East Orange High School is more than a provider of knowledge, it is a place where the character of the youth is molded. Through the participation in athletics, clubs, and student government, a sense of pride and accomplishment is achieved which the students will carry with them in the years to come. The days spent in school will not be easily forgotten. They will always be brought to memory by friendships made during the school year, or by the knowledge that you have made a contribution to your community. These years will have prepared us for whatever lies in the future, whether it be a job, studies, or a professional career.

ADMINISTRATION

SEATED: Mr. Scott Harris, President. STANDING, left to right: Mr. Winfred S. Gideon, III, Mrs. Matthew P. Boylan, Mrs. Mildred E. Barry, Vice President, Rev. Mr. Alfred W. Wishart, Jr.

Striving to achieve a perfect educational system, the Board of Education searches for competent and qualified faculty members to instruct the youth throughout the city. In close contact with the Board of Education, the administration of East Orange High School tries to create an ordered educational environment so the students and teachers can work together efficiently. Of prime importance to the administrators is that the solution and program for the problem best serve the interests of the entire student body of East Orange High School.

GUIDANCE

Preparing the student for the tasks that lie ahead is the main objective of the Guidance Department. Whether it be selecting classes for next year or preparing for college, the student makes the decision with the help of his guidance counselor.

Guidance is important, so that a student will work up to his potential and get the most out of his high school education, before he sets off on advanced studies for a job. The leadership offered by the guidance counselor will help the individual prepare for the task that is ahead of him. The skillful services of the members of the Guidance Department aid in starting the individual on the road to success.

ENGLISH

Does the pronoun agree with the antecedent? Is the subject singular or plural? Who wrote All Quiet on the Western Front? The English Department aids the student in the mastery of language arts. Whether it is by formal instruction or by reading the classics, proficiency in the use of English is the main objective.

Reading the poetry of Emily Dickinson or creating an original verse is used to expand the thinking process of the student. The sonnets of Shakespeare, Harper Lee's To Kill a Mockingbird, and the short stories of Poe are given to the student with the hope of giving him a broad background in the literary world.

SCIENCE

Chester N. Hahn
*Department Chairman
Basic Science*

Science is! When this is said, what else is there to say? The age which began with Galilei, Newton and Copernicus has not ended with Einstein and Fermi. It is continuing with such complex rapidity that Science Departments are hard put to keep up. In East Orange, however, the task is made the easier by competent teachers and excellent equipment.

But the important concepts are not dealt with as if everyone was a budding Einstein or Fermi. Thus science becomes playing with a mouse, caring for a tank full of fish, or dissecting a frog. At times it seems that the science classes have regressed into a second childhood, but all is for a purpose, to prepare students for tasks that may lie in the future.

MATHEMATICS

Mathematics had its beginning in antiquity, when primitive man decided to keep track of his possessions by counting on his fingers. This simple task expanded to the use of sticks and stones; and with the aid of Euclid, Pascal and Descartes became the instrument with which orbits of planets could be calculated. Isaac Newton probably made the most significant contribution to mathematics when he invented the calculus to measure the area under the curve, when all other methods were not efficient.

All of this heritage can be evidenced in the mathematics rooms. The tetrahedrons, cubes, triangles, number lines, cartesian and polar coordinates are all a part of this vast history.

SOCIAL STUDIES

Ruth E. Lindsay
*Department Chairman
Geography and U.S. History II*

In what year was the Spanish-American War started? Where are the Aleutian Islands? How long is the term of a State Assemblyman? These questions and many more are encountered during the course of the school year. In dealing with these questions, the Social Studies Department has a variety of courses designed to awaken the students interested in the world around him.

Study of the past and present will help the students of today build a better society for tomorrow. This is being accomplished by exposing the students to the many complex aspects of society, from the beginning of recorded history to the present space program.

FOREIGN LANGUAGES

No matter what language is being spoken, an idea is being communicated from one person to another. Whether it is Spanish, French, German or Italian, a heritage of centuries is being spoken.

With this in mind, the Foreign Language Department embarks on its task. Learning a language then becomes a game of password or a trip to the Language Lab to expand the vocabulary. Not forgetting the colorful past of these cultures, films are viewed and literature is introduced to enhance the background the student has of the language. In Spanish it might be Don Quixote, or Tristan und Isolde in German, all is done to make learning a language interesting to all.

BUSINESS EDUCATION

Arlene King
Department Chairman
Stenography and Transcription

Where do our business leaders come from, In the past, such men as Carnegie and Rockefeller, with little formal education in business techniques, built vast industrial empires. But this was done in a time where business was at its simplest. Today it is necessary to learn the various aspects of business, from typing and stenography to economic geography and business law.

Although not everyone will amass a great fortune in the business world, the Business Department is preparing students to enter this field as secretaries and clerks. The basic techniques learned may well launch someone into the field of high finance.

READING

Frank S. Halpin
*Department Chairman
Reading Improvement*

Knowledge through reading. This statement is more appropriate now than ever before. Because of the complex state of society, the individual must have a broad background of knowledge in order for him to function successfully. The Reading Department helps the student improve his reading rate through intensive work in the Reading Laboratory. During his study periods, the student is provided with the needed experience in phonics, comprehension, study habits, and vocabulary building, all of which are necessary to broaden the reading and study skills.

Reading helps to improve the character.

FINE ARTS

Color, line, form, space and texture are the five basic building blocks of art. Each combines with the other to produce a masterpiece. From the early cave drawings to the work of Rembrandt to the impressionism of Picasso, these elements have played an important role.

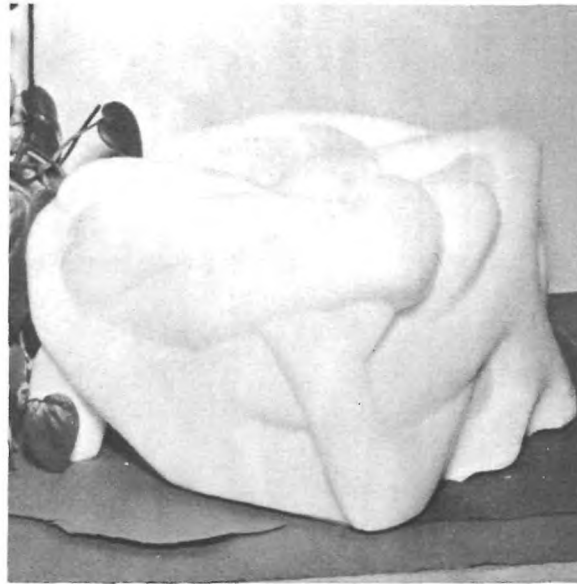

Anyone can throw paint onto a piece of paper, but it takes thought to express ideas. The Art Department instructs the student in the use of paints, clay, and wood with the hope that the student will find the media which will be compatible with the students attempt at self expression.

MUSIC & SPEECH

George M. Gilbert
Vocal Music

Whether it is said with words or with music, a thought or an idea is being communicated. With this in mind, the Speech and Music Departments try to instruct the students in the basic fundamentals necessary for ideas to be expressed.

With music, it might be a solo in the Winter Concert, or in speech it might be a one act play, nevertheless, the individual learns the various ways by which concepts can be passed from person to person. In this way, the student learns that there is more than one way to express his views to a group of people.

HOME ECONOMICS

Virginia A. Tomlin
Department Chairman
Home Economics and Foods

Is the cake ready? Does the food retain its nutritional value? Does the dress fit? In order to function in the outside world, the young homemaker must learn how to do the simple tasks that are present in the household. The skills of a good homemaker are taught through first hand experience.

Discoveries in cookery and sewing are in the making. Selecting the right materials . . . horizontal stripes would never do for a tall person, nor large pleats for a short one . . . vitamin A prevents night blindness. The student learns all of this with the final result being the ability of the young woman to undertake the responsibility of the home.

