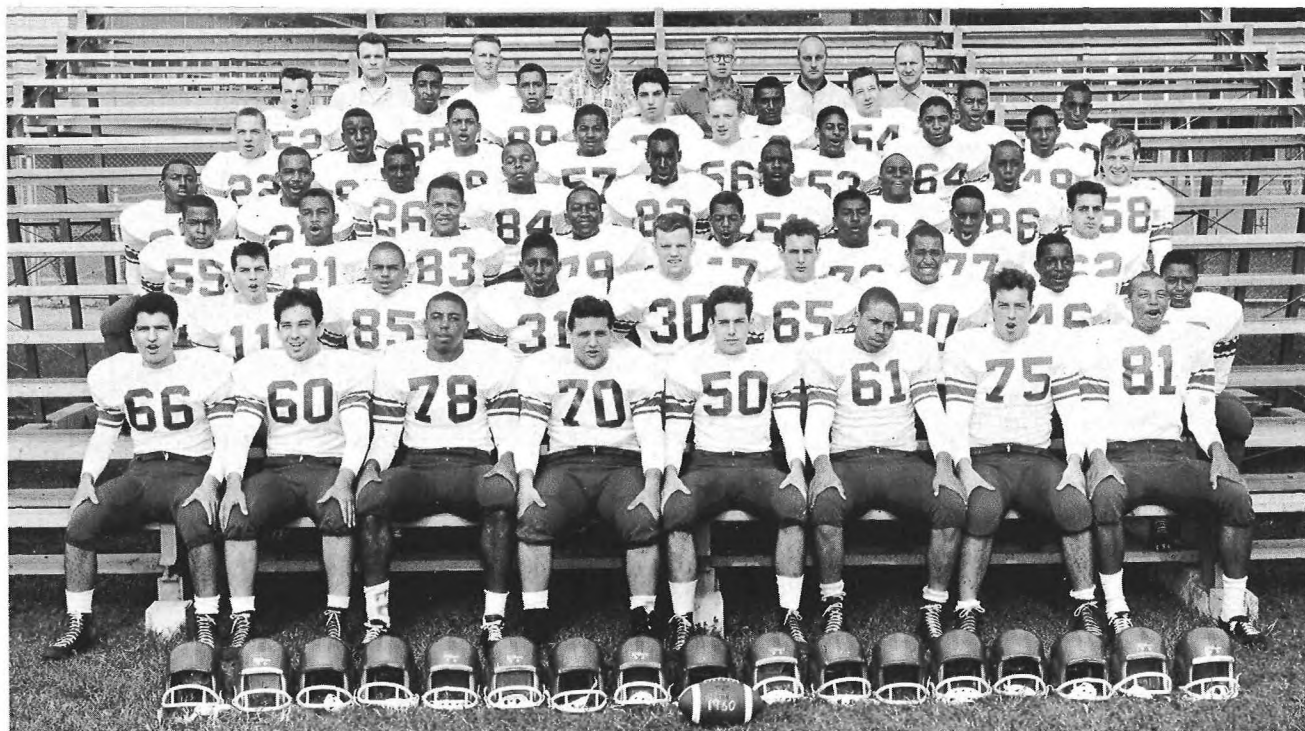

The future athletes of the nation build their athletic foundations in high school. They especially realize the importance of their past and present performances which affect their "tomorrows."

Mr. Thomas Dean

This is our new head coach, Thomas A. Dean. He was born in Washington, D.C. in 1930. Mr. Dean's first football chores started in high school as a fullback for three years. He then went on to college, majoring in biology. During this time, he served as a quarterback on a split-T at Bucknell University. He is presently a science teacher.

As a head coach, Mr. Dean has served at West Pittston, Selinsgrove, and William Penn, all in Pennsylvania. He has compiled a 51-25-4 record, before coming to E.O.H.S. We at E.O. greet him as a new member to the family.

The Coach looks back . . .

Looking back on a hard-fought season can sometimes be painful, especially when you remember the close plays. But, on the other hand, it can also be satisfying when you recall all those outstanding moments that took a long time to realize. The 1960 campaign recalls a lot of pain as well as much joy.

This season was especially difficult since I was new to the players and they were new to me. We had to feel our way first, before the tough practice got underway. Once we came to an understanding, I tried to stress my fundamental system: that is, the basic plays, the defensive concept, and important blocking and tackling techniques. Above all, the other coaches and I tried to develop the real self-confidence necessary in any phase of life.

