DEDICATION

• Education is one of the most powerful forces in the world. If wrongly used it can lead directly to war, as we have already seen in our lifetimes. But it can be equally effective in building peace, as we are confidently hopeful it will in our remaining lifetimes.

Every step forward in our education process has been aimed at the ultimate goal of a peaceful world of responsible and united citizens. From the beginning of our learning, we have accepted inter-racial, inter-faith and inter-cultural ideas, until now we stand on the threshold of a world wherein love, fellowship and the brotherhood of man are realities.

As we prepare to complete our formal education and take up the broader meaning of the word, there are two great opposing social philosophies threatening the fulfillment and enjoyment of the ideals for which so many have worked for so long. The rift between them may easily drop us all into the chaotic pit of war and death from which we have just climbed.

We are a part of an international confederation, and with our great power and wealth, an important part. We carry a heavy responsibility for its success or failure. Second only to our duty as loyal citizens to know our own community, state or nation, lies our duty to know the framework of this organization, and help to guide its destinies. Our future as a nation and as individuals is bound up with its success.

With pride, eagerness and hope we dedicate this book to the efforts of our generation toward the realization of the ideals the world has needed for so long.

• To forecast what the future holds for permanent world peace would be to assume powers beyond the compass of human endeavor. But this much can be said with certainty: the goal of world peace is being attained in a multitude of places like Scott High School to the degree that the behavior of each of us is determined less and less by selfish interests and more and more by a desire to serve the common good. Mutual respect for our neighbors, whoever they may be, is essential. So let us in our several ways strive to reach the goal nobly and with a humble spirit,

• World peace will never occur in the animal world. Grim realities stemming from the need for food, voracious appetites, and the fear generated by outright ignorance will always make for animal insecurity in the jungle or on the plains. But the carnage will never grow worse; animals do not have the ability to develop new weapons with which to exterminate each other.

How different it is with man. He now has weapons with which to destroy whole cities in a few seconds. And, in spite of the advances of civilization and man's high intelligence and reasoning power, he thus far has failed to create a world brotherhood which rules out such barbarism.

If all class yearbooks, and all other books throughout the world, could for one year be dedicated to world peace, success might be hastened on that all-important issue.

IN ACCORDANCE WITH established tradition, we, the freshmen of 1944, were considered by the upperclassmen of that important year to be the smallest, both mentally and physically, of any that ever entered the halls of Scott. However, regardless of their opinion of our poor selves, they did admire our legs so enthusiastically that they requested all freshmen boys to roll up their trousers above the knees.

It would be easy to fill this account of our class of '48 with many other such happenings, but we feel that an accounting of our contribution to our society and our nation are more important. During our first two years at Scott our nation was engaged in the Second World War. With the rest of our school we supported the War Bond and War Stamp Sales, the Penny-A-Week and Red Cross Drives, the Save-A-Child Fund and the other worthwhile causes. In our freshman year we could not understand fully the meaning and effect of this war, nor could we recount philosophically just why we gave our money and time. Yet there was real meaning behind our giving—we gave because we felt, even if we did not completely understand, the larger issues at stake. We were stirred when we heard or read the war reports, saw pictures of devastation, or watched our older brothers and their friends enlist. We were made thoughtful by the tales of their experiences when they returned, or when another gold star was added to the growing number on the Service Flag of our school.

But there were lighter moments and lighter moods as well. The class of '48 was the first to enjoy a Freshman Party which has now become a traditional festivity of that group. It was planned and given by the upperclassmen, and through their efforts was a great success. Our Town was the play of the freshman year; Romeo and Juliet and The Male Animal tied for honors the next year. The first Scott dance we attended was the Sophomore Dance of 1944; then followed the Junior and Senior Proms. Between these dances the days were brightened by "R" Parties, Pig Skin Hops, concerts by the Voice and Instrumental Departments, and bonfires to celebrate the pre-Thanksgiving football games with Orange High School. Other events were Cheer Fund parties, assembly programs like the Strawbridge Ballet and Abe Lincoln in Illinois, as well as panel discussions of world problems and inter-faith programs at Thanksgiving and Easter.