INDUSTRIAL ARTS

From the drawing board of the draftsman to the lathe of the woodworker, Industrial Arts is a field of exactness. A discrepancy of a fraction of an inch can cause a loose connection or a crooked table.

With urban areas constantly expanding into huge megalopolises, it is important that as many people are prepared to meet the challenge of managing this industrial complex. The Industrial Arts Department offers a variety of courses to develop the architects and craftsmen needed for the future. With the basic knowledge acquired here, the student will be ready for the responsibility of operating the complex machinery in the world of industry.

GIRLS' PHYSICAL EDUCATION

Quiet girls: The first exercise will be ten jumping jacks, facing each wall. Girls' Physical Education is a mixture of fun and games, and discipline and skills.

In instructing the fundamentals of physical fitness, the range of activities runs from basketball and softball to gymnastics and modern dance. In this way, learning becomes less of a burden and more of an enjoyable experience.

Not only is physical fitness stressed, but the mental and moral hygiene are also a part of the curriculum. Home nursing prepares the students for child care and care of the sick at home.

Close interval, dress right, dress! Count off by fours. Form fours in front of right. All of these are old hat to the participants in the Boys' Physical Education program. Every class is started with words similar to these. The Physical Education Department tries more than just to build strong bodies, it tries to build strong minds and characters.

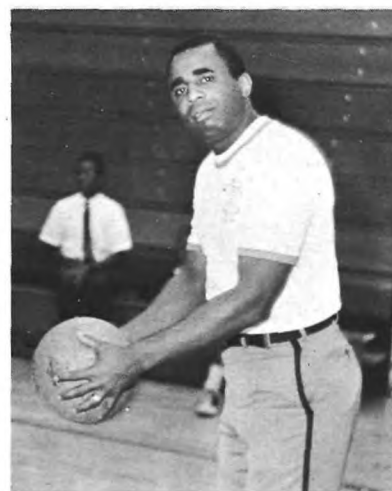

In addition to the athletic program, there are classes in Personal and Community Hygiene, and Health Education, where the student learns about the structure of the body and the effects of various stimulants and sedatives upon it. All in all, the Physical Education Department is molding the character of leaders of tomorrow.

DRIVER EDUCATION

Watch out for the other guy. Get the big picture. Aim high in steering. Keep your eyes moving. In today's society, the car has become less of a luxury and more of a necessity. It has changed from a toy for the rich, to a powerful machine to transport the materials to build society.

It is the aim of the Driver Education Department to instruct the student in the proper use and function of the automobile. Through the use of films and actual behind the wheel instruction, the student learns that there is merit in caution and foolhardiness in speed and recklessness.

LIBRARY

George N. Fabian
Librarian

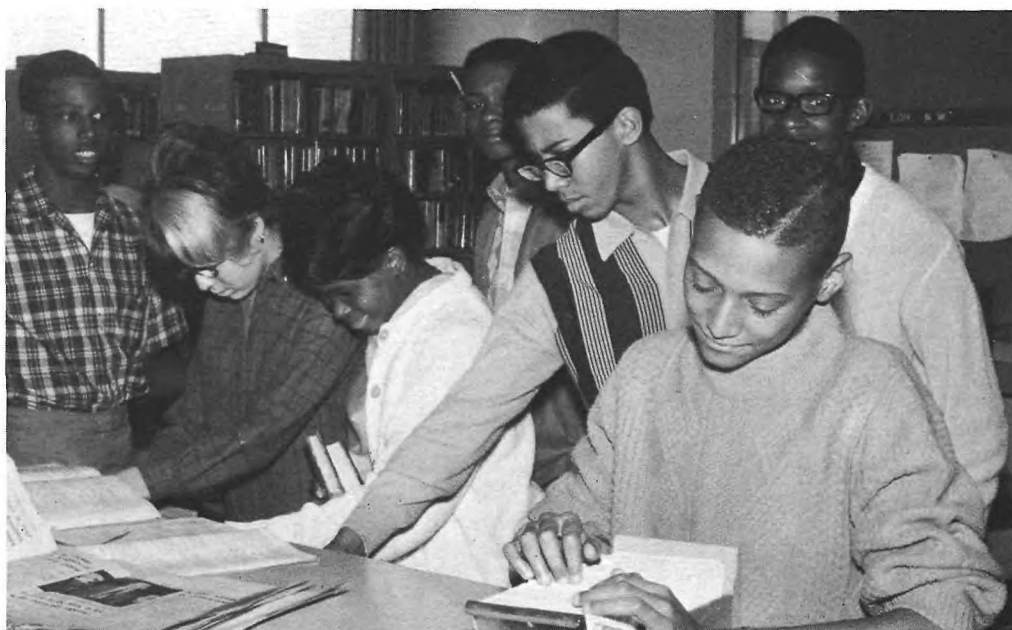

Knowledge is power! To obtain this power, the student must be able to have the knowledge of the centuries at his fingertips. The East Orange High School Library provides the student with the opportunity to take advantage of this wealth of material. The Library stands for many things to many people: efficiency for research, discovery for the inquisitive mind, current periodicals for the well informed, and a meeting place for the exchange of ideas. No matter what the purpose, the Library can provide the facilities needed.

This passage sounds good. I think I'll use it.

MEDICAL STAFF

During an ordinary school day, numerous physical emergencies arise. The seriousness of the injuries is varied, and the school doctor and nurses must always be prepared. The Medical Department is designed to provide efficient medical treatment for the student body and faculty. East Orange High School is fortunate because we not only have two permanent registered nurses, but also a doctor in the school each day. The department examines all prospective athletes. It also cooperates with the Driver Education Department by examining students' eyes for student learner permits. The Tine test as a preventive measure for tuberculosis is also administered.

STAFF

On the surface it is a smoothly run organization. A dependable system of bells divides the day into eight periods of equal duration. Some teach, many learn — the efficiency experts carry on their functions.

Every man plays a part in his world. No one can supply himself with all the necessities. Together our personal contributions give life to the Whole. Each has a distinctive merit of its own, the product of someone's unique talent. The few that lead and the multitude that follow are strangely dependent upon one another.

A few arrive earliest; a few leave latest. Their tiny lights can be seen when all the rest are dark. Brooms, ladders, carts — their presence is known. Clean, white walls and matching uniforms. Smells of food in the halls. Bright orange chairs. Offices. All working.

Double, double, toil and trouble . . .

It's going to be another long day.

"... Beneath the bludgeonings of chance my head is bloody, but unbowed . . . It matters not how strait the gate, how charged with punishments the scroll, I am the master of my fate: I am the captain of my soul."

The threshold of life is before us. We are now entering upon a new age for our class and for this generation. Problems bud and bloom in these recent times, where there were not even seed of thoughts in the minds of our past peers.

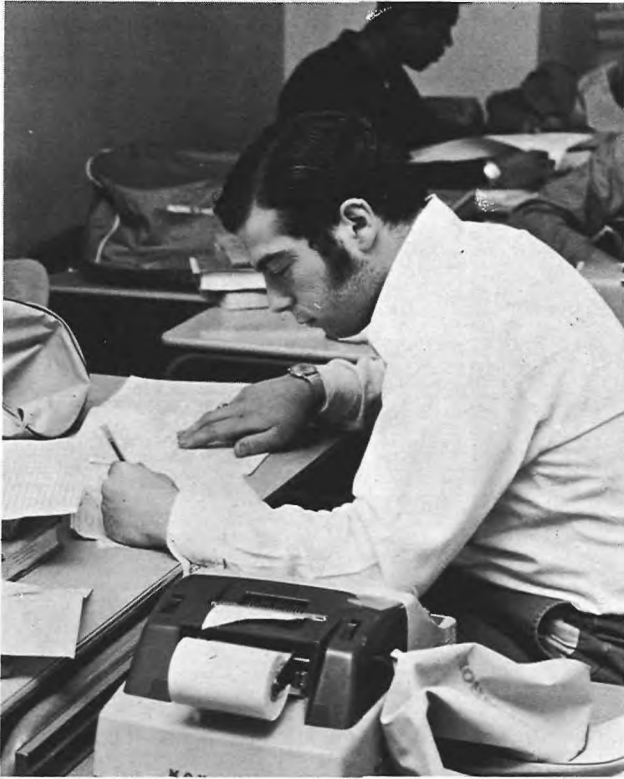

It is most evident that our generation and our class perceive the greatness of our responsibilities and our rallying to support this new responsibility is commendable.