Recalling some of the games, the Orange encounter stands out in my mind. It was a key game in the campaign, since we had already lost to Montclair and Nutley, while Orange had stung Nutley with a defeat. In the Orange game, the boys worked under pressure, but managed to pull through for us. Another key moment in 1960 was the Irvington skirmish. In that one, the younger boys got their first real test and came through with flying colors. Finally, I can't help remembering that annual Turkey Day contest with our perennial foe, Barringer. Both teams had a 6-2 record before going into the game. Harold Johnson's running, however, was just too much for the Barringer eleven. This game was a wrap-up to an interesting season.

If we can continue to build and grow on lessons learned, we can hope for an even more interesting season in 1961.

T. Dean

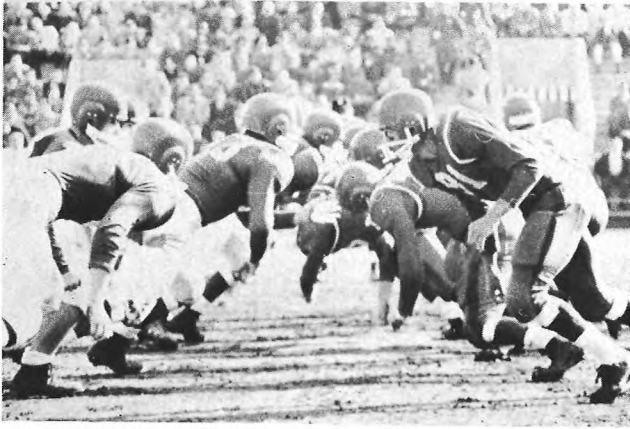

Is it Irvington or East Orange who is underneath in this one?

SOCCER

Although the Soccer team had an unfortunate season, the team members had great spirit and enthusiasm. The margin of loss in many games was so small that the game could have gone either way. Some of the notable players were Paul Jameson, goalie, and Ed. Notch and Alex Broadfoot. Other key players were Ken Boehling, and Walter Iooss. At the close of the season, the team participated in the New Jersey State League. It was a team E.O.H.S. could well be proud to have.

The starting five, Lenny Williams (not silhouetted on opposite page), James Clark, George Pearce, Richie Carsillo, and Charles Jackson, paced the '61 Panthers to a hard finish, capping the season by meeting Weequahic in the State Tournament. Under the able direction of Mr. Frank Milner and Mr. Malcolm Simpson, this year's Panther Five was predominately comprised of newcomers with not too much varsity experience.

Coach Milner emphasized that, despite the novices, four starters scored in double figures. Running down the starting five, he put Lenny Williams as the top scorer and key pivot man; James Clark as our key defensive player; George Pearce as the good clutch shooter; Richie Carsillo as the playmaker and outside set man; and Charles Jackson as the key rebounder.

Looking back over the tough competition, Mr. Milner recalled the Immaculate contest as a coach's dream. Our goal and foul shooting were above par while the defensive game was exceptional. In addition, the Panthers were one of the few teams to beat Immaculate, who in turn beat undefeated Scott. Another interesting skirmish which came to memory was the South Side encounter for the semi-finals of the Essex County Tournament. Although the boys lost the very tight game, they should feel proud knowing South Side went on to collect all the marbles. Finally Coach Milner recalled the second Montclair battle in which one point spelled defeat. We out-rebounded and out-shot them but a few careless mistakes were costly.

What about the future? It looks exceptionally bright. The varsity team is losing only one senior and expects 18 returnees, four of whom are lettermen. Also, Assistant Coach Simpson is whipping into shape the Junior Varsity squad, which won 14 while losing only 4. As for next year, look for Tom Jackson, Bill Murza, Morris Turner, and Bill Raye to provide block depth to carry the Red 'n Blue to a championship.

This year we were especially fortunate in staging our games in the ultra-modern Robert B. Redman Gymnasium. The coaching staff hopes this new facility will be conducive to greater interest and support of the game.

The ball just didn't bounce the right way for the boys on the clay courts in the spring of 1960. Coming up against some stiff competition, the team couldn't win consistently on their doubles. However, seasoned players such as Grant Sager and Ken Edwards turned in nifty performances. At the close of the regular season, Ken Edwards, Grant Sager, Simon Levin, and Bob DeCicco went to the state tournament. In the opening round, the boys pushed passed Asbury Park, 2-1, but then ran into a stubborn Collingswood team which upset the team, 1-2. Coach Robert Shaw looks for a much better year in 1961 with the younger players coming into their own.