Of course the most important and thrilling event of our sophomore year was the end of the war. Like all the rest of the world we had listened to the speeches of politicians who promised a quick return to normalcy and the establishment of a lasting peace. This we hoped would result without too much effort on the part of John Q. Public or of Johnny, Jr. But in the short span of time between the end of the war and today the unreality of such thinking has been shown to the whole world—and to us. Here at Scott we have become aware of the active part we must play if the future is to live up to its promise. And we believe that in our small way we have contributed to that better understanding between peoples needed in a democratic world. We have done this not only through such extra-curricular activities as the Student Federalist Club, but through discussions “to get to the bottom of things” in our study of P.A.D., debates before assemblies, and the practice of democratic proceedings in the Student Council and class meetings. Perhaps this contribution may not seem very great, but when we remember that seniors of '48 are going in the future to exert great influence on the communities in which they live, the importance of this training becomes evident.

For the benefit of the members of the class who many years from now may be straining nostalgically to recall the events of their life at Scott, here is a brief resume of the happenings of the last two years: the Junior Prom, P.A.D., the tenth anniversary celebrations, trips to see movies, plays, and operas in New York, Stage Door and Minick (both school plays), and the traditional annual football game with Orange. This game, with its pep meeting and bonfire, always marks the close of Scott's football year. Yes—the figures show that Orange won every game played during our four years at Scott, but figures are cold and do not tell the whole story. Often the school spirit in the halls of our school declared a moral victory even though the statistics registered defeat!

Another important reflector of the Scotty spirit was The Bagpipe. Editorials were frequently controversial, but always interesting. The most-read part of the paper, however, was the “Piper,” a column that collected personal items and revealed the informal side of school life.

The crowning social event of the class of '48 was the Senior Dance. We owe many thanks to Mrs. Warbasse, our adviser, for helping us plan this festivity, and for all her guidance throughout the years.

In addition to these big events there were the many small, frivolous, funny—sometimes pathetic—things that happened every day. Yet it is such things that are remembered long after the date when the Normans invaded England is forgotten. At first there were the attempts at initiation by upperclassmen when we were freshmen; later there were free passes to the big show in Room 109, directions to the swimming pool, and to the elevator to the third floor. There was the game of trying to memorize everybody else's locker combination and in the effort forgetting our own. There were the home room opening exercises, and our first introduction to the intricacies of governing ourselves through the Student Council. There were homework and library assignments that kept us busy in the study halls and at night in Doddtown and Ampere. Not long after we entered, however, the class fell into two groups—those who were to remain in school only for a while, and those who caught on to responsibility and found fun in the hard work of learning to become adults.

The subjects we studied will be remembered with nostalgia too. With history we associate dates, Mrs. Warbasse, Miss Sharpe, Mr. Miller, and Henry VIII; with English, grammar, Shakespeare, “The Admiral,” “The Cloak,” and iambic pentameter; with math that elusive X, “Put that pencil down,” and “Buzz”; with Spanish, Cortez, various ways of bull-fighting, and the Spanish Temperament; with French, Sermons, La Belle France, and the knack of saying tres bien instead of tres beans; with typing, mangled fingers and broken machines; with bookkeeping, columns, debits, ink; with Latin, our boy Julius and our Miss Fison; with chemistry, aromas, and valences; with P.A.D., scumps, term papers, and near suicides. The rest we omit only because the seniors themselves can fill in the blanks when Junior's grandson pulls grandpa's yellowing diploma out from among those funny clothes with the old look and unwraps it from the newspapers carrying a story about the people who thought a thing called the atom bomb was going to end the world way back in 1948.

Now at graduation we are separating, the advice and speeches of our elders salted away. Those who have gone before have presented their challenge. It is the same challenge that has been handed down from generation to generation, and it has never yet been met. That can come about only when one generation will dare to answer that call—the call from a world desperately seeking a brotherhood of man. We, the seniors of 1948 at Clifford Scott, can only hope that we shall succeed where our predecessors have faltered. And with faith that through God and our own efforts we can succeed, we step forward cheerfully into a new life and a new world.

Message

WHEN I ADDRESS YOU in this book, it is my deep desire to speak to each one of you alone. For as your four years at Scott unrolled, it became my privilege to know many of you well, to watch you change from ebullient freshmen to thoughtful, earnest seniors. May I then in thought go with you into your future, confident of your success and close in sympathy?