This burdensome responsibility that we bear upon our shoulders is the knowledge that we, not the future generation will either bring about a new concept to America or America will not be.

The crimson light of warning has started to pulsate. The brightness of the light has blinded many of the older generation. A generation that was awakened in the womb by the blinding white light of a nuclear bomb, could not mistake the crimson color of the light of warning.

STUDENT COUNCIL

STUDENT COUNCIL OFFICERS

SEATED: D. Williford, Treasurer; T. Mingo, President; B. Clark, Recording Secretary. STANDING: B. Dawkins, Corresponding Secretary; W. Wilson, Vice-President.

The Student Council is constantly in a period of change, since it reflects the tone and the mood of the school. The Student Council's main objectives are to coordinate all student functions directly related to the student body, and to instill responsibility in our student leaders.

One of the outstanding highlights of this year has been the Black and White Student Exchange Program with Fair Lawn High School. Fair Lawn High, a white suburban school, is located in north New Jersey and has a student population equivalent in number to that of EOHS.

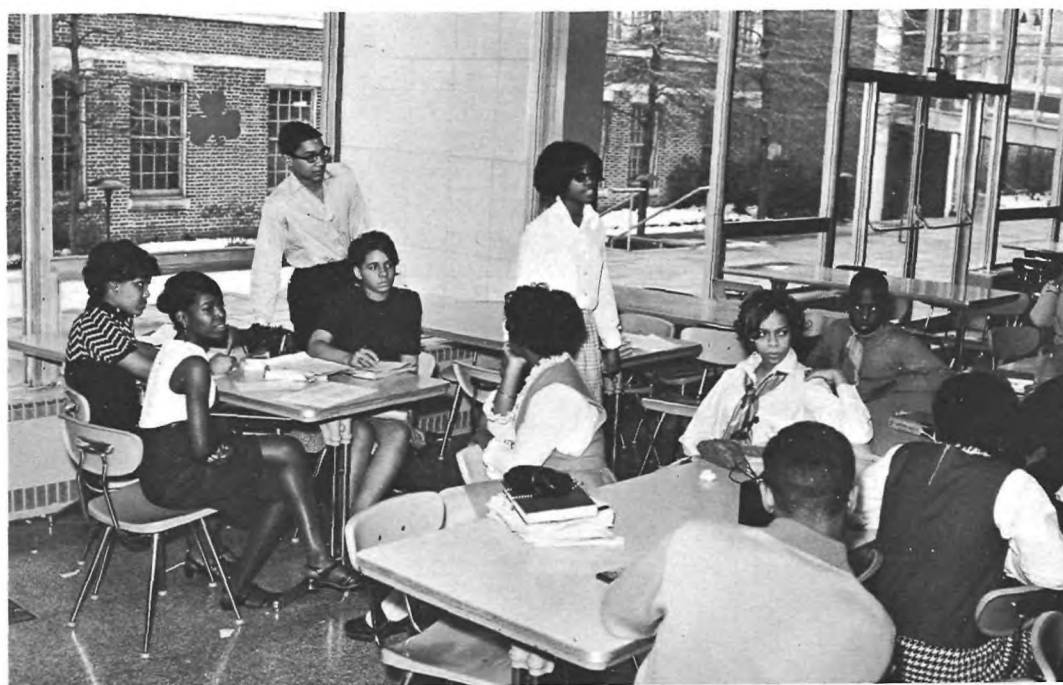

The Black-White Exchange was unique in the Student Exchange Program, in that there were a series of exchanges instead of one. The goal to be achieved was the lifting of the barrier in communication between blacks and whites. The last visit to Fair Lawn included an enlightening Martin Luther King Jr. Memorial. The participants of the program were all from East Orange High School.

Under the enthusiastic leadership of President Tamara Mingo, the Student Council executed several extremely successful projects. Pep rallies for both football and basketball seasons; Thanksgiving Food Drive; Local and State Student Council Conferences; Homecoming; Fashion Show; and the basketball concession stand were all under the auspices of the Council.

Of those fund raising events was the popular "A Snow Ball" dance, whose proceeds were shared by the Student Council and the senior class. Another successful and novel affair was the "Carnival Dance" for the benefit of the junior class. Held on April Fools' Day, it provided dancing in a carnival atmosphere, complete with game booths and prizes.

The major accomplishment of this year's Council was the initiation of the long-awaited student lounge. Established on the experimental basis, the study halls, for the first time, became co-ed. With the former boys' side of the cafeteria as a study hall and the former girls' side as a recreation room, with a soundproof partition dividing them, the long-hoped for objective of integrating a studying atmosphere with that of relaxation was achieved.

As a result of these and many other undertakings of the Student Council, its purposes of supplying an invigorating, educational and entertaining student life, and of building strong leadership characteristics in its members are attained.

The meeting called to order, President Tam Mingo leads the discussion of the exchange with Fairlawn High School.

And you know, for a dime more, Fairlawn kids get the same!

Advisors Mr. Pelosi and Miss Wharton take a time out from Student Council business.

Lester Williams waits to be acknowledged by the Chair.

Senior class Vice-President Fred Ross submits his contribution to the Black-White exchange discussion.

Before an organization can begin functioning, its constitution must be reviewed and accepted by the Student Council.

Sylvia Crutchfield captures the attention of S.C. members with her reaction to the reception at Fairlawn.

SYLLABUS

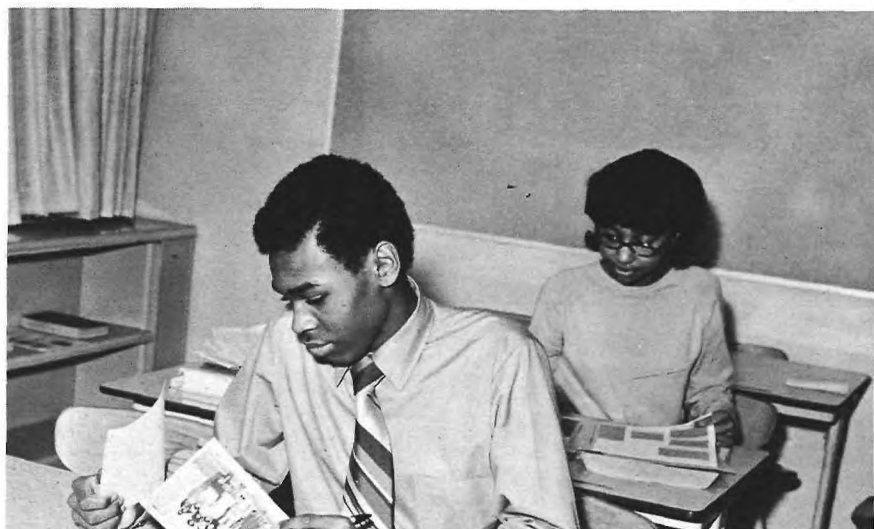

Deborah Keyes takes a time out from her role as Co-Editor-in-Chief.

Detailed planning is an essential backbone for a superior yearbook. Without it, the staff of the Syllabus would have no framework on which to base their creative thoughts.