TRACK 1960

With many lettermen returning, the 1960 track team improved on its strong '59 showing. Outstanding performances by Norman Tate, broad jumper, Jim Daniels, sprinter, and hurdlers Earl West and Don Franklin helped put the speedy Panthers into first place at the Essex County Group IV meet. Unfortunately injuries plagued the team prior to the State Meet. Nevertheless, the boys finished second only to a powerful Plainfield squad. The key assist in the state meet came from Ray Boornazian, who handily outdistanced his opponents in the javelin throw. All in all, East Orange High had a superlative track team in all respects.

... and they're coming around the homestretch with James Berry leading the pack.

Champions at last!

BASEBALL 1960

At last we made it to the top! The 1960 varsity baseball squad gave East Orange High School its first championship in the history of the school. Everyone is proud of this fine achievement.

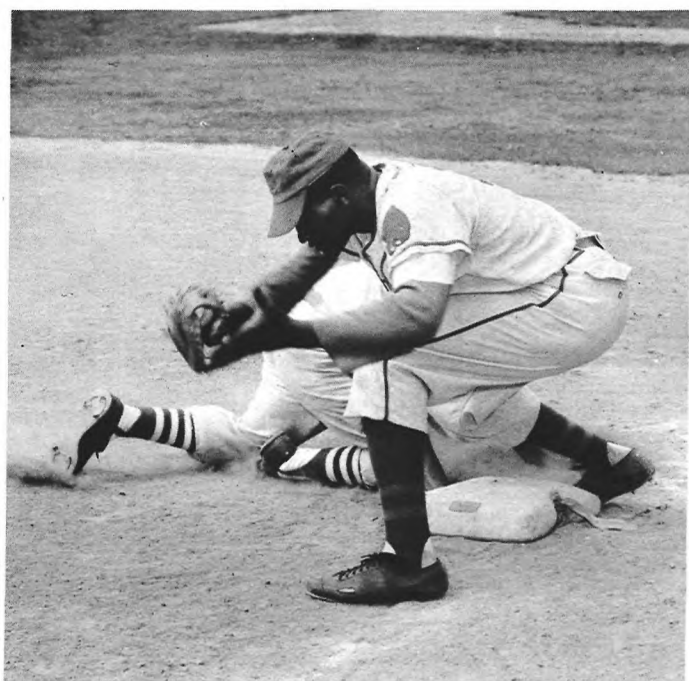

The big men in the drive were pitcher Ed Izzo and first baseman Wally Florence. With their key assists, the Panther nine finished the season with its first better than .500 average in the last twenty years. This triumph was the result of three years of preparation, because most of the starters had played two years with the varsity, while some were three and four-year lettermen.

After compiling a 9-8 record in the regular season, the Panthers were invited to participate in the North Jersey Group IV, Section II, play-offs. In the opening round, East Orange just pushed by Montclair with the score of 1-0. Proceeding to the semi-finals, East Orange quickly pounced on East Side's All-State pitcher, Phil Zorich, for four early runs. Never relinquishing the lead, the boys pulled through with a 4-3 squeaker. Lastly, in the finals, the Panther sluggers bombed Irvington, 8-1, for the coveted championship.

For bringing the championship to East Orange, each boy received an emblematic jacket. Also the school received a handsome trophy shown below, and each boy an engraved certificate. Congratulations, Coach von Stetten, for a fine job.

Coach VonStetten is questioning the call for the play, the beginning and end of which are shown in the pictures below.

CROSS COUNTRY

As always, the Cross-Country season came up with many surprises. There were many younger boys who performed better than expected. Among these were Walter Jones, Louis Griffin, and Ulysses Greene. Seniors Willie Moore, Clyde Richards, John Pinkard, and Ray Buckman, however, kept the team going. As a team, the boys piled up a 5-8 record and galloped home in the Big Ten and Essex County, 6th place and 12th place respectively. Coach Wharton looks for the underclassmen to come back strong next year.

The only time the cross-country trek is a tie.

GIRL'S ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION

Each year the G.A.A. offers a varied program of after-school activities so that there will be at least one sport of interest to each girl. Indeed, some years ago the Association adopted as its motto: "A sport for every girl and every girl in a sport."

This year the advisor has been Miss Lightfoot and the officers were Sandra Graddy, president; Carol Thompson, vice-president; Jeanne Johnson, secretary; and Gail Jones, hostess.

Under their supervision the year's activities begin, as usual, with field hockey and volleyball. Playdays with other schools give the teams an opportunity to show their skill and progress. Another opportunity comes when students are matched against faculty in a volleyball game. Also, some afternoons are devoted to modern dancing.

