The Senior Class presents...

The Tartan
1961

Clifford 8. Scott High School

MRS. GEORGE ROSS STARR

Clifford Scott students recognize Mrs. Starr as one truly devoted to public life. She has been a member of the Board of Education since March 7, 1938, a total of twenty-three years, serving as president for the last eight of these years. She is also a member of the Board of Estimate. Mrs. Starr has served with great diligence and distinction on these and other civic committees. It is largely through her work that Scott's new addition was built in 1958.

We are proud to honor Mrs. Starr for her long and distinguished career and her devotion to the cause of the public schools of East Orange.

7 reword

The editors of the 1961 Tartan have chosen "memories" as the theme of this year's annual. As one presses a flower for remembrance, so we have used motifs from nature to carry the theme through these pages. May the memories of your friends and activities as pictured here be happy and enduring.

Starr; Scott Harris; Charles C. Trelease; Robert H. Seitzer, Superintendent of Schools; Charles J. Bachman, Superintendent of Build-

MR. MELVIN C. SHUTTLESWORTH

When school began in the fall of 1960, the students of Scott High School were happy to welcome our new principal, Mr. Melvin Shuttlesworth. We were especially proud when he was awarded the Valley Forge Classroom Teachers' Medal. The medal (pictured above) is awarded by the Freedoms Foundation at Valley Forge to that classroom teacher who, in the words of the citation accompanying it, "has made a patriotic contribution to notable youth leadership in the highest tradition of our free nation."

We students salute Mr. Shuttlesworth and hope that his tenure may be a long one.

SENIOR CLASS ADVISERS
Mrs. Warbasse, Mr. Griffiths.

Jo the Class of 1961

Our sincere wish for the Class of 1961 is for your success and happiness. Success lies largely in achieving whatever you set out to do. Happiness is far more nebulous. It is a state of mind and is not necessarily dependent upon the acquirements of the goods of this world, but rather upon that inner feeling of satisfaction that comes from having acted and made decisions fairly.

In our society of individuals living closely together, thoughtfulness of the welfare of others and a genuine understanding of democracy can' $\dagger$ be learned from books. These ideals must be lived. We hope they will be a part of each one of you for the rest of your lives.

You, then, will be a credit to yourselves, your parents and your school, whether your future be humble and inconspicuous, or whether it be so outstanding that you win a Nobel prize.

BERYL W. WARBASSE

OUR TOWN

Scenes from the play Our Town were presented on December 6, 7, and 8 by the speech and dramatics students. This play depicts American life in the small New Hampshire town of Grover's Corners. The scenes were tied together by the stage manager, Mr. Chenoweth. This play, which is usually presented without scenery, was a great success.

AN EVENING WITH SHAKESPEARE

On April 13 the Scott English Department presented An Evening with Shakespeare for the P.T.A. Students from each class recited passages from Hamlet, Julius Caesar, Macbeth, The Merchant of Venice, and Romeo and Juliet. On display were examples of Elizabethan costume made by sewing classes, floor plans and elevations drawn by mechanical drawing students, and some penny sheets made by members of printing classes. The program opened with appropriate music played by members of the band and closed with a 16 th century madrigal sung by a group of voice students.

Since students planning a career in science must have a good background in mathematics, many attended the before-school calculus class. This year, with skill in mathematics thus improved, the Astronomy Club photographed the transit of Mercury across the sun using the telescope in the picture at left.

Proper procedure in the use of balances and other measuring devices is one of the first basic skills that a chemistry student must master.

The Periodic Chart of the elements becomes familiar to chemistry students. From the chart students can find the electron arrangement and the properties of the various elements. Ed Pappas is pointing out Nobelium, a man-made element whose existence is now doubtful. With him are Leota Granger, Nancy Davis, and Jim Mordus.

Biology would not be the same without guinea pigs and mice, and wounded cats and dogs. There must always be the bottles of dirty water containing amoeba and paramecia; and beans, grass, and Coleus growing in the solarium.

Field trips to the Pine Barrens of South Jersey prove not only popular but valuable and instructive to biology students.

Understanding physical sciences involves classroom study as well as laboratory work. In 1960 Mr. Griffiths organized the Advanced Physics Class, an extracurricular lecture series. Although in high school advanced study is not required, many interested students make use of the special equipment available for them. At right: Tony Scillia and Leota Granger observe the operation of a pulley system.
Below right: Karl Petersen makes a comparison of continuous barometric readings.
Below left: Glen Ramsay demonstrates the function of the Geiger counter and other radiological equipment. This specialized laboratory equipment augments the class study of physics and the interest of the student.

STUDENT COUNCIL ELECTIONS

The Student Council is an important organization of our school; therefore, the Student Council Elections, run like national elections, are a maịor yearly event.

At the conventions each party selects a candidate for the four different offices. At left: Steve Tafaro, the 196061 Student Council president, calls the Gray Party Convention to order.

The votes are tallied, and the winner is announced. At right: Steve Tafaro hands over the gavel to the newly-elected Student Council president, Jim Dyal. The other officers elected are Chris Kinum, vice-president; Diane McFall, secretary; Ann Stroppa, treasurer.

Social events are those happy occasions of ## our high school career which we long remember.

The Pigskin Hop is held each year at the close of football season. This is the time for party dresses and high heels. Above: Cliff Straub and La Verne Horn dance together.

At the Pigskin Hop the new football captain for the following year are announced. Above: Rudy Picardi, the 1960 football captain, congratulates the co-captains for 1961: Al DelTufo and Chris Kinum.

Barbara Trudenbach and Pete Barnett stroll across the bridge.

Ball sails over head of Hillside goalie for score.

In its first year of varsity competition, Scott's soccer team, coached by Ed Lyons, compiled a surprisingly successful record of 8-4. The team dropped its first three out of four games but then finished strongly, winning the last seven out of eight. Captain Red Williams was named to the All-Essex Soccer Team. Scott's fine record enabled it to participate in the state* tournament.

Coach Miller's team had a very good season. Led by the fine pitching of Dick Paddock and Bill Watson, the Scotties suffered only two losses during the entire season. This fine season was highlighted by Bill Watson's no-hit performance during the State Tournament, in which the Scotties eventually went all the way to the finals.

SCOTT ON TELEVISION

HIGHLIGHTS

In October Scott was chosen to represent a typical New Jersey school on a nationwide television program sponsored by our state educational association. This program, presented in connection with the national presidential election, was in the form of a panel show. Two speakers, one from each party, were invited to answer questions posed by the panel and audience of Scott students. The show was taped on October 14 and televised on November 5. For Scott students this was a unique and interesting experience.

1960-1961

New York Times LECTURE SERIES

Scott High, in the fall of 1960, was host to social studies teachers from all parts of Northern Jersey when the New York Times Lecture Series was held here. Every Tuesday afternoon for tè weeks distinguished members of the New York Times lectured on vital issues. Scott students helped at this series by either serving coffee to the visiting teachers or ushering them to seats in our auditorium.

". . . Ever to honor thee, Clifford Scott."