To take a vague idea, catch it, and organize it into a whole page or a single word, takes a great amount of time and effort from each individual; whether he is responsible for the birth of the idea, or involved in preparing it in its final stages.

All types of talent are needed and used: Writers, typists, photographers, artists, leaders, and followers. All are a part of molding a yearbook of which one could be proud.

The prime concern of each on the staff is to produce a reference that links hard times with good, work with fun, and most of all, present with future.

Wayne Brown and Debra Brodie check pictures and layout to the last detail before they are submitted to the publisher.

Editors Dean Angelos and Lelon Hayes examine sports pictures closely, for the caption must explain the action completely.

Deep concentration is required to give an accurate account of the school's academic departments.

"Now watch the pen . . . you're getting sleepy . . . sleepy . . . sleepee . . ."

THE NEWS

Copy is checked for typing errors before it is submitted to the publisher.

Responsible for informing the student body on the current happenings of the school, the East Orange High School News has adequately fulfilled its responsibility. Issued once a month, each involves a complicated routine. Starting with assignment day, the stories are then written, submitted, and are edited on copy day. Galley day, a few days later, is a last minute check on the copy returned from the printer.

Each of the editors started at the bottom of the ladder, commonly called tyro. After three issues of work and accomplishment, the tyro is appointed to the position of reporter. After six more issues, the rank of star reporter is given to him. In March of his junior year, he and other juniors are considered for the six editorial posts for the following year.

The News gives a person the opportunity in writing stories, thus they become experienced in the field of journalism.

ECHOES

THE YOUNGER GENERATION

— Pat Brevard

We read in the papers of the killings and the sin,

Of the younger generation

Oh, where will it end.

It's uncondonable and wholly condemned

But if considered all told

We can't blame them.

Cause they don't make the liquors
and don't run the bars,

They don't deal the pot and sure don't make the cars.

The good of most must also be weighed with the mistakes of a few and the price that they've paid.

Who taught us to follow thine every will

To hate, to beg, to borrow and steal.

Who taught us to murder,
to maime, to kill.

Why aren't they obsessed with their life to fulfill?

Eternity is far too short a time to reflect the true self of an educational institution such as East Orange High. During the course of the year, Echoes has tried to encompass, absorb, and focus into a magazine as many of the reflections of our educational kaleidoscope as is obtainable. The result is a capsule dosage of the student body's repertoire of talents, thoughts, ideas, and moods. This magazine contains poems, long and short stories, prose, haiku, and art sketches.

One finds it hard to aggregate all of these works, but the staff does their best to parallel these expressions with high school life, not only in the field of literature, but also in art.

Editor-in-Chief Darrell Glass proofreads copy for Echoes before it is submitted to publisher.

COMPARISON

A weed next to a flower
A second to a minute
A peasant to a noble
The crossing of paths are great.
Which is truly greater, and will survive the longer.
A coal to a diamond
A penny to a dollar
A piece of burlap to silk
Coal makes diamonds
Pennies make dollars
Burlap can be refined
A peasant can become a noble.
Seconds make a minute.

— Dennis Hobson

Natural War? by Renee Gary

I heard you cryin'
screamin' to get out
And the noise inside of my head
It aches with an unbearable pain
I was thinking too hard about seeing you
out in the cold
gun in hand tryin' to be the strongest that you could be
Yet I understand.
How many did you kill today?
I use to know you as being so beautifully peaceful
But after all you are fighting for our great nation.
Hope you get home soon so you can see that in this "Great Nation" nothing has changed.

Both an honorary and service organization, the National Honor Society is a valuable asset to our school. Its goals are to encourage good scholastic achievements, instill a sense of leadership, provide constructive school service, and develop a wholesome character in its members.

This year, the Honor Society held a candlelight induction ceremony for its new members. The candidates were juniors and seniors chosen on the basis of their high academic and civic accomplishments. Consistent honor roll status, involvement in at least two extracurricular activities, and characteristics of leadership ability are prerequisite for membership into the NHS. However, maintaining these qualities is necessary to remain a possessor of the small, gold National Honor Society pin.

The Honor Society's prime contributions to EOHS functions were the banking program and the active tutoring program. Members sacrifice time before and after school and during study periods to tutor students experiencing difficulties in their subjects.

Tutors from NHS clarify classroom material on the level of the student.

GIRLS' & BOYS' COURT

Paramount in the objectives of BOYS' AND GIRLS' COURT is to foster the very best self-discipline in every student in East Orange High School. Composed of juniors and seniors, each court convenes twice a week and makes judicious decisions by weighing the evidence for and against the accused students. Rules are explained, and strong emphasis is given to the explanation of why rules exist and why it is important that all pupils obey them. To accomplish its objective, it is necessary at times for the court to assign detention hours. The decision of the court, whatever it may be is accepted by the student and the advisor, and is necessary to maintain a well behaved student body.

GIRLS' & BOYS' STATE

GIRLS' AND BOYS' STATE REPRESENTATIVES

D. Angelos, B. Simpson, D. Brodie, W. Pitre.

Each year, during the month of June, hundreds of boys and girls convene on the campuses of Rutgers, New Brunswick and Douglass College, respectively, for the Boys' and Girls' State program. Sponsored by the American Legion and its Auxiliary; Boys' and Girls' State serves as a learning ground of governmental processes for the chosen representatives.

Each day includes a lecture on the various branches of government; from local to state and legislative to executive. These provide the knowledge and the tools necessary for the student to campaign and become elected to one of over a hundred positions in his model government. The election and inauguration of a governor climaxes the week's activities.

Girls' State and Boys' State were initiated to give the participant a greater understanding of the democratic processes under the two party system. However, each departs from Girls' and Boys' State with new friendships and a better understanding of those from all walks of life to share with those in his school and his community.

ARTS INCORPORATED

ARTS INCORPORATED

An in depth exploration of the five senses has been the primary objective of Arts' Incorporated this year. Formerly Buskin and Brush, the club has been examining current trends in the arts to determine its future course. In a successful attempt to break away from the bonds of traditional theatre, Arts' Incorporated experimented with the idea of using improvisations.

Improvisations are the result of setting up situations and acting within them without scripts. The actors are not informed as to what they are supposed to be, or supposed to say. Therefore, they must rely on their own response to what is presented by fellow actors. This allows the individual to interact through all senses to develop confidence in himself as an actor.

Most improvisations are not long, however, some are developed into full length plays. "Impromptu," by Tad Mosel, and "The Interview," by Jean-Claude Van Itallie, were the two one-act plays presented by this thespian organization.

"Impromptu" concerns four actors who were summoned by a non-appearing stage manager. They make an appearance at a designated theatre, put on an imaginary production for an imaginary audience.

"The Interview" allows four interviewers and four applicants to reveal themselves in an interview, on the street, at a party, and at a political rally. The play raises the question of what happens to a person when his attempts at verbal communication fall on deaf ears.

Arts' Incorporated realizes the countless modes of communication, and experiments with film and verbal and non-verbal means of communication are on the agenda for the future.

Developing individual response to the sense of touch prepares the actor to develop confidence in himself.

The play selected, auditions are held to select the cast for "The Interview"

Appropriate lighting is as important to the production as the actors' performance.

"I don't want to sound pressurable, but I'm currently on unemploy . . ."

"God forgive me for being alive, God forgive you for being dead!"

"Thumpthump . . . Thumpthump . . ."

The East Orange High School Panther Band is "doing their thing". They have achieved their own distinct sound and rhythm. Many of their selections vary from classical to jazz, and to marches, highlighted by the precision drills of the Drill Team, Color Guard, and Twirlers.

The band is the largest performing group in the instrumental music department of EOHS. Actually, there are two bands: the Symphonic Band, and the Wind Ensemble. During the football season, both bands combine into one band, the Panther Band.