Beginning in January, basketball is the all-important game. After students have practiced in many intramural games, another student-faculty battle crowns the winter's efforts.

Traditionally, spring is the time for softball, ping-pong, badminton, and tumbling. Late spring offers swimming at the Y, tennis at Memorial Park, and bowling at the Palladium.

In addition to participating in the sport itself, girls who are interested may receive instruction in how to officiate at basketball, hockey, volleyball, and softball. Such instruction is given in homeroom periods rather than after school.

At the annual tea in the spring, new officers are inducted and awards presented. The freshman award is a patch; the sophomore, an E.O. patch; the junior, a G.A.A. silver pin; the senior, the highest award of all, a silver key.

OUR STUDENT COUNCIL

The student body showed its discernment when, in the spring of 1960, it elected for its officers Tom Geisler as president, Laura Fitzpatrick as vice-president, Rosalind Bjornson as secretary, and Annette Custode as treasurer. With such able and willing workers, the G.O. was able to expand its achievements noticeably. The more spacious meeting area in the new building also made for much more pleasant and efficient work.

As in the previous year, the Student Council Week in November highlighted diverse aspects of student government. In January there was an open meeting of the Council during an assembly; this meeting attempted to familiarize the whole school with the working of the government.

The Student Council passed a series of by-laws intended to give greater participation to more students in Council activities. In addition, an amendment was passed that there be two G.O. secretaries in succeeding years. This year Sheila Walker, a junior, was elected as secretary of the state Student Council organization, the N.J.A.H.S.C.

A number of clubs, including the Business and the Future Physicians Clubs, were organized, and the Chemistry Club was revived actively. The Interclub Council was reorganized under a Book of Statutes designed to make it a more effective body.

The Banking, Elections, and Clean-up Committees, under the leadership of JoAnn LaMonica, Ross Lambert, and Jon Smith, respectively, continued to perform their duties effectively. The Social Committee under John Shines sponsored three major dances; and the Booster Club, under the able presidency of James Berry, helped promote school spirit at athletic activities.

Once again the Council was indebted to Miss Leinonen and to Mr. Adams for their helpful counsel and wise guidance.

The G.O. sponsors many dances like this swinging affair.

Such active exercise requires many trips to the punch bowl.

FACULTY ADVISORS

Editorial Marion K. Bragg
Business and Advertising Howard Wolverton, Jr.

Peggy Greef, a loyal Syllabus typist, catches up on some business forms.

Mr. Wolverton, business adviser, and his right-hand and left-hand assistants smile at the world.

We proudly view this issue of The Syllabus with the expectation that it will serve us all as a storehouse of fond memories of our four years in E.O.H.S.

Such a book can be produced only with the participation and cooperation of the student body; it is not the work of only one or two. The step that terminates the months of hard work for those on the staffs is the distribution of the book to the students.

Lack of space prevents giving credit to all the members of the three staffs; on the editorial staff, however, special credit goes to Alex Goodman, editor-in-chief, who labored many long hours planning the dummy and who has shared his knowledge and leadership so that other members might excel in their assignments. Among these are Barbara Lawrence, associate editor; Laura Fitzpatrick, chairman of Girls' Write-Up Committee; Dave Jarman, chairman of Boys' Write-Up Committee; Gloria Cooper, chairman, Activities Committee; Tom Geisler, sports editor; and Jeanne Underwood, chairman of the section on Clubs.

On the Advertising Staff, Nathan Frawert kept track of his many assistants and the advertisements they brought in; while the co-business managers, Maria Stevenson and Barbara Cohen, saw that the home-room salesmen gave all students a chance to order and that the moneys were correctly counted and recorded. For many years, Mr. Wolverton has been the able faculty adviser for these two staffs.

We hope you feel that this is your yearbook, representative of your school life. In later years when you look through this book and reminisce, you will realize that our ultimate goal was to show you that E.O.H.S. helped prepare you for the role you have assumed as citizens.

The News

Vol. LXII No. 5

East Orange High School, East Orange, N. J.

January 20, 1961

The News, in the ranks of the top three school journals in the state, published its ten editions for the 61st successful year. With such a backlog of school history behind it, The News looks proudly to the years ahead, hoping to extend its coverage of articles reflecting the life of both school and students from classroom to athletic field.

The life of the school reporter is not an easy one. Ruth Bittner, editor-in-chief, can attest to that. Under Mr. Harold L. Krueger's direction, she and the staff put in close to thirty hours of school time between editions of the paper. Once again, The News operated on a very tight schedule which allowed only a week for the mapping of each issue.