Social reform is a matter of coöperation and requires an infinite deal of converting to bring the efficient majority to believe in it, to support it and to shake off inertia. To work for World Peace, then, will require infinite patience, fortitude, enthusiasm and that desire for a life of mutual helpfulness, stimulation, and opportunity which will make the lives of each of you full and complete.

May the happy, crowded years at Scott give you an abiding warmth to touch everyone about you with some measure of your enthusiasm, clear-sighted optimism, and loyal personal affection.

BERYL W. WARBASSE
Class Adviser

Red Letter Days

VACATION OVER . . . skins tanner . . . hair lighter . . . Hats off to Rodney Warnken, not only chosen editor of the yearbook, but also elected Junior of the Year and given the Lund Award . . . After hearing the results of the Student Council election, the newly elected President ceased being perceived (cut, to you!) . . . Came the "Frosh Frolic"—the seniors did more dancing than the freshmen. Wrightson was keeping his eye on Joan Miller—for Lenny?! . . . The Scotties started a successful football season with a 20-0 defeat of Glen Ridge . . . A survey made of our drinking fountains found seven out of eight actually working. Now there are only 92.9 students to every fountain . . . A flash of light down the hall—don't get excited—it's only Jack Triplett's bow-tie—it lights up! . . . Scott is cited again—Cornell has extended the certificate privilege to our school—that means you can enter without examination—if your marks are B or better. But then Grace Eick would rather go to Princeton anyhow . . . Long skirts arrived at Scott about the same time the photographers for our Tartan pictures did. But the photographer apparently didn't approve because he said to Candy, "Will you please pull that skirt up—whadya wanna do—date the picture?" Talking about the new look—Anthony Esposito was right in there with those snow shoes! . . . Reports are still coming in of the "tremendous" spaghetti Joe Cardillo dished up for the rest of the football team . . . "Trinity 4-1212—when you hear the signal the time will be 11:54 and $\frac{1}{4}$ —when you hear the signal the time will be 11:54 and $\frac{1}{2}$ —when you hear" . . . Want to see a husky football player turn pale? Just mention the Schick test . . . The Tartan of '47 won a second place in the contest of the Columbia Press Association of Columbia University . . . The doctor glanced into the damaged quarterback's mouth. "Were your teeth always like this?" "They weren't this morning!" moaned Jimmy Ward, the injured senior . . . By the way—why all those extra calisthenics after the Glen Ridge game? . . . Our conquering heroes conquered hearts at the Pigskin Hop . . . Mr. Lund added to the success of the football banquet. He awarded three watches; one to the most outstanding defensive player (Bob Racicot), one to the most improved player (Joe Cardillo), and one to the best offensive player (Ted Jones). Teddy, at the time of the banquet, was in the hospital for his operation . . . The scene was room 204, the occasion the Chemistry

Club meeting, the principal character, Eugene Hunting (speaker): "Now we will put a little of this in the test tube"—sound effects—a small explosion. Eugene wasn't hurt, except for a warm palm and a toasted elbow, but if you will notice the green stain on the ceiling of Room 204 . . . Mr. Frankel—What happened to pages 490-497 in December's Harpers? How did it happen that magazines 22 and 24 were missed? . . . The Punchy Six and Hell's Belles did a good job of representing the senior girls in Moo Paskert's basketball league . . . Jean Kemp didn't do so badly for the senior team either—35 points in one game! Maybe some of the fellows better take a few lessons . . . Rankin, Racicot, Ward Win! What? Why the popularity poll in the Bagpipe, of course! . . . Quick! Hide! The Red-skins are coming! We palefaces enjoyed the dances, Indian lore, and sign language of the Laubins. But the sign language of Frank Mitchell and Bill Clark was baffling! Or was it? . . . The Scotties enjoyed the talent of some of their "cohorts" as much as "Old Man Finick" did. As much a hit as Etzel Husk's orchestra was the singing of Joan Luzenburg and John Marron. That really wasn't the only song Bobby Burt could play! . . . Want to know how to catch ducks while ice-fishing? It's quite an art, but I'm sure Lennie Buggeln will explain it all to you . . . Our Christmas drive was quite a success. Ward boxes were sent to Halloran Hospital. Beauchamp Fleetwood deserves a lot of credit for all her work on the boxes . . . It was really a shock to Mildred Bauer to hear her engagement announced. She may have laughed, but jokes like that are embarrassing . . . Joan Becker found "109" was lucky after all. That was the number she wore when she won a position on the All-State Hockey Team . . . The Thanksgiving Day program was an inspiration to last throughout the year. Talks by men of four different faiths helped make the meaning of Thanksgiving clearer . . . Mr. Miller's first period P.A.D. class was surprised when they learned what P.A.D. really stood for; they thought it meant "Problems at Dartmouth" . . . The Syrian Yankee brought to Scott a vivid description of his experiences during both wars . . . Myles, complaining of the over abundance of girls in his P.A.D. class, had it changed from 6th to 4th period. Much to his dismay the rest of the class was changed with him . . . We hope our class day will become a tradition—a day when the seniors can let down their hair . . . A final fling at the Senior Prom . . . Exams, but let's not mention that . . . Graduation day—memories of good times—hopes for our future—prayers for a world peace . . . And a legacy of senior homerooms for next year's seniors.