In addition to performing at each of the football games and pep rallies, the bands participate in three parades a year, and an annual concert in the spring.

The band is a smaller family within a larger one. It aims to serve the school and the community with distinction.

PANTHERETTES

COLOR GUARD

R. Clark, Captain; P. Abraham, D. Sheard, I. Taylor, L. Walker, G. Mc-Millan.

For the second consecutive year, East Orange High School has had a number one football team. Showing their skill on the football field was easy for the Panthers, and just as easy for the Pantherettes.

These highly disciplined, organized squads perform at football games, pep-rallies, and Band concerts in conjunction with the band, and as such, are responsible to the Band director.

The Drill Team, led by seniors Cheryl Johnson, Yvonne Hunter, and Gloria Pankey, added color and zest to the Montclair game with their new outfits done in school colors.

The Twirlers, captained by Adrienne Berger, and co-captained by Debbie Parker, also surprised the crowd of thousands with their new shorts and vest outfits.

The standards that each girl must meet, in order to be selected, are high, but the girls agree that whatever the sacrifice, the honor and thrill of performing makes everything else important and worthwhile.

Half-time is always highlighted by the polished routines of the Pantherettes.

Captain Regina Clark strikes an impressive salute.

FRONT ROW: D. Parker, Co-captain, A. Berger, Captain.
BACK ROW: L. Sturdivant, G. Chiappa, B. McCloud, M. Taylor, S. Williams, F. Wright, K. Lopez, S. Fletcher, S. Bush, T. Williams, C. Bowser, S. Osborne.

How's this?

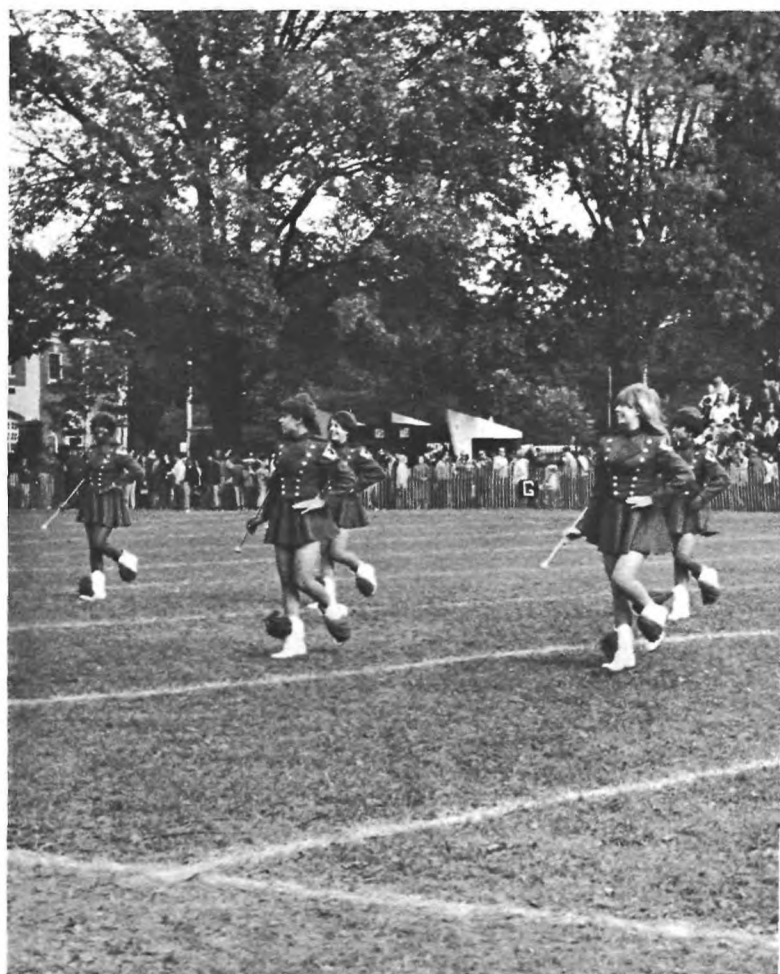

Minutes before half-time, the squads organize for the performance before an audience of thousands.

DRILL TEAM
FRONT ROW: G. Pankey, Co-captain, C. Johnson, Captain, Y. Hunter, Co-captain. BACK ROW: F. Walden, I. Abraham, R. Smith, D. McLaren, J. Sherman, D. Irvin, C. Russell, J. Jenkins, M. Davis, D. Kidd.

Cool, calm, and collected are Co-captain Gloria Pankey, Captain Cheryl Johnson, and Co-captain Yvonne Hunter.

The long hours of practice finally pay off.

CHEERLEADERS

KNEELING: D. Cuff, Co-captain; V. Davis, D. Fain, Co-captain; C. Munford, G. Smith, K. Peters, B. Beckwith, J. Carter, B. Grant, Mascot; V. Cherry, D. King, D. Dunaway, H. Cuttino, V. Peters.

Everyone imagines how lucky it must be to be a cheerleader, and they're right. No other group in the school is more actively involved than those on the squad. Although they are lucky to get into all the games for free, have no transportation problems, and never worry about what to wear, one never thinks about the cold, rainy days they yell and jump in those short uniforms. Never do we think of the agony that comes with planning and producing a pep rally, or the many times they've missed meals to perform at a basketball game, or the strenuous schedule they must maintain September through May.

Being a cheerleader is more than having a lot of fun. It's a little worrying, pain, frustration, pride, devotion, and responsibility, but its wonderful!

Another trio of cool, calm, and collected girls, Co-captains Deborah Cuff and Deborah Fain and mascot Brenda Grant.

"E.O. are you with us? Yeah, man . . ."

There is no doubt that the school is a preparation for a constructive participation in society. Not only is it the learning ground for a profession, but it also prepares for a service in the community. The service clubs of East Orange function to help complement the latter purpose of education.

Those members of the Library Council offer valuable assistance to the librarians in the smooth management of an efficient library.

Red Cross members are always helping others with their salvage drive of collecting old eyeglass frames for "Eyes for the Needy." Its annual money drive is for the benefit of needy children all over the world.

The Language Laboratory Assistants are a small group of students who dedicate their study hall periods to the care and maintenance of the Language Lab's recorders, earphones, and other equipment.

Noted for their fast delivery and pick-up service, the Audio-Visual Aids student workers contribute their service by providing teachers and students with AV equipment, films, filmstrips, records, and tapes.

The recording of a student's medical visits is the vital task of the medical assistant. She is also available, when needed, to give aid to the sick and injured.

The students comprising the Usher Squad, provide guests to East Orange High Performances with programs, the best available seats, and general directions about the school building.

110 assistants, workers in the office of attendance and citizenship, render service to the secretaries as messengers, clerks, typists, and performers of general office duties.

The Teens for Safe Driving constitutes a group of young people interested in making the highways and byways safe for all. To instill a greater awareness of the automobile and its functions, both advantageous and dangerous, the club sponsored field trips to General Motors Plants, the International Auto Show, and the Drag Races at Englishtown, N. J.

CAREER CLUBS

As a training ground for a useful, productive life in the community, East Orange High School provides out of classroom activities which help the student to determine his course in life.

The Fashion Pacers coordinate fashion shows, twice yearly, in order to establish a scholarship fund for deserving and qualified senior members. A newly initiated out-of-school program is geared towards presenting fashion shows for church and community functions.

Both dedicated to the better welfare of others, the Future Nurses Club and Futea acquaint members with the strenuous demands of their respective professions.

Junior Achievement and Distributive Education provide students with much valued experience in the world of business. The non-college bound students of Distributive Education are trained for professions in the fields of retailing, merchandising, and management.

LANGUAGE CLUBS

Studying a foreign language is becoming educated. It means widening one's horizons beyond our own culture. Language Club students realize it is not enough to know grammar points and the familiar greetings, but to think in the vernacular of the language with the use of correct grammar also.