The News operates on a staff system. The editor-in-chief conducts staff meetings and aids others on copy days. The editors, Sheila Flower, Helen Kasinow, and Bill Leidemann, find and assign stories, as well as plan and proof the pages. Other staff members work under this system, contributing the scouting and typing assistance.

Copy days, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday of copy week, are the most hectic of the month. These are the days when the paper is readied for the printer. Editors and writers type stories, write captions for sections, write headlines, and drink cokes till 9:00 o'clock in the evening. On Thursday evening the wheels come to a halt, and the paper is sent to the printer. On the following Tuesday, the printer returns the proofs for last-minute corrections. Students receive their copies on Friday of that week.

In addition to the editorial staff, The News operates a business organization to distribute the paper. This group is sponsored by Dr. Risinger, and run by Dennis Smith, the student leader. All together, The News, a Columbia Scholastic Press Association member, is a credit to East Orange High School.

The Department of Instrumental Music is highly efficient and well-run under Mr. Berggren. The various phases of the department allow students to fulfill different desires in the field of instrumental music.

The band brings together musicians who enjoy performing "ensemble music." In addition, there are smaller groups made up of brases and woodwinds, as well as the popular dance band. The purpose of these groups is to stimualte and develop opportunities for superior talent and hard work.

Under the able guidance of Miss Ellen Leinonen, the Social Committee terminated another successful year, its responsibilities sponsoring three school social functions. As chairman of the group, John Shines directed their activities. Serving as decorations chairman and secretary were Takako Inoue and Edith Schachler, respectively.

An informal "Pumpkin Prance," the first dance of the season, was held most appropriately on October 24. The committee took full advantage of the facilities offered by the new, ultra-modern cafeteria. One of East Orange High's first attempts at a record hop, it proved immensely successful and promises to be the first of a good many to come.

Traditionally highlighting the winter months, the Junior Prom was held on February 11. With Takako's skillful direction the group managed to transform the cafeteria into an "Oriental Dream." Complete with lanterns, parasols, fans, and chimes, it was a wonder to behold. The strains of the music created by the popular Tremlos filled the air until the climactic moment when the queen was to be crowned.

Alice Crute looked radiant as the title was bestowed upon her by last year's monarch, Laura Fitzpatrick. As the first evening of her reign reached a close, the queen bid a fond good night to her loyal subjects, still under the spell of a most memorable Junior Prom.

With June in the not-too-distant future, seniors are already looking with favor upon their prom and the evening they will crown the queen of the Class of '61.

Sweet music at the Pumpkin Prance induces a dreamy mood.

Good grades result from study hours carefully used in study hall.

GIRLS' STUDY HALL COUNCIL

OFFICERS, GIRLS' STUDY HALL COUNCIL

We at E.O.H.S. should feel proud knowing that we are one of the few schools in which the girls of the student body conduct their own study halls. This council numbers 153 girls.

The Council holds monthly meetings to discuss questions of policy and future aims. Miss Ellen Leinonen guides this wonderful group with these officers: president, Lois Pohlmann; vice-president, Carol Reed; and secretary, Lynn Stackhouse.

This year, the study halls were held in the new and spacious lunchroom except for the fourth period study hall. Four or five chairmen were always on hand to conduct these groups.

Members of the Council come from the sophomore, junior, and senior classes. These girls must meet rigid scholarship and citizenship requirements. In the senior year, chairmen of two consecutive years receive an award.

This is the fortieth successful year for the Girls' Study Hall Council in East Orange High School.

SERVICE ORGANIZATIONS . . .

. . . A friend in need . . .

The Candystripers, organized in 1944 by their founder and sponsor, Miss Lindsay, have been of invaluable help to the East Orange General and the Orange Memorial Hospitals. Starting in Vernon L. Davey, the Candystripers brought about a practical outlook toward democracy in their services to the community.

The girls, acting as junior nurses' aides, perform a variety of duties ranging from delivery of mail to cranking up beds. In the acts of kindness, these girls create an atmosphere of cheer wherever they go.

The high distinction that the Candystripers have brought to East Orange has spread to forty-six states, to Puerto Rico, Israel, and Australia. This entire movement develops an understanding and appreciation of the nursing profession, as well as bolstering those qualities of initiative, poise, tact, and responsibility so necessary to success.

Putting Knowledge To Use . . .

A display of Jon Smith's winning project which was in the Greater Newark Science Fair.