You know you couldn't ever be true

Myles

SCOTT'S 1947 FOOTBALL SEASON displayed a fine spirit and a good deal of ability on the part of the team and the coaches. Winning four games, tying two, and losing two, the team had a better record than was expected. Perhaps the new cheerleaders' uniforms served to offset the morale lost when Jimmie Ward had to leave the squad due to technicalities resulting from a change of school.

"Wardie" played the first four games, alternating at quarterback position with Captain Bob Racicot. "Ras" carried on when Ward left and also starred as a defensive line backer. Ted Jones's broken field running and passing led to many touchdowns. Halfback Ed Roskoski and Joe Cardillo gained considerable yardage through the line and "Indian Joe's" kicking toe was the deciding factor for Scott a number of times. With Hamilton Stewart at center and Lenny Berg and Edward Dyer at left and right guard positions, a strong line center was assured. Lenny Berg also contributed to the team's morale. The left tackle position was filled by sophomore George Woods. Future Cornellian Paul Skopowski at right tackle broke up many an opponent's play behind its line of scrimmage.

Bill Francke and Sal Buccino pulled down passes regularly from end posts. Don Decker, Anthony Scocozzo, and Joe Negri also changed off at end.

Other outstanding players were Tom Trethaway, defensive guard, and Art Kent, tackle.

The Red and Grey season began with two clean sweeps against Glen Ridge and West Orange. It was a surprise and disappointment to many when an underrated Union team held Scott to a 0-0 tie and when Summit repeated the performance the following week. Scott was still unscored upon, however, until it met Millburn who had a 20-0 advantage at the end of the third quarter. The second half was never to be forgotten. A revitalized Scott squad came from the lockers to win 21-20. Joe Cardillo's running and perfect extra point kicking sparked this comeback.

The Verona game was narrowly won and then Scott lost a showy, difficult game to Linden. The Orange classic, a hard to lose game, wound up the season.

After the Awards Assembly at which the letters and numerals were given out, a football banquet for the team climaxed football for 1947.

JOSEPH CARDILLO
CAPTAIN OF BASKETBALL SQUAD 1948

SCOTT'S BASKETBALL TEAM had a very successful season last year. The squad entered both State and County Tournaments and in all games showed excellent ball handling. The outstanding game of the Essex County Tournament was that in which our Scotties met Central High in Newark. The game ended with a "sudden death" decision by the referee in Central's favor. Central went on to become the Group IV State Champions.

To offset the loss of height by graduation we have three lettermen returning: Bob Racicot, Ed Roskoski, and George Woods. Coming back with these are Bill Balmer, Bill Francke, Norman Roland, Francis Skopowski, Joe Cardillo, Jack Sullivan and Richard Ednock. An addition to our squad is Jim Ward, a newcomer to Scott from Immaculate. Due to unavoidable circumstances Jim Ward cannot play until February but will train with the team in the meanwhile.

Though our men lack height they will make up for it in speed, spirit and all around good playing. With this in mind and also with the help of an excellent coaching staff, we hope for a great season.

DAVE, WE'VE come to the END of our FOUR years. YOU'VE made out in TRACK and you ARE AS WELL guy to boot.
Good luck.

Bob Racicot.