Those foreign language enthusiasts involved in the German Club and the Spanish Club broaden their scope of human understanding through the intensified study of their respective country's history and people.

Around those aspects of French life which interest the student, the program of Le Cercle Français is built. Through the use of music, films, slides, field trips, and puppet shows, the French Club promotes interest in the French language, literature, and the life of the people of France.

The Italian Club and Società Onorario Italica (Italian National Honor Society) are correlated with the study of the Italian language, customs, and related socio-Italia-American areas. Field trips to see "Romeo e Giulietta" and the Philadelphia Museum were offered this year.

The Latin Club continued to offer its encouragement of non-Latin student participation in its annual Slave Sale and banquet.

WORLD YOUTH FORUM

The aim of the World Youth Forum is to unite America with all other parts of the world in an effort to increase the realm of understanding among people of this world. In their struggle to reach this goal, they have organized a student exchange program enabling students from foreign countries to visit and witness American life as it is.

This year Forum members were delighted to host Vinod Sapra, a native of New Delhi, India, and a student at Hans Raj College in New Delhi. Vinod's superior academic achievements and high ability in conversational English qualified him for his trip to our country. During his three week stay, Vinod resided with Wayne Brown, a prominent member of the Forum.

Vinod's visit was highlighted by a Forum party in his honor, a tour of city hall, a luncheon with Mayor Kelly, and trips to Princeton University and various historical sites.

ATHLETIC ORGANIZATIONS

By exhibiting outstanding athletic enthusiasm and ability, students in EOHS become eligible to participate in various athletic oriented clubs.

Girls who possess great all-around ability can join the Girls' Athletic Association. Among their varied sports are basketball, volleyball, softball, tennis, and archery. This year the club sponsored a student versus faculty volleyball competition. Individuals displaying teaching abilities undergo six weeks of training, and are then assigned to Physical Education classes. These girls, belonging to the honor society of the Phys. Ed. department, the Leaders Club, help organize and give assistance to their assigned teachers whenever needed.

Instilling school spirit in the student body by cheering at all athletic events is the purpose of the Booster Club. The Boosters provide buses for away games as a guarantee for a large turnout. By sponsoring two talent shows, the Booster Club raised thousands of dollars for scholarships for graduating seniors.

To bring about unity among the athletes of the school, the Varsity Club accepts boys who have shown outstanding achievement participating in any varsity team.

PROGRAMS

Once again, East Orange High members experienced delight, awe, sentiment, enlightenment, and pride over this year's splendid array of programs. A variety of talent and moods were exhibited from the soul stirring of the talent show to the sentimental tribute to Dr. Martin L. King, Jr. Whether the setting was audio as in the Christmas, Winter, and Spring Concerts, or visual as was the fashion show, each performer never departed without a hearty applause.

The fourth annual Booster Club talent show, "A Soulful Happening," joined its predecessors as the largest fund raising event in the school. Raising over $3,000 for scholarships, the amateur performers enchanted capacity crowds with their dance, song, and wit.

Presented in living memory, the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Memorial was held on the martyred civil rights leader's birthday, January 15. The tribute was comprised of poems, prose, and music selected by the student participants. A highlight was an inspirational message on the living spirit of Dr. King conveyed by Rev. Joseph Roberts of Elmwood Presbyterian Church, East Orange. Concluding the program with a pompous "Battle Hymn of the Republic" and a reverent "Sevenfold Amen," the touched audience recessed.

Another tribute to a black hero was the Crispus Attucks Memorial held on March 5. Under the guidance of history instructors Mr. Veal and Mr. DuPree, the participants presented history, poetry, and commentary, not only pertaining to Crispus Attucks, but to all black heroes. The program closed with the singing of the Negro National Anthem.

The Concert Brass Quintet of the Juilliard School of Music was a group of young instrumentalists. Recommended by the band director, Mr. Hansen, the group presented their repertoire of classic and contemporary music.

This year's scholarship fashion show, "Fashion Design '69," was built around a day in New York. From the casual "Village" to the exclusive Fifth Avenue, the sandy beaches to the Playboy Club, ending with a "Portrait in Black and White," the members of the Fashion Pacers delighted their audience. Under the auspices of advisor Miss Bowen, the show was a success.

Undoubtedly the most enjoyable and professional program was the polished performance of the talented and very masculine Morehouse College Choir from Atlanta, Georgia. They accomplished a blending of European classics with Afro-American spirituals and African folk tunes into a combination enviable of any professional group. At the conclusion of their last selection, a student body of 2200 exhibited their approval with a standing ovation.

During the Crispus Attucks assembly, John Young accompanied the audience with the "Negro National Anthem".

Lights dim, Willie Baker hypnotizes hundreds with a mellow ballad.

FASHIONS OF "THE VILLAGE"

The Brass Quintet of the Julliard School of Music grasps the undivided attention of the student body.

Participants in the Crispus Attucks Memorial were John Young, Steffie Harris, Stanley McCloud, Jackie Mills, Wayne Brown, Theresa Clark, Larry Hill, and Regina Dixon.

Talent comes in many shapes and sizes.

DANCES

Mr. Jackson "does his thing".

Breaking away from the confines of academic life, Panther students let loose at the dances held this year.

Distributive Education members sponsored the its "DECA Dance" to raise funds to send some of their members to Atlantic City as hosts for New Jersey at its annual convention.

Following the end of a week of mid-year exams, "A Snow Ball" was held to raise funds for the senior prom.

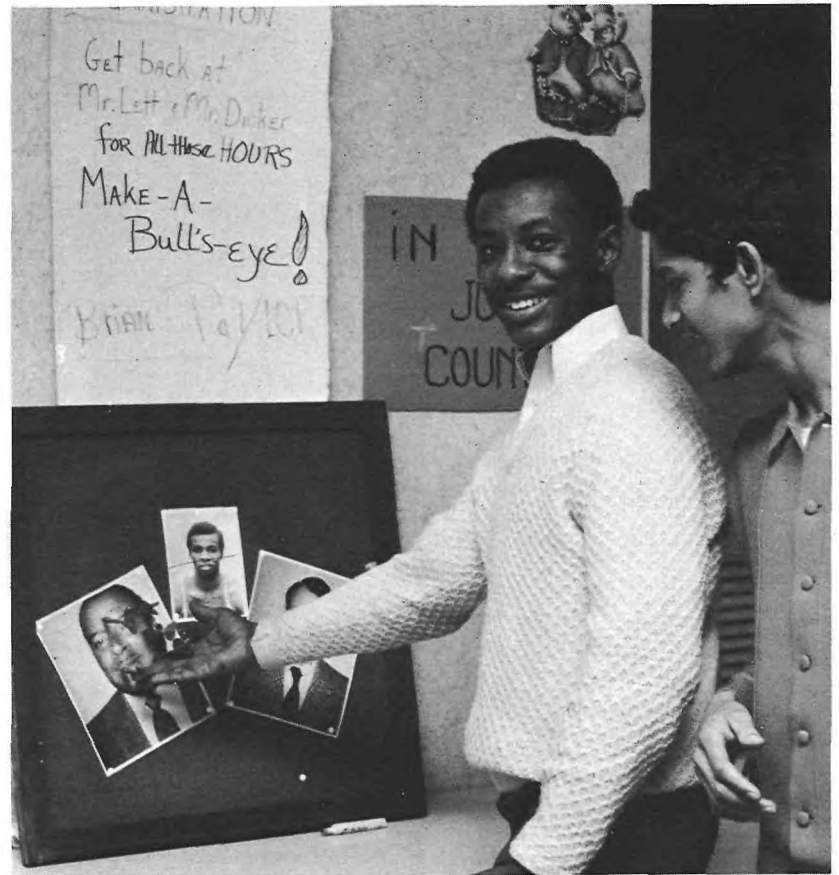

The Junior Class broke away from the traditional dance themes to that of a carnival, with their "Carnival Dance" held on April Fools' Day.