New Opportunities in New Surroundings . . .

Our Science Fair attracted adult members of the community, as well as students.

Science, in 1961, took on a new dimension at East Orange High School. With modern equipment in modern laboratories, the Department of Science has been able to make the study of science much more interesting and meaningful. Thus the science clubs have had unusual advantages in their after-school activities.

The Chemistry Club, reorganized after a period of inactivity, wrote its new constitution under the guidance of Mr. Briscoe and Mr. DeSantis. Its main purpose is to extend to students the opportunity of doing research work in the field of chemistry.

The Astronomy Club had an unusually active year. With Fred Bittel as president and Mr. Hahn as sponsor, the club members attended scientific lectures at Upsala College, Hayden Planetarium, and the Bell Telephone Laboratory. Also, individual student projects were stressed.

The Biology Club, led by Mrs. Colby, toured a pharmaceutical center and explored the Waksman Institute of Microbiology. In addition, many projects were developed.

The Science Department also offered the annual Science Fair to give the young scientists a chance for creative work. In the basic science category, Eric Curry won first prize with a study of protozoa; and Audrey Cross and Shirley Smith won the second prize with an analysis of duck bones. In the biology division the first prize went to John Young for his study of rats and mice under the influence of hormones. Second place went to Louis Hayes for his models of protozoa.

Carol Bertsch won first in the chemistry competition with the growth of crystals, while Alex Goodman and Barbara Lawrence won second with the conversion of saline water.

In the physics category Tom Geisler and Ross Lambert captured first place with electronic currents; and William Sweeney and James Pendorf took second with their project about light beams.

Languages . . .

Work in the Italian classes carries over into club work.

Working For World Peace works for all in E.O.H.S.

As has been true in the past, the language clubs of East Orange have demonstrated their worth as an aid to the learning of a foreign language. With expanded programs in each of the clubs, the language groups have attempted to get more out of classroom learning.

Los Cervantinos, under the guidance of Mrs. Paige, conducted discussions and held songfests and entertainment projects. They visited the U.N. and went to a Spanish museum.

Le Cercle Francais, sponsored by Mrs. Vaala, instituted a new tutoring service for fourth graders. Included in the agenda were a puppet show and a Christmas Party. The club also visited the French Embassy in New York.

Le Circolo Italiano, guided by Mr. Ferroti, held its annual Columbus Day Program, which was, as always, a great success. Students joined to present, in honor of Columbus, a show with an Italian flavor. Also the club took a trip to Casa l'Italiano at Columbia University to extend their appreciation for our Italian heritage. The final event of the year was a party and cake sale.

Our Service Clubs Make Education More Fun . . .

Executive members of the Projectionists' Club bone up on the latest techniques.

The service clubs at East Orange High are really to be commended for an excellent job. Keeping in stride with the new changes in our school, the Library Council and Projectionists' Club have expanded their club services to include the new wing.

Mrs. Beebee and her future librarians, led by Linda Dowling, have taken complete charge of the running of the spacious new library. With more books and space than in the old library, the new one has presented challenging problems to the Library Council, which has solved them admirably. Students at East Orange, thanks to the Library Council, can take full advantage of the study alcoves, music rooms, and library services. In addition, the Council held open house for other councils.

The Projectionists' Club quickly adjusted to its new office in the modern wing, and expanded its technical facilities. Sponsored by Mr. Bowden and led by Ken Boehling as president, the Club was extremely busy with audio-visual aids to meet teachers' requests. The Club constantly sent out members to perform various functions, from showing films to repairing equipment. We salute this large and important organization.

The Junior Prom, in honor of our Juniors, features the Oriental Dream in modern surroundings to create a dance long to be remembered.

JUNIORS

The Class of 1962

The Junior Class is reaching out towards the long-awaited goal of becoming the Senior Class of E.O.H.S. In this eventful year, the Juniors began to assume responsibilities formerly held by seniors. The success or failure of East Orange traditions in the coming school year is largely their responsibility.

Mr. Adams, coach of the ice hockey team, points the finger of justice at his crack skaters.

Mr. Briscoe demonstrates the principles of electro-static induction to curious onlookers.

Broadway hits E.O. with the Best Foot Forward . . . "Come now boys, you're a little too young for me, don't you think?"

Work, work, work—that's all we ever do. But we love every minute of it!

The big moment in the Junior Prom dream: Last year's queen, Laura Fitzpatrick, crowns her successor, lovely Alice Crute.

"Now which one of these damsels should I ask to the dance?"