Baseball 1947

THE SCOTT BASEBALL NINE has sometimes been referred to by its coaches as the "hitless wonders." Last season, however, the team improved its hitting considerably. The main factor which kept Scott from being one of the outstanding baseball clubs in Essex County was that it lacked a sufficient number of experienced pitchers. To make things more difficult, Scott was faced with unusually strong competition. Almost all of the other clubs in the county had an abundance of capable battery mates and fielders.

Prospects for the season this year are much better with Len Sorge and George Woods, both men of experience, returning. Len Buggeln, with three years of varsity experience, is expected to be anchor man. Returning with these there will be Bill Balmer, who will probably hold down the catcher's berth; Ed Roskoski and Joe Cardillo in the outfield; and Sal Geraci and Joe Jorda in the infield. Through the departure of the Clark family to Point Pleasant two positions are left open, one of which will probably be filled by Jim Ward.

• GIRLS' SPORTS CONTRIBUTE to the mental and physical improvement of the individual, and are, therefore, an important factor towards establishing world peace.

Hockey, basketball, volleyball, softball, swimming, and modern dance develop the health of the girls who take part in them as well as special skills which are valuable in teamwork.

The spirit of competition is keen during the intramural and inter-school games, yet there is an overall friendliness. In sports there is no place for prejudice or discrimination; everyone has equal opportunity for participation.

• THE STUDENT COUNCIL is made up of a President and Vice-President who are elected by the entire student body, an elected representative from each home room, and the chairmen of any committees set up under the Council. The home room representatives are elected twice a year in order to give more pupils a chance to take part in the government, and to develop their mental and moral character.

There are several projects which the Student Council has undertaken which exemplify the spirit of good-will and fellowship the Council helps bring about. Two such projects are the Cheer Fund and the 'R' Party, both of which have come to be traditions of our school. The Cheer Fund is set up to bring a little comfort and cheer to those who are ill, by sending flowers, or some small gift. The 'R' Party is given to raise money for this Cheer Fund, and is designed to provide a good time for all who attend, no matter what type of entertainment they like.

Another undertaking of the Student Council is the Assembly Fund. Each year the Assembly Committee works out a plan for all the assemblies of the year, and this list includes several programs for which the school must pay. Through the Assembly Fund each student is asked to pay a small amount of money to help defray the cost of these paid assemblies. Because of this more fine programs are made available to all.

The Honor Roll which is posted at the end of each marking period is also connected with the Student Council. To date only two marking periods have been completed, but the striving for better scholarship in order to achieve this honor has already been felt.

As in the past years, Scott sent ten delegates to the Annual Convention of New Jersey Student Councils. The Council was asked to have two of these delegates take part in panel discussions. The purpose of this convention is to enable the different schools to exchange ideas, and to suggest solutions for each others' problems.

THE 1947-1948 THEATRICAL SEASON at Scott opened with the presentation on November 20 and 21 of Minick, a three-act comedy by George Kaufman and Edna Ferber. Minick concerns an old man of that name who leaves his small-town home to live with his son and daughter-in-law in Chicago. The play shows the various difficulties caused by the old man as he tries to fit into his son's life, and also includes the solution of these problems which old man Minick himself finds.

The cast was as follows: Minick—Burt Runser; Nettie, his daughter-in-law—Candy Crittenton; Fred, Minick's son—John Cummins; Lil Corey, Nettie's friend—Barbara Lancton; Marge—Dorothy Jacobs; Al, her husband—Robert McGee; Jim, Lil's husband—David Cobb; Annie, the maid—Beverly Brainard; Mr. Price—David Bagish; Mr. Dietenhoffer—Joseph Lynagh; and four club women—Jane Willis, Joan Loewen, Marianne Hirsch, Ann Gunderson.

Mr. Howard Smith, who replaced Mr. Warfield as head of the Speech and Dramatics Department, directed the play.

The student director was Robert Honsinger. Robert McCurdy was stage manager. Faculty members who aided in the production were Mr. George Binks, assistant in charge of production; Mr. Paul Herfurth, director of the orchestra; Mr. Clinton Claus, in charge of printing tickets and programs; Mr. William Whitehill, set builder; Mr. Edgar DeBolt, ticket manager; and Miss Ruth Taylor, in charge of ushers.