For the first time in several years, East Orange High School held Homecoming festivities during the week of Thanksgiving. It was highlighted by the crowning of a Homecoming Queen.

Candidates were chosen by the student body on the basis of academic, citizenship, and leadership qualities. The number was narrowed down, as a result of class ballot, to four class queens. An assembly to acquaint the entire membership of EOHS with the four beauty queens and their runners-up was arranged, with the election of a Homecoming Queen following. Sophomore Sheila Morton was chosen and was crowned during half-time of the Thanksgiving football game.

The first signs of winning the school begin to emerge . . . the fact that the school is an immense part of the student's life hits with its stinging impact. The induction of Honor Society members, new editors appointed, captains of the squads selected. The politically minded seek offices to lead next year's student body — old members seem to move out to make way for the new . . .

The last bend before the home stretch, each student seeking self recognition. Thus the junior year brings a sense of achievement and a growing, surging response to the rapidity with which the mature responsibilities of an adult world grow ever closer.

A little dab should do it.

SOPHOMORES

In the middle of the road, last years trainee focusses on developing himself as a whole person. His extracurricular activities are assiduously chosen to meet his needs. Cheering, News, Drama, Sports, Syllabus, all serve as springboards for the student.

In the literary world, the student comes to grips with the realities of today in To Kill a Mockingbird and The Catcher on the Rye as well as with the beauty of romanticism via Shakespeare's Romeo and Juliet.

Biology brings the student in contact with the physical life around him. From the microscopic view of a one-celled paramecium to the dissection of the fetal pig gives a new consciousness, a new awareness, of the complexities of life.

Thought of a future career emanates from his mind. He leafs through college bulletins bringing the future more clearly into view; however there are two more teeming years left, and it seems they will never come.

Eagerly anticipating the expanded opportunities for intellectual and social growth which being in high school affords, freshmen begin what to most of them will be the most formative years of their lives.

Scared and apprehensive, he stands in awe of the seeming confusion of the hectic first day . . . the frantic search for a classroom . . . standing in the middle of the cafeteria with his tray and no one to sit with . . . books to carry and no locker to put them in.

Attempting to fit in with the masses, he joins the boosters on Saturday to cheer his team to victory. Searching and grasping for self identity he tries his athletic skills or his acting talents; and what do you know, he's found acceptance and recognition.

Slowly adjustment comes and he begins to reach out for the opportunities that beckon him. As the year draws near a sense of security grows. Oh, to come back next year and as a sophisticated Sophomore watch the timid freshmen!

STATE CHAMPS FOOTBALL

Lost to graduation, it seemed, went the power and balance that contributed so much to East Orange's undefeated season and the State title in '67. But from the remains of this great team, Coach Tom Dean constructed an even greater one, completing an undefeated and untied season enroute to the '68 State crown.

Taking over the quarterback position came senior Greg White. The mastermind of the highly potent offense, White directed the ground and air attack. Leading the ground-gainers was scholastic All-American Charles Hinton, who by the end of the season, led Essex County in scoring. Fullback Ralph Folkes and swingback Len Gantt added the extra punch in the backfield that made it a constant threat.

The offensive line boasted such standouts as tackles Daryl White and Charles Landrum. Wide receiver Reggie Griffith combined blinding speed and sure hands to pull in 10 scoring receptions and net over 500 yards. The defense, anchored by All-State linebacker Kevin Fletcher, perhaps matched that of any in the long history of East Orange High.

CROSS COUNTRY

In cross country each runner is given a score determined by the place he finishes. The team with the lowest score is the winner.

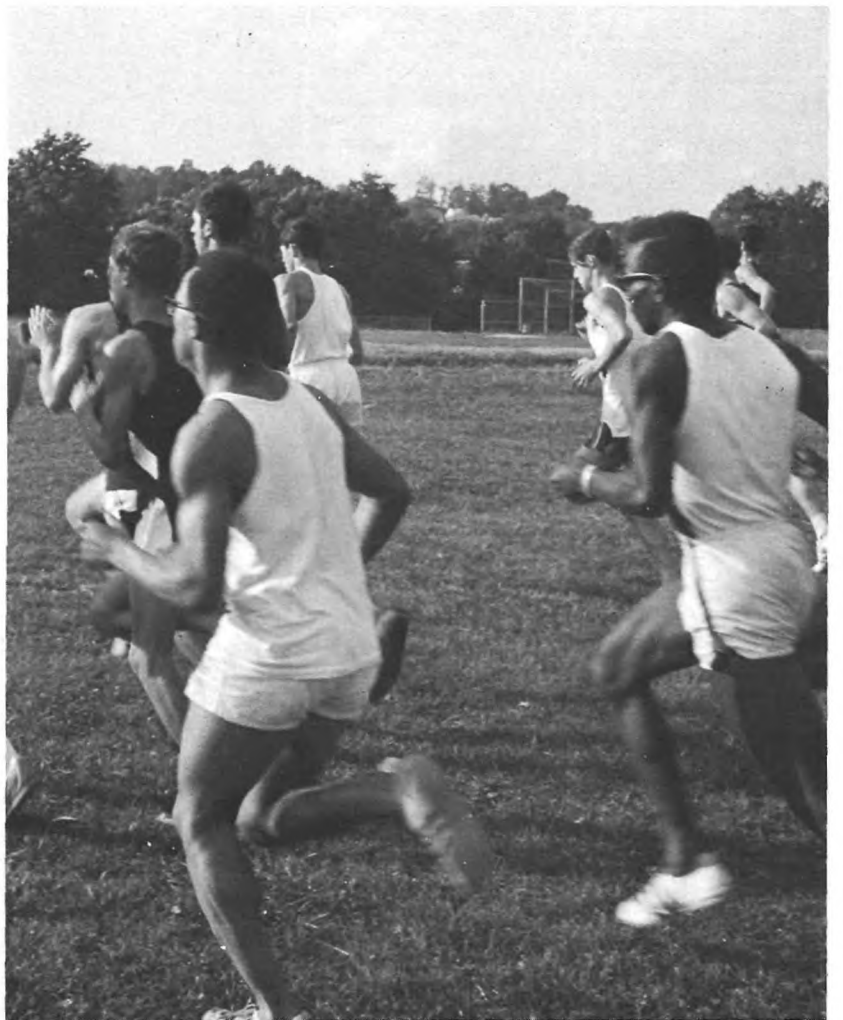

Hampered at the beginning of the season by training problems, the cross country team dropped their first three meets. But led by runners Vester Shack and Sidney Snelling, Coach Spivey's cross country men finished with a .500 season. An unexpected star proved to be Robert Howard, the third freshman in the history of East Orange High to earn his varsity letter in cross country.

Determination and stamina, the friends of the long distance runner.

The final sprint to victory.

Muscles limbered and minds set for the miles that lie ahead.

SOCCER

At the end of the 1968 soccer season, Coach Drabik again found his team on the losing end. Unfortunately the scores can not relate the true performance of the team. The ball handlers experienced many close and near heartbreaking games. The loss or victory is not what really counts but to know that you have tried is the true purpose of team competition.

GROUP IV STATE CHAMPS BASKETBALL

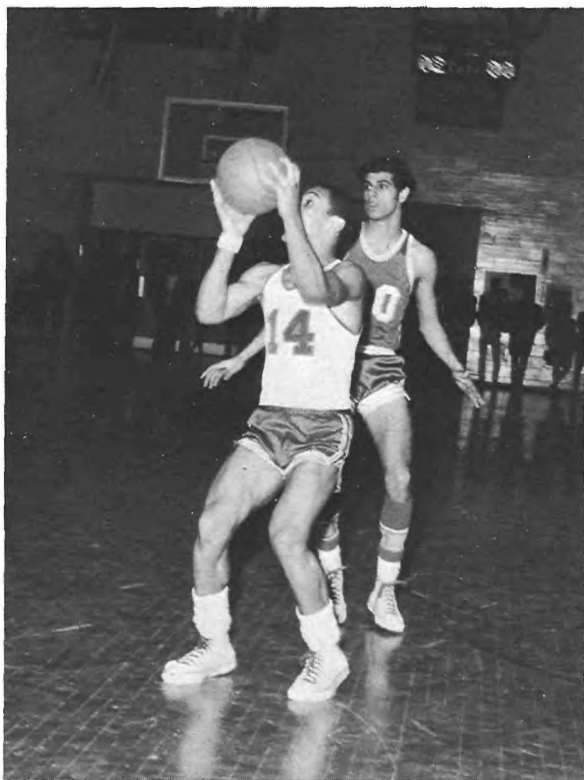

From rags to riches explains the 1968-69 East Orange Basketball team. From a moderate season last year, the Panthers came on to finish with 24 wins, 2 losses and the Group 4 State title for the second time in 29 years.

Up from last year's J.V. team came Floyd Jefferson and Dennis Motley to find starting positions in the forecourt. Back from last year were 6-5 Greg James and team captain Gary Turner. Rounding out the starting five was Warren Melvin, playing his first year of high school basketball.

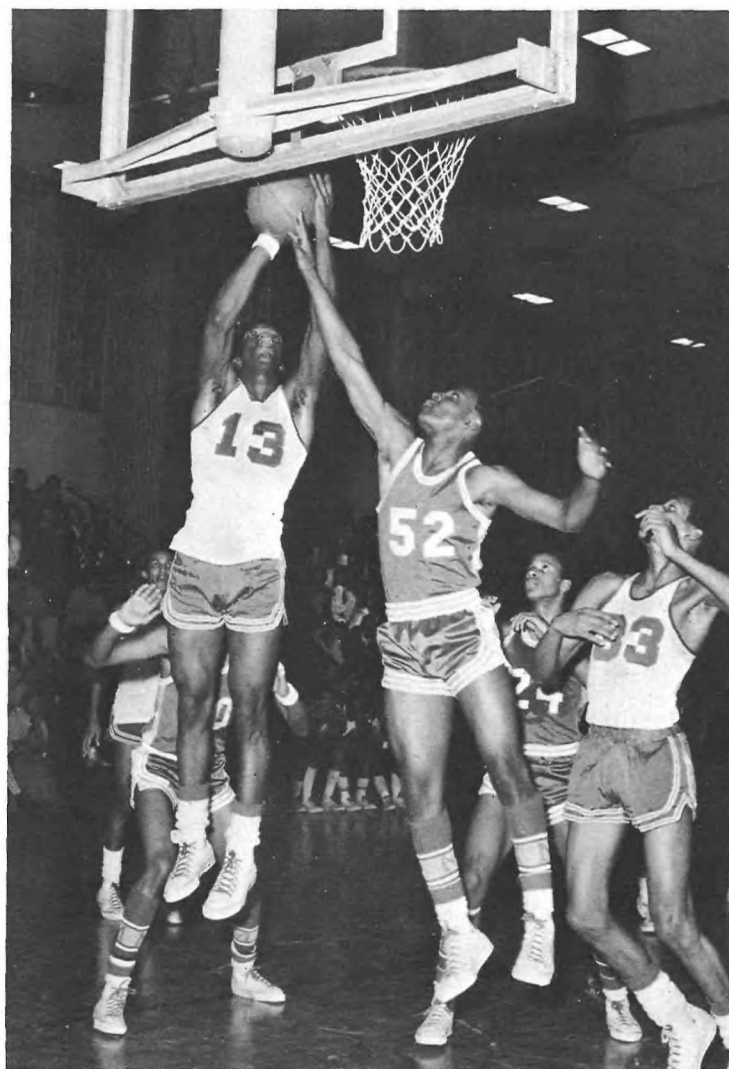

Unforeseen but not unexpected were the results reaped by these five men. Losing only two games the entire season, the E.O. Panthers were the number two team in the state. By the season's end, Greg James was receiving All-State honors and East Orange High its second N.J.I.A.A. Group title. The finale to an outstanding season came when underdog East Orange routed defending Group 4 champs Perth Amboy.

Overall hustle and determination were the key words in this '68 hockey season. Looked to constantly this year for leadership were Keith Delemos and Steven Sestilio, along with the highly praised talents of goalie Greg Fleming. Coach DeSantis' young team produced a poor season against the more experienced competition of the league, but they look to the near future with bright hope.

BOWLING

Due to a lack of personnel, the bowling squad suffered a disappointing season, finishing below .500 in the league standings. INDOOR TRACK

With desire and dedication as a guide, the indoor track team again posted an outstanding season. Marked by excellent team and individual performances, Coach Leon Moss's tracksters accumulated over thirty medals and fifteen trophies enroute to another winning season. Coach Moss once again produced another champion in Allan Jackson, who captured the Group 4 State Indoor title in the 60-yard dash.

BASEBALL

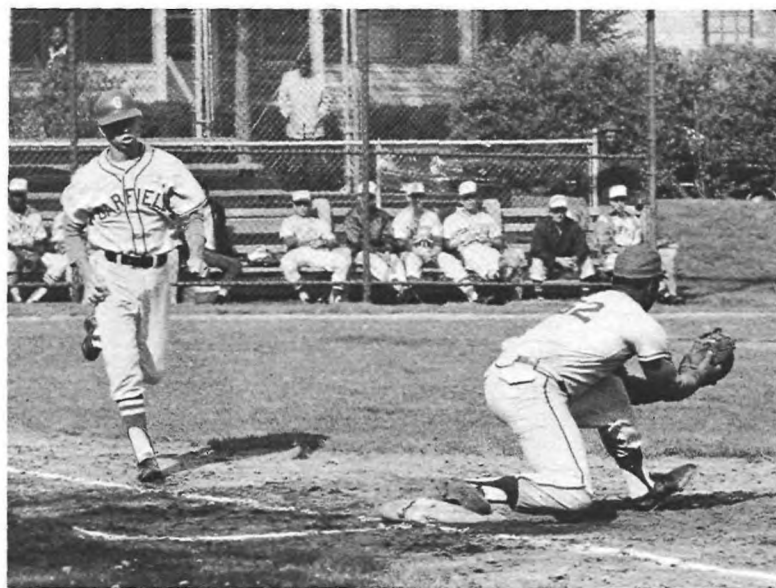

Finishing another season with a winning record, Coach James Montgomery's basemen remain a major power in the Big Ten Conference. The power in the lineup rested mainly on the bats of Ron Manzella and Daryl White, who came through time and again when the need arose. A surprising element in the pitching staff proved to be pitcher Emory Fitts, who finished the season with the school strikeout record not far from his reach.

STATE CHAMPS

OUTDOOR TRACK

Behind Group 4 Champion Tom Hash and a field team headed by shotputter Thaddeus Cohen, Coach Richard Wharton piloted his tracksters to an undefeated season and their first Sectional title.

Taking a second in the Big Ten Relays and a close second in the Big Ten Track and Field Meet, the Panthers placed in every big meet in and around Essex County. Finishing off a perfect season the Panthers came on to win the Sectional title from arch-rivals Montclair by one point.

In the State Meet, Tom Hash finished first to capture the Group 4 crown in the quarter mile, Vester Shack taking second in the two mile run, and Bill Holmes placing fifth in the high jump.

The final thrust drives the silver spear upward.

Timing, the all important element to Coach Wharton.
